The Texas Company.

Manager Cain has been fortunate in securing the Texas Company for the decoration of his patrons, Monday Sept. 23 and 24. This play is highly spoken of by the press and the company is well balanced and give the Star a very creditable support as the play has never been seen here we publish the following extract:

A large audience was at Greenwell's opera house last night to witness the performance of "Texas," or "The Siege of the Alamo" a play founded upon a great historical event in the war between Texas and Mexico, which every Texan and every school boy in the state is familiar with. The story of the play is in harmony with the accounts of the capture of the Alamo and the massacre of Bowie, Crockett and their brave band of Texas pioneers, the dramatist having waxed historical events only a little bit in order to produce a desired effect. "Texas" is a play that every patriotic Texan and every school child in the state should witness.

The orchestra is the best heard in Fort Worth this season and the band must be heard to be appreciated. Miss Maude Sutton is a clever and beautiful little soubrette and at once danced her way into the hearts of the audience. The specialties were all good, Messrs. LaRose and Scott, musical artists, being one of the many strong features of the show.—Fort Worth Gazette, Dec. 9th, 1894.

The Hidden Life.

Deep down beneath the billows angry sweep, Beyond the fury of the raging sea, There is a world of silent mystery. There coral mountains lift their hoary heads, And sea shells lie in glowing amber beds, And all is wrapt in deep eternal sleep. Deep beneath the world's distress and pain, Beyond the fury of the ceaseless storm, To noble souls there is eternal calm, There fancy sits in bright illumed eyes And hoards the treasures of the stormy waves, And quiet truth and beauty ever reign.
