Captain of Rescuing Ship Sends Further Details of Disaster.

ORDER WRECKAGE SUNK

British Cruiser Sent From the Scotland Coast to Destroy Blazing Derelict.

On board Grosse Kurfurt, at sea, wireless Cape Race—With 105 survivors on board the Volturmo, burned at the water's edge in a gale in mid-Atlantic, and abandoned Friday, the Grosse Kurfurt is approaching New York. Passengers and crew of the Volturmo witnessed a thrilling scene for when they arrived in the vicinity of the Volturmo they found the Volturmo burning entirely. Crew and passengers were helpless in the heavy seas. It was learned by wireless from the burning vessel that the flames were started by an explosion in the forward hold at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, ship's time. Upon the arrival of the Kurfurt the flames were leaping 80 feet in the air through the hatchways. Steerage passengers were killed by the explosion and fire. Six boats were lowered immediately afterwards from the Volturmo's davits. Three of them, still empty, smashed against the vessel's side, one with 40 passengers, capsized while being launched, and all were lost.

SECOND EXPLOSION.

Two others, with from 60 to 80 on board, got away, but apparently were lost in the mountainous seas. The Carmania was the first of 12 liners to reach the scene in answer to the wireless. During the day time the flames in the hold were kept more or less under control, but about 9 o'clock Thursday night the fire reached the coal bunkers, and it was found necessary to close the bulkheads. Flumes were unable to work at full pressure and the flames broke out through the entire forward part of the vessel. At 9:40 Thursday night another explosion on the Volturmo caused panic among passengers and crew. Three boats of the Kurfurt rescued 32 persons washed into the sea. All those remaining on board the Volturmo were crowded together at the after end of the vessel and taken off safely after daybreak Friday. Second Officer Lloyd of the Volturmo, one of the heroes, fell 20 feet while repairing the wireless apparatus on board his vessel, continued to fight the fire all day, and at 7 o'clock in the evening made a perilous trip to the Kurfurt in a small boat with three others from the Volturmo. The little craft, sinking, was picked up by life boats from the Kurfurt. The total saved is believed to be 523.

New York, Oct. 13.—The North German Lloyd line today received the following wireless from Captain Spangenberg of the Grosse Kurfurt:

"Volturmo was found in a total burning condition. The fire commenced with a heavy explosion in the bow, resulting in the death of several passengers and crew. Eleven vessels surrounded the Volturmo, a heavy northwest storm and high seas prevailed. Two boats from the Grosse Kurfurt remained in the water all night, but it was almost impossible to approach the wreck. During the night 32 persons were saved by the two boats and at dawn 68 more. One of the Volturmo's boats containing five men was picked up and the men taken aboard immediately after the rescue. The total saved by all ships was 523. About one hundred are missing.

"Although the total saved by the Grosse Kurfurt is given as 105, this classified list of rescued accounts for but 104. When we left the Carmania and La Touraine were searching for the two Volturmo boats full of passengers, but success was improbable. Almost all of the Volturmo's boats were smashed by the seas when lowered. The wreck is drifting and dangerous to shipping. We continued our voyage after losing 24 hour."

COMMANDER'S LAST MESSAGE.

London, Eng., Oct. 13.—The message received by the Carmania from Commander Inch of the doomed Volturmo, before he abandoned the burning vessel, follows:

"Cannot something be done to help us? We must abandon this ship. Her plates are buckling. Stand close by, as I may have to jump for it."

Inch handed this to the wireless operator of the Volturmo just before he was driven out of his room by the flames. Shortly after the Volturmo was a raging furnace.

The British cruiser Donegal was despatched today from the west coast of Scotland to destroy the blazing derelict, Volturmo.

SURVIVOR TELLS STORY.

