Mack's Sluggers Pound the Ball All Around the Polo Grounds.

TESREAU QUITS IN 7TH

Bush, Pitching for Philadelphia, Allows New Yorkers Only a Few Hits.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 9.—The Athletics won easily from the Giants this afternoon in the third game of the world's series. Of the three contests thus played Mack's team has two to its credit.

Thirty-five thousand viewed the struggle, notwithstanding the constant threat of heavy rain. A foggy field drenched by hours of hard rain, slowed up the fielding of the teams. The water had soaked through the tarpaulins during the night and a dozen ground keepers worked from dawn to game time to dry out the moisture. Gallons of gasoline were sprinkled on the base paths and the ground then carefully sanded.

Philadelphia—Fletcher threw out Murphy at first. It was a close play. Tesreau had plenty of speed and break on the ball. Oldring singled. Collins singled, Oldring going to third. Baker singled, scoring Oldring. Collins and Baker worked a double steal. McInnis fanned. McLean dropped the ball and threw him out at first. Fletcher threw Strunk's grounder wild to the grandstand, Collins and Baker scoring. Barry fled to Fletcher.

DOPE BEFORE THE BATTLE

New York, Oct. 9.—The rain had ceased this morning and prospects for fair weather for the third game of the world's baseball championship improved; although the forecast was for more rain. Followers of the Giants were optimistic today. The wonderful pitching of Mathewson yesterday and the fine way his mates rallied to his support, with a crippled team, worked wonders with the spirit of the club's followers. On the other hand, the Philadelphiaans were in no wise dismayed by the defeat of their team at Shibe park. McGraw said: "A comparison with what our opponents have left, my remaining pitching staff looks mighty good to me."

"We are not a bit discouraged," said Manager Mack. "I expect the Athletics to win." It is not to be denied that the crippling of Meyers and Merkle and the inability of Snodgrass to play his game is likely to prove a severe handicap to the Giants.

GIANT STRENGTH LESSENED

Merkle started out to hit well in the series and is an experienced first sacker, which Wiltse is not, although this fine fielding pitcher gave a splendid account of himself yesterday, saving the game for the Giants by the skillful handling of taps by Lapp and Plank in the ninth. Altogether the general batting and base running and probably the defensive strength of the Giants is lessened by inability of the trio to play. Despite the crippled team many close observers asserted the Giants would have the advantage in today's game in that McGraw had the veteran Tesreau and Demaree to rely upon, while Mack would probably be forced to resort to codd twirlers.

SULZER DOES NOT TESTIFY AT HIS TRIAL

Impeached Governor Remains Silent in Order to Protect Wife.

ARGUMENTS ARE BEGUN

Attorneys on Both Sides Allotted Five Hours in Which to Sum Up Their Case.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Final arguments in the Sulzer impeachment trial were begun today. Attorneys on each side were allotted five hours. It is believed that at the end of the arguments Friday night court will adjourn Tuesday.

Without calling either Governor Sulzer or his wife to the witness stand, his counsel yesterday rested the defense in the trial of his impeachment. According to D. Cady Herrick, chief of his attorneys, Governor Sulzer decided not to defend himself in person because he did not want to be placed in the position of shielding himself behind his wife—for it was for Mrs. Sulzer, according to the testimony, that the governor had his Wall street dealings.

Herrick said that the governor had heard from many quarters, including Washington, that "any man who would shield himself behind his wife ought to be removed."

Tomorrow and Friday will be devoted to summing up the case by the opposing counsel. Monday next being a holiday, adjournment probably will be taken to Tuesday, when it is expected, the verdict on the governor's guilt or innocence will be reached.

Friends of the governor pictured him as a man who had martyred himself for the sake of his wife. Herrick pointed out that the testimony of Allan A. Ryan that Sulzer did not wish to drag his wife into the case had disclosed the reason why the governor had not taken the stand.

The sudden closing of the case for the defense created a sensation. Governor Sulzer had said he would positively testify and tell an "astounding story," that would force Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, to take the stand in his defense also. He finally yielded, it was said, to the advice of his attorneys.

In preparing for this story as well as that expected from Mrs. Sulzer, counsel for the impeachment managers had in reserve half or a dozen more witnesses whom they had expected to put on in rebuttal. Two of these witnesses were called before court adjourned yesterday, but Judge Cullen excluded their testimony. They were George W. Egbert, a bank examiner, in charge of the books of the defunct Carnegie Trust company, and James C. Miller, an official of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York. Egbert was ready to give evidence, Attorney Kresel said, that would controvert the testimony that Mrs. Sulzer had an account in the Carnegie Trust company, or that the company had loaned the governor money on securities owned by her and deposited in that institution.

