Christians have for centuries been discussing the various doctrines taught by Jesus in the gospels, and among them that of The Kingdom of Heaven or Kingdom of God. Is it already set up? If so what is it? And where is it? Many believe it to be the place of the blessed after death, a place far beyond the clouds, where God resides and rules with Jesus and the Holy Spirit, three persons in one God, seated upon one throne and ruling the whole universe. This throne is to be surrounded by vast multitudes of Christians redeemed by the blood of Christ from this evil world, and they are to forever continue to worship and praise God and sing songs of His redeeming love.

But there are others who believe that the church is what is meant by this kingdom, and that the church members are the subjects of this kingdom, that the time is coming when every living person will be converted and join the church and that Jesus will reign through the church for a thousand years. What after that is to take place has not yet been decided on. Nor has it been decided what church is to be triumphant or whether they are all to be reorganized and given a share in the government.

But another class of Christians simplify the whole business by quoting Luke 17:21: "Neither shall they say, lo here! nor lo there! for, behold the kingdom of God is within you." In the Greek the word "behold" is the same as is translated twice in the verse "lo." This verse is quoted as teaching that Jesus taught that the kingdom of God was a state of feeling, a mental condition, a happy state of mind and that it was to have no outward manifestation, no outward show. The word "kingdom" implies a plurality, and is similar to the words order, society, association or flock, and it would seem very absurd to say that the masonic order was in any one person or that the temperance society was in any one person or that a flock of pigeons were all concentrated in any one pigeon. On the same principle it would be absurd to say that the kingdom of God was in any one person. On examining the above text it will be seen to teach nothing of the kind. There is nothing to show that the word "say" does not govern to the end of the verse. Jesus meant, "Neither shall they say, lo here! nor lo there! for behold the kingdom of God is within you." If he had meant to teach the other it should have read, "Neither shall they say, lo here! nor lo there! for I say to you the kingdom of God is within you."

All this stupidity has been brought about by not understanding that Jesus was a teacher of social science, and that the kingdom of Heaven or kingdom of God is a social condition. It is our ideal of a perfect social condition. A people ruled justly and rightly. It is a social condition in which righteousness or right doing is the order of the day.

Jesus taught his disciples to pray, "Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." What is this but a prayer for a just and righteous government? Then he admonishes them to "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all other things will be added unto you." Seek to establish, pray for the establishment of, the kingdom of God and his righteousness. Help to establish a good and just government on earth. Under just conditions every person could make a living easily. Poverty is the result of unjust social conditions, conditions in which men are treated worse than the brutes. "The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests but the son of man hath not where to lay his head." This is the condition of about 40,000,000 of our population today. Let us pray for the removal of this unjust condition. Let us seek for its removal and work for its removal.

Jesus taught that the kingdom of God was to be like the shining of the light from the east unto the west. It is to be a work of education and enlightenment. You are not to hunt for it in the wilderness or in empty garrets or under beds or in people's hearts or heads or stomachs. It is to be like the light of the rising sun. You will not have to say to your neighbor, look here! or look there for it, or it is in your inside. The kingdom of God is the elevation of the masses to a higher social plane and the establishment of just social conditions.

Paul says, "The kingdom of heaven is not meats and drinks, but righteousness and peace and joy in the holy ghost." The kingdom of heaven is a social condition of righteousness and justice, and peace—no need of war; war is the result of bad rule. Joy in the Holy Ghost—the people will all be joyful and happy.

They only know what was the matter and how to correct these wrongs, but they are too ignorant and too indifferent to inform themselves. They pray for everything else they can think of. They pray for God to take them to heaven when they die, but do not imagine that they themselves are responsible for the unjust conditions here which are causing so much human misery and crime.

Truly, truly a man does have to be born again—made over again, before he can see these things in their true light. He must have all his old teachings drummed out of him and his eyes must be opened before he can see the truth of these simple things. The kingdom of God is like leaven, or like a mustard seed. It is simply a growth in civilization. It can only be brought to us by the education of the masses of mankind in the true principles of right.

Taking Their Own Medicine.
Ottawa Journal.
There are 50,000 republicans in Kansas today who are a feed of roast beef would be a surprise, and who have not a decent suit of clothes to their name. They have stuck by their cursed party until their elbows are sticking through their coats and their toes are through their shoes, and their hair through their hats and every day the sheriffs are sticking some of them off their farms. Their relation to their party is like that of the drunkard to the whisky bottle, and the result is the same. A good many of them are getting a dose of their own medicine.

The Note of Black in Dress.

A note black continues to be recognized as giving a striking effect to many light gowns; often a large black hat covered with nodding black plumes is worn with a white or pale-tinted organza, and a bunch of roses, violets, or yellow primroses is added to match the gown. Sashes and stock collars of black satin ribbon are seen with gowns of pink lawn, yellow dotted Swiss, or primrose-colored organza; and again only a girle and a smart bow at the side will be black, while the stock-collar will be of pink chiffon.—From "Review of Fashions," in Demorest's Magazine for August.