Arthur Spurgeon, a passenger on the Carmania, in a wireless dispatch, supplements his own description of the trip of the Carmania to the burning

Noted Suit, Following Accidental Killing by Banker, Settled at Lovington.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 13.—The noted Foster-Shepherd damage suit, based on the killing of Ralph Foster by Homer Shepherd at Lovington four years ago, and which dragged in the courts since, has just been settled. Foster was mistaken for a burglar. The suit cost over $20,000.

COURT PREPARES SULZER VERDICT

Findings of Impeachment Body at Albany May Be Made Known Tomorrow.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The court of impeachment convened at 3 this afternoon to render a verdict of guilt or innocence on Governor Sulzer.

A verdict in the impeachment trial will not be reached before Tuesday, was the general impression today. It was rumored that Senator Abraham J. Palmer of Milton, to whom Mrs. Sulzer told her story after the governor was impeached, would ask that the case be reopened and the two be invited to testify. The senator denied, however, that he had any such intention. He has insisted several times since the trial started that the whole truth of the governor's transactions had not been told.

Immured within the executive mansion, the governor silently awaits the verdict of the court. It is impossible for any one to see him. All of today he remained within the house with Mrs. Sulzer and Patsy, his pet dog, as his sole companions.

Opinions regarding the possible result of the vote are greatly at variance.

His friends say he is sure of at least 20 votes—enough to prevent his removal. But those opposed to him refuse to concede him more than eight.

STANLEY WATERLOO, OLD CHICAGO WRITER, PASSES

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 13.—Stanley Waterloo, newspaper writer, author and the most peculiar genius in that home of geniuses, the Press club of Chicago, died of pneumonia at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night in the Union Hospital, where he was taken a little more than a week ago. It had been thought he was improving in condition when a sudden change Saturday preceded his end. His death removed from the circle of Chicago authors one of its leaders. Mr. Waterloo was known at the Press club as the possessor of the most amazing collection of facts on various subjects of any living man and seemed to possess a wizard-like faculty for marshaling his information to bear upon a given point. Of medium height, stout, with but one eye because of an accident sustained while breaking a vicious colt, he was a familiar figure at the club.

Mr. Waterloo's principal literary work among several thousand short stories and half a score of novels was "The Story of Ab," a tale dealing with prehistoric man, which was so precise in its information that it gained recognition as a work of scientific value.

His wife, formerly Anna "Itton, whom he married in 1874, died more than a year ago, and since that time, while residing on the North Side, he has made his home practically at the Press club. The couple had no children.

ARREST MADE IN MURDER OF RICH CITIZEN

Shoemaker at Champaign Held by Police in Con- nection With Case.

BODY IN A CORNFIELD

William Larry, Bachelor Mer- chant, Worth $100,000 or More, Is the Victim.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 13.—Charles Phipps, a shoemaker, was arrested today in connection with the case of William Larry, a wealthy Urbana bachelor, believed murdered for his money.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 13.—The body of William Larry, a wealthy merchant and farmer of this place, was found yesterday morning in a cornfield on the outskirts of the town. He had been murdered.

Three bullet holes were found in his head. Two had passed through his hat. The location of the wounds dispelled any theory of suicide. The place around where the body lay showed signs of a struggle.

Beneath his body was found an old-fashioned revolver, which friends say did not belong to Larry. They say he never owned a revolver. The number of the weapon, however, is regarded as a valuable clue to the identity of the murderer by the police.

Larry is supposed to have had $1,200 with him when slain. He had sold a site to the government for a federal building on Saturday. He received $12,000 for the property. Elated over the sale, he displayed the bills and boasting told friends shortly he expected to collect $1,200 more from persons in his debt. Later, it is said, he obtained the money.

The murdered man was an eccentric character. He seldom carried less than $1,000 about with him and laughed at the apprehensions of relatives, who had long predicted the fate he met Saturday night.

He created a furore recently by tearing down the only house in this city that had sheltered Abraham Lincoln and selling the bricks to relic hunters at astonishing prices.

Larry was 38 years old and a bachelor. He was reputed to be worth between $50,000 and $100,000.