By Mr. Miller, Kresel continued, the managers proposed to show that Mrs. Sulzer had an account in the Fifth Avenue bank, "during the campaign of 1912." He learned later, out of court, that Mrs. Sulzer's balance in this institution totaled "about $200 early in October, 1912, and that it had increased to more than $4,000 by the end of the succeeding month."

Judge Cullen held that the introduction of their testimony would "inject new evidence and reopen the case."

The closing of the taking of testimony by the defense, which began only Tuesday morning, was announced by Herrick immediately after Judge Cullen had refused to admit into evidence a story of alleged graft involving Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public works, who testified early in the trial that Governor Sulzer had asked him to deny under oath that he had made a $500 campaign contribution. This story, counsel announced, they proposed to prove through John A. Hennessy, Governor Sulzer's special investigator and personal friend, who was called to the stand.

Judge Cullen refused to admit evidence to show that Duncan W. Peck, when he went on the witness stand, knew that an investigation of his department was being made, that frauds were being discovered therein, and that if the respondent remained in office Peck must go. He likewise shut out testimony by Hennessy to "prove that Sulzer has been a good governor."

The exclusion of this testimony practically placed the crux of the governor's defense on the story of Louis A. Sarecky, the governor's campaign secretary, told yesterday, in which he assumed the blame for the governor's failure to report his campaign contributions.

Early Trial Assured for Tango Teacher's Slayer

Mrs. Mildred Allison Rexroat.

An early trial in Dupage county, Illinois, for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison Rexroat, Chicago tango teacher, is promised Henry Spencer, her confessed slayer. Spencer's admission of the Rexroat crime is substantiated by evidence, although the remainder of his twenty or more confessed murders are believed to be the dreams of a man obsessed by that form of insanity known as "airstrip," a delusion described as penitentiary insanity.

against Sulzer, a bitter attack on the testimony of Duncan Peck, and a picture of the governor as a man of integrity, but of poor business ability, marked the first of the arguments, delivered by Louis Marshall.

PRESIDENT SEES ARMY ON PARADE

Two Thousand Cavalrymen Pass in Review Before Cabinet Members at Capitol.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—Trotting down from the Virginia hills overlooking Washington, 2,000 khaki-clad cavalrymen invaded Washington today to pass in review before President Wilson and military attaches of foreign embassies and legations. The review was planned to illustrate the great advance in cavalry tactics. The men, fresh from camp in Fort Meyer, constituted the strongest regular mounted force of the army that had passed before a president since the close of the civil war.

The center of the maneuvers, which were arranged to follow the march in review, was a stand in Potomac park, especially constructed for the president, who was invited to share it with Secretary Garrison and other members of the cabinet, Major General Leonard Wood, heads of various bureaus of the war department and members of the house and senate military affairs committees. Great crowds thronged the river front.

The brigade, which will be disbanded tomorrow and sent to different posts, included a squadron from Fort Sheridan, Ill.

MISSIONARIES ARE NEAR SKELETONS

Norwegian Workers in China Hide for Days, With Families, in Straw Stack.

Pekin, China, Oct. 9.—Some harrowing experiences of missionaries who fell into the hands of Chinese brigades at Tsouyang are told in a dispatch from Rev. Christian Stokstad of the Hagan Norwegian mission. Government troops found two missionaries, Rev. George Holm and Rev. E. Fauske and their families, merely living skeletons. For ten days they were hidden under heaps of straw, according to Stokstad. The first three days they were without water and long periods without food. The bandits searched the hiding place and thrust bayonets through the straw, grazing the limbs of those beneath. When the brigands discovered the fugitives were women and children they treated them well. The leaders finally became frightened and fled.

REFUGEES TO QUIT U. S.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—With the decision of John Bassett Moore, acting secretary of state, that the United States is not under international obligation to furnish an asylum at Eagle Pass for Mexican refugees who are non-combatants, the problem of dealing with the thousands, mostly women and children, who have sought safety in the Texas town passed to the immigration bureau of the department of labor for solution. The task will not be difficult, officials said last night, as the Mexican federal commander at Piedras Negras had announced that all non-combatants might return to the captured rebel stronghold without danger from the federal forces now holding it.

The latter telegraphed that the news dispatches reporting Jebson's release were unconfirmed officially and the "state department had directed the consul at Guaymas to report, using every means to have him set free."

At Jebson's office a telegram was received from his agent at Guaymas which read: "Jebson consigned district magistrate Mazatlan. Leaves today gunboat Morelos."
