FOOL FRIENDS.

Bob Ingersoll discourses thusly: Nothing hurts a man, nothing hurts a party so terribly as fool friends.

A fool friend is a sewer of bad news, of slander, and all base and unpleasant things.

A fool friend always knows every mean thing that has been said against you and against your party.

He always knows where the party is losing, and the other is making large gains.

He always tells you of the good luck your enemy has had.

He implicitly believes every story against you, and kindly suspects your defense.

A fool friend is always full of stupid candor.

He is so candid that he always believes the statements of an enemy.

He never suspects anything on your side.

Nothing pleases him like being shocked by horrible news concerning some good man.

He never denies a lie unless it is in your favor.

He is always finding fault with his party, and is continually begging pardon for not belonging to the other side.

He is frightfully anxious that all of his candidates should stand well with the opposition.

He is forever seeing the faults of his party and the virtues of the other.

He generally shows his candor by scratching his ticket.

He always scratches every nook and corner of his conscience to find a reason for deserting a friend or a principle.

In a moment of victory he is magnanimously on your side.

In defeat he consoles you with prophecies made after the event.

The fool friend regards your reputation as common property, and as common prey for all the vultures, hyenas and jackals.

He takes a sad pleasure in your misfortunes.

He forgets his principles to gratify your enemies.

He forgives your slanderer and maligner with all his heart.

He is so friendly that you cannot kick him.

He generally talks for you, but always bets the other way.

SOLID FOR HANCOCK.

Consider what Lee and Jackson would do were they alive. THESE ARE THE SAME PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH THEY FOUGHT FOUR YEARS. Remember the men who poured forth their life blood on Virginia's soil, and do not abandon them now. Remember that upon your vote depends the success of the Democratic ticket.—[Wade HAMPTON, at Staunton, Va., July 28.]

THE SOUTH MUST RULE.

I am as positive that Hancock will be elected as I am that there is a God in the heavens. You say that he is a Yankee. Well, I know that; and I know, too, that his sword has pierced the breast of many a gallant man in gray. But what are we to do? We can not put in one of our own men this time, and have to take a Yank. That being the case, let us take one who is less blue-bellied than the most of them. You may depend upon it, sir, that Yank or no Yank, if elected the old boys of the South will see that Hancock does the fair thing by them. In other words, he will run the machine to suit them, or they will run the thing themselves. They are not going to be played with any longer. If you hear any man say that Hancock cannot carry all of the South, you may put him down as a d—fool.—[Robert Toombs' letter to a friend in Washington.]

The Boston Traveller says of the Maine election: The fury of the hour is over, and the sober, second thought of the country will ask—what this explosion means? It will soon be recognized that the furor and fanaticism which assailed reumption unsuccessfully, has rallied and shook hands with bourbonism in the joint rush for power. The business interests of New York, where the real battle is, after all, to be fought, will not be slow to interpret the true import of this greenback revival. Alarmed and aroused, the commercial interests of the nation will surely and effectively come to the rescue. The triumph of the greenback allies in Maine, if we mistake not will be the signal for the rallying of the reserve force to the republican standard, which otherwise might have remained in the back ground and permitted the final verdict to go by default.

Mr. Gilmore, Land Commissioner of the Kansas Pacific, has approved applications from the sufferers by drought for 55,000 bushels of seed wheat, and has sent out nearly 30,000 bushels. The wheat is going at the rate of ten or fifteen car loads a day. The rains in Central and Western Kansas have put the soil in fine condition for the seed, and the railroad company will no doubt never have reason to regret this exhibition of generosity.

All the old settlers in New Mexico agree in the belief that this is the most propitious fall for all pastoral purposes, that the territory has been blessed with. The cattle and sheep will enter the winter with an abundance of flesh, and the probabilities are that wool will bring a good price next year; so the outlook is excellent.

A reunion of the Smith family was held at Peapack, New Jersey, last Wednesday. Three thousand descendants of the sturdy Hollander John Schmidt, were there and, strange to say, there wasn't a plain John in the crowd. The nearest approach was a swell who called himself John Dayton Smith.

A Boston believer in Bob Ingersoll says: If a man smites you on one cheek turn to him the other and smack him over the head with whatever comes handy.