Nicolas Larry, a Champaign attorney, has offered a large reward for the apprehension of the murderers.

HOWDY!

TIM WOODRUFF IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Lieutenant Governor of New York Succumbs to Paralysis.

New York, Oct. 13.—Timothy L. Woodruff, former lieutenant governor of New York state, died at 9:15 o'clock last night. He had been in a critical condition for nearly two weeks after having been stricken with paralysis while addressing a progressive party rally in this city. He was 55 years old.

Timothy Lester Woodruff, lieutenant governor of New York for three terms (1897-1903), was born at New Haven, Conn., on Aug. 4, 1858. His parents died when he was 10 years old. He prepared for college at Phillips Exeter academy, and after being graduated from Yale in 1878, took a business course at the Eastman college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Woodruff became a clerk for a year, and in 1881 he entered the firm of Nash, Whiton & Co., now the Worcester Salt company, of which he was treasurer. Mr. Woodruff rapidly increased his interests in various business activities, both in America and abroad.

Mr. Woodruff took up his residence in Brooklyn in the spring of 1881 and entered politics in the same year, when he joined the Brooklyn Young Men's Republican club. At the republican national convention in 1908 Mr. Woodruff made the speech nominating the late James Schoolcraft Sherman for vice president.

Concerning his nominations for lieutenant governor, Mr. Woodruff once said:

"I was glad of it the first time. The second time I was indifferent about it. The third time I was dragged into it against my will. I accepted because I had to."

Mr. Woodruff wrested the control of the republican organization in Kings county from Jacob Worth in 1897 and hung on to it for many years, although he had his trials and tribulations.

Mr. Woodruff had many bitter rows with Benjamin B. Odell, and when the ex-governor lost his grip Mr. Woodruff became chairman of the New York state republican committee in 1906, holding fast to the position for four years.

In 1911 Mr. Woodruff handed over the republican leadership in Kings county to Naval Officer F. J. H. Kracke, after enjoying that honor for 14 years. He moved to Manhattan, but the following year he again took up his residence in Brooklyn. He soon got into the swing of things, and in March, 1912, he was formally reinstated as leader of Kings.

There was consternation in the regular republican ranks during a preliminary session of the 1912 republican national convention by the announcement, authorized by Theodore Roosevelt, that Mr. Woodruff, head of the Kings county delegation, had decided not to support William H. Taft, but would support the colonel. It was not long before Mr. Woodruff openly declared that he was with Colonel Roosevelt.

Mr. Woodruff owned a magnificent estate in the Adirondacks, which he called Kamp Kill Kare. It comprises nearly 2,500 acres and adjoins estates owned by Alfred Vanderbilt and the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

UNDERWOOD GETS HOBSON SCORING

House Leader Charged With False Pretenses in His Can- didacy at Baltimore.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—In the house today Hobson hotly attacked the senatorial campaign of Leader Underwood when he charged that his support on Underwood's candidacy at the Baltimore convention was obtained by "false pretenses." Hobson himself is a candidate in the present Alabama contest. He charged Underwood was a "tool of Wall street and the liquor interests." Underwood was loudly cheered by democrats and republicans when he arose to answer Hobson.

"Did you charge directly I was a tool of Wall street or of the liquor interests?" Underwood demanded.

"I said you were a dummy," Hobson replied, "and as a dummy you had been used and could be used again."

Hobson referred to a conference on the tariff bill which struck out the Pomerene amendment requiring full revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines. He charged that in agreeing to that, Underwood consented to let more than seven millions to "rest in the pockets of the liquor interests."

After explaining the history of the amendment, Underwood turned to answer Hobson's general charge which brought in the name of Thomas Fortune Ryan as having contributed $25,000 to Underwood's presidential campaign.

"Is there any other man in this chamber who believes the charge I have been a tool of Wall street?" he demanded.

"No, no," shouted members on both sides.

