Dramatic Scene in Court. The scene just before the appointed time for the court's convening was intensely dramatic. Easily the most picturesque scene in the history of the trial was the entrance of the defendants to the courtroom. Ryan, the head of a union of 12,000 members sat in the last row of the defendants' seats, having changed his position from a point near a table once occupied by the McNamara brothers.

THE NAUCURAL

Program for January 13 Been Arranged.

New State Officers Sworn in at Noon That Day.

EXPECT SOME 5,000 VISITORS

Democrats Plan Parade and Big Ceremonies

When Gov. Hodges Takes Seat in State House.

Planning to entertain 5,000 to 6,000 out of town Democrats in Topeka, Monday, January 13, the executive committee in charge of the inaugural ceremonies propose to make the inauguration of Governor-elect George H. Hodges the biggest event of the kind in Kansas in 15 years.

Most of the details for the inaugural ceremonies were announced today by L. M. Penwell, chairman of the executive committee. Prominent among the features are the parade immediately preceding the noon day inauguration and the public reception in the state house.

Both Democrats, Republicans and Progressives will ride in the inaugural parade. Governor Stubbs and his successor will ride in the parade as will also J. N. Dolley, chairman of the Republican state central committee, and Henderson S. Martin, chairman of the Democratic committee. One of the big features of the parade will be the military display arranged and provided by Adjutant General Charles L. Martin. There will be military bands, companies of infantry and cavalry and officers of the national guard, General Martin and his staff and the governor's personal staff. Carriages will be provided for officers of the various state departments, for the national committee and leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties in Kansas.

Missing in the inaugural parade will be the open carriage. Of the two score conveyances arranged for the officers and invited guests, only closed affairs must ride in closed carriages or walk.

All participants in the inaugural parade will meet at the Throop hotel—Democratic headquarters—at 10:30 the morning of Monday, January 13. At 11 o'clock the parade will start south on Kansas avenue to Tenth avenue, then west to Van Buren street. It is planned to have the parade arrive at the state house grounds in ample time for the inaugural ceremonies at noon.
