

DEMOCRATS ARE IN SECOND WEEK OF CONVENTION

Baltimore, July 2.—A week ago today the democratic national convention met to nominate candidates for president and vice president. Today a nomination is little nearer than it was the day the convention opened. Forty-two ballots were taken up to the time adjournment was taken last night, and the leading candidate, Wilson, lacks 231 1/3 votes of a nomination. At one time during the week Clark was within 170 of the necessary two-thirds, but since then had been losing steadily. His vote on the 42nd ballot was 430 and Wilson's 494. Wilson's highest vote was reached on the 40th, 501 1/2. But before adjournment he had lost 7 1/2. Clark, who had 423 on the 40th, gained seven when the final ballot of the night was taken.

 soon will be nominated as soon as order is restored.

NAMED AT 3:15.
 Wilson was nominated at 3:15, when Pennsylvania casts its votes for him, making his total at that time 733.

STONE MAKES IT UNANIMOUS.
 When the 46th ballot had been announced, Senator Stone of Missouri moved to make the nomination of Wilson by acclamation. Wilson's nomination was made unanimous at 3:32.

Chairman James formally declared Wilson the nominee of the convention for president of the United States at 3:35 p. m.

A tremendous demonstration followed the announcement of Wilson's nomination by acclamation. Cheers after cheer swept the hall and was taken up by crowds outside.

RECESS TILL TONIGHT.
 The convention adjourned until 9 tonight, when nominations for vice president will be made and a platform adopted.

Prominently mentioned for vice president are Marshall of Indiana, Burke of North Dakota, Henry of Texas and Kern of Indiana.

JULY--FROM TWO POINTS OF VIEW

FAITHFUL ILLINOIS DELEGATION READY TO SWITCH ITS VOTE

Baltimore, July 2.—The 58 Illinois delegates, after sticking faithfully to Champ Clark through 12 ballots, cautioned last night and decided their readiness to swing from Champ Clark to Woodrow Wilson at any time within the next few ballots. It was decided by a vote of 37 to 12 1/2 not to go to Wilson until his total is a little greater.

At the time the caucus was held Wilson's total vote was 498, or 47 less than a majority. It was possible the switch would be made if Wilson reached the majority mark.

SWEEP NOMINATION SOON.
 Most of the Illinois delegates have reached a point where they are willing to vote for any candidate who can be nominated. At this time Wilson is in the lead and is the only candidate who might be aided materially by the Illinois vote.

Rivers McNeill of Evanston, a Tenth district delegate and an original Wilson man, was anxious to have the delegates turn to Wilson at once. The caucus was the second held by the Illinois delegation during the day.

In a caucus held in the morning before the convention opened, the Illinois delegates agreed not to desert Clark until something developed which would warrant it. Roger C. Sullivan was authorized to act for the delegation. The delegates left it in his hands to decide whether an arrangement should be made by which Illinois would join in a movement either for Wilson or some other candidate.

AWAIT FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS.
 The delegation caucused in the Illinois headquarters in the Belvidere hotel. Mr. Sullivan presided. Nearly all of the delegates took a hand in the discussion. None of the delegates appeared to believe they should stick to Clark in the event it became possible to nominate some one else, but most of them were of the opinion nothing had developed up to date which would make it advisable to change.

George W. Fitzhain, a delegate-at-large, inclined to the view that the time had come to swing to Wilson. He did not object seriously, however, to remaining with Clark for a few ballots to ascertain just what the prospects were for the nomination of Governor Wilson.

S. A. Rathbun of Pontiac, a Seventeenth district delegate, said he would be glad to go to Wilson whenever the word was given.

WILSON MEN ABIDE TIME.
 The original Wilson men on the delegation, of whom there are six or eight, did not make a fight to have the delegation change at once. These men took the view that nothing would be gained by starting a fight in the caucus, but that their purpose would be accomplished more easily a little later on after it had become more apparent that Clark could not be nominated. The vote to remain with Clark for the present was practically unanimous.

The caucus continued past the hour set for the convention of the session, and for the first time since the convention opened the Illinois delegates were not in their seats when it was called to order. Illinois was passed when its name was reached on the first roll call, but the delegates arrived before the roll call was finished.

HOOTS GREET BRYAN WHEN HE IS GAGGED

the police with drawn clubs. Mr. Bryan surveyed the turmoil below him, shouting orders to the police himself several times.

The iron man, who has never lost control of himself, was in a precarious position. Inflamed to the first passion he has shown during the convention—and at times he was gagged severely—Mr. Bryan stood with one arm extended toward Chairman James, but apparently he was unable to say what he desired to say.

Mr. James was waiting for him, but Mr. Bryan appeared dazed and stunned by the violence of the scene in which he was the target for the only unadmitted, homespun, everyday epithets used on the floor of the convention during the weary hours the delegates dragged along in an effort to reach a nomination.

HOWL AND HOOT AT BRYAN.
 Chairman James announced that Mr. Bryan was rising to a question of personal privilege and that he was entitled to the right to say what the question was.

Then the anti-Bryan demonstration was resumed. For 15 minutes the howls and hoots aimed at the commoner continued.

With the restoration of quiet, Mr. Bryan stepped forward on the rostrum. His voice was drowned in a torrent of yells.

Then Chairman James announced that he had permitted Mr. Bryan to announce his question of personal privilege, but that it was for the chair to decide whether the question be admitted.

BRYAN STATES HIS CASE.
 This appeared the delegates and Mr. Bryan began his statement.

"I was seated with my delegation," Mr. Bryan began, "when a banner was brought and placed in front of me. I asked those in charge of it to remove the banner, but they refused to do so. I then appealed to the chairman of the Missouri delegation.

"If it was the unauthorized act of members of the delegation I have nothing to say, but if it was done at the request or order of the chairman of the delegation, I will have a good deal to say. I want everyone to know that," Chairman James interrupted Mr.