Underwood said Ryan made a contribution to his campaign fund without asking any question whatever. "There is not a single candidate for president of any party," continued Underwood, "whose campaign is not financed in part at least by wealthy men of New York."

When Underwood concluded the house cheered him loudly, and the row seemed over.

$300,000 FIRE IN STATE'S CAPITAL

Business Section of Springfield, Threatened, Saved by Six- Story Wall.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—Losses estimated conservatively at $300,000 were caused early yesterday by fire of unknown origin which destroyed the new four-story building at the southwest corner of Seventh and Adams streets, occupied by the Johnson & Hatcher department store, swept through the adjoining buildings on the west, and threatened to burn the entire business district. The flames were controlled only after a desperate fight.

The six-story fire wall on the east side of the John Bressmer & Co. building saved the business district. Fifty men manned the Bressmer building windows fighting the fire below from that vantage point. The building losses are:

St. Mendenhall building, occupied by Johnson & Hatcher Co., $50,000, insurance, $34,000.

James T. Jones building, four stories; first floor occupied by O. B. Caldwell's wall paper store; other floors by the Johnson-Hatcher Co.; $15,000; insurance, $10,000.

Myers Brothers four-story building, occupied by the Menter Co., clothiers, first floor; other floors by the Johnson-Hatcher Co., loss $15,000; insurance $7,500.

HUERTA GETS WARNING ON LATEST COUP

United States Watching Treatment of Deputies Now Under Arrest.

WILSON SENDS A NOTE

Charge O'Shaughnessy Ordered to Make Known Feeling of Officials at Washington.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—After a conference between Secretary Bryan and President Wilson today it was announced at the White house that telegrams had been dispatched to John Lind at Vera Cruz, and Charge O'Shaughnessy at the Huerta government that the United States would look with displeasure upon any injury to Mexican deputies now under arrest.

It has been left entirely to Lind's discretion whether he shall return to Mexico City and impress those views on the Mexican authorities, but O'Shaughnessy is directed to address himself to the minister of foreign relations and make it plain that the United States attaches the "gravest importance" to the arrest of deputies and is keenly interested in what is to be their fate.

HOPE OF FAIR ELECTION GONE.

President Wilson told callers today that with the present state of affairs he could not see how a constitutional election could be held in Mexico. As far as the immediate policy of the United States is concerned, it was made plain by the president there would be no departure from the original position that Mexicans should settle their own affairs.

There was no plans today for an increase of American warships in Mexican waters. The government here has practically abandoned all hopes of seeing an election or treating any further with Huerta as an individual.

FIGHTING IS CONTINUED.

Laredo, Texas, Oct. 13.—Fighting between federal and constitutionalists, began Friday 68 miles south of Laredo, continued today, according to reports. Sixty-five wounded were brought to Nuevo Laredo yesterday. Nothing has been heard since Saturday from 300 refugees, mostly Americans, enroute here from Torreón. They were then at Rodriguez.

COURT IN A VISIT TO MURDER CAVE

Aunt of Boy Yushinsky Quoted as Saying That "His Own People Killed Him."

Kiev, Russia, Oct. 13.—The entire court engaged in the trial of Mendel Belles for the murder of the boy, Andrew Yushinsky, was transferred temporarily today to the cave in which the boy's body was found. Judges, jury and counsel were driven through brickyards where Belles had been employed and in the vicinity of where the body was discovered. The first witness was Lobjansky, who testified he heard Yushinsky's aunt, Natalie, who has since died of tuberculosis, say: "His own people killed him." This remark, according to the witness, was made before the arrival of the authorities at the cave and before the character of the wounds in the boy's body was ascertained. Lobjansky added that Yushinsky's uncle, Theodore Nejnisky, had visited a cafe April 1, 19 days after the crime, when he seemed excited. His overcoat was splashed with clay. A boy gave evidence that he had brushed and cleaned Nejnisky's coat that day.
