

HAYS 30 YEARS AGO

June 6, 1891
Bishop E. S. Thomas of Kansas, will be here and preach in Masonic Hall on Sunday morning, June 14th, at 11 o'clock.

Now that it seems assured that we are to have an immense wheat crop, our machinery men are kept busy selling headers. Every two farmers have out enough wheat to keep a header busy and hands are very scarce to help gather the crop that is promised.

An open air service will be held tomorrow (Sunday) at 7:15 p. m. near the Post Office. Rev. T. B. Hughes will preach. This service will be followed by a Special Gospel service at the Baptist church. Mrs. Hughes will sing two solos. All are kindly invited.

June 13, 1891
Hugh Irwin had his pension increased to $17 per month.

Mr. and Mrs. Averill left for home this week. Birdie McLain accompanied them for a visit.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Aid Society will meet next Thursday at 7 p. m. with Mrs. Geo. Philip.

Mrs. G. M. Eastman returned home on Thursday, from her eastern trip. She is pleased to be back again to Hays City.

Tomorrow morning is Children's Day in the Presbyterian church, and the morning services will be devoted to their exercises. All citizens are invited to attend.

Notice is hereby given that the second half of the taxes are due and must be paid by June 20th, after which date the penalty is added.

John Adkins,
County Treasurer.

We regret to announce that Prof. Reed is to leave us, having secured the principalship of one of the Salina schools.

Among those from the west end of the county attending the picnic we found the only man talked of as the name they would present as a candidate was John Gerkin for Sheriff. He is a farmer north of Ellis and is now running the Ellis Creamery. He is of German descent and has lived here many years.

Talking about a candidate for sheriff, a man with marriageable daughters says that his house is a regular court house every Saturday night and oftener.

Dr. Righter reports a bouncing big new boy at Henry Meyers', this week.

This is the last month of extreme "hard times" for our farmers. Next month they will be hauling the golden grain to market and jingling gold coin in their pockets. The crop of small grain this year promises to be the largest ever raised in this state, and it will doubtless command good prices.

June 20, 1891

Harvest hands will command good wages and plenty of work in this section this year.

John Adkins, county treasurer, has arranged to be in Ellis with his books Monday, June 22.

Men who want to be candidates should be sure that some friend presents their name in time.

Jim Robinson has moved back to his red barn in the west end of town, added some new stylish turnouts to his livery and can now give you the best in the city.

One of the curious signs of the times is that every politician who happens to own an acre of ground has suddenly developed an intense longing to be known as a farmer, and it is said that some of these individuals are actually spending much time standing barheaded in the sunshine in order to tan their complexions into keeping with their possessions; all of which is a flattering acknowledgment of the rapidly increasing power of the farmers' organizations in this country.

Rev. Hughes again held his outdoor services last Sunday evening near the post office, which was very largely attended. Remember and go tomorrow evening at 7:30 sharp, as all are invited.

Dr. Snyder is playing havoc with the cats in his neighborhood. He raises nice chickens and very properly doesn't intend to have them eaten by prowling cats.

Both mills were running again Monday—a pleasing sight. Both have made needed repairs, and are ready to handle the immense crop. What has become of the new mill project? Did the old mill men succeed in bucking it off?

Mrs. Hyer and son have returned from their trip east.

June 27, 1891

McDonald of Lookout, is again unfortunate, having had his horse killed by lightning.

Frank Zeigler has moved to one of the Leahy properties.

As announced some time ago, the G. A. R. men have moved to the north store room of the Brunswick block, and will hold their meetings there.

On July 4th, in the afternoon and evening, the ladies of the Relief Corps will serve ice cream, cake and lemonade, to which all are cordially invited.

Out on the Saline the cattle men are quarrelling and some one had Will Bemis arrested for running his wire fence across a piece of government land. At the trial it was shown to Prosecutor Ady that it was an unused, rough canyon, done to get around some rough draws, not to injure or discommode anyone, and the case will be dismissed.

From the Saline Valley

All quiet on the Saline.

Vegetation is booming.

Good gardens this year.

Wheat never looked better.

The farmers are all ready to harvest their grain.

King's apple orchard is a sight worth seeing.

More rain, more rest, but oh! the weeds, how they grow.

The plum crop is doing nicely.

Peaches have nearly doubled in size the past week.

Our alliances are prosperous and members enthusiastic for the People's party and the fall fight.

The mosquitos are presenting their bills now. Suppose the printer will present his next, and maybe we can pay with taters.

The man with 500 or more bushels of 75 cent wheat to sell this fall will experience no difficulty from a scarcity of money.

Art Department

The Art Department has its usual summer overflow. Almost every student is carrying a box of materials.

The work is being made very practical. Art projects are given that may be used in the school room—rural or city.

The decided interest shown in Art is very encouraging. The work is far reaching.

The rural or city teacher who brings art work into the school room has a far reaching influence. This study creates an interest that usually results in departmental work being done in this subject.

Very few subjects are not influenced by visualization, and art teaches the students to see things.

No doubt the two hundred twenty art students will find beauties in nature never realized before.—Leader.

Girls' Bungalow

The little brown bungalow on Juniata Street has been opened again as a dormitory to accommodate girls who have come in for summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruner of Lakin, are in charge of the building. The Normal made the repairs necessary and fitted up the place so that thirty or thirty-five girls can live there comfortably. A telephone is to be installed soon. Some of the rooms are arranged for light housekeeping, and the large enclosed porch makes a cool and comfortable study place.

First Called "Vertical Railway."

It was not until the early '70s that the "vertical railway" was introduced in England, the first "lift" being installed in Albert hall and to ride in this the passengers were required to pay a fee of 1 penny. Today, the "lift" is nothing like so common in Europe as the "elevator," which is our name for the thing, in the United States. One reason for this is that the United States is the birthplace of the skyscraper, and high buildings, as building heights are measured in America, are infrequent in Europe.

The impossible.
A Kansas judge says a minimum length of courtship should be fixed by law to prevent hasty marriages. The judge may know a lot about law and the power of the courts and what ought to be done to regulate society, but it's a cinch he doesn't know much about the impossibility of preventing from getting married two people who have made up their minds to marry.

Whole Truth About Genius.

A great idea grows like a flower. It changes. In its evolution it leaves crudity and imperfection behind. It assumes a new form, more pleasing in its outline and more striking in its beauty, as it is molded into a thing of deathless energy. An idea which is different to all else is a thing of wonder—if it is true. It is original thought, and this is all that genius is.

"As Short as it is Violent."

"Woman's grief is like a summer storm, short as it is violent." The foregoing quotation is credited to Joanna Baillie, a Scotch dramatist and poet. She wrote "Plays on the Passions," in which she delineates the principal passions of the mind, each passion being made the subject of a tragedy and a comedy. She died in 1857.

Drilling Glass.

Make a solution of one ounce of camphor, one and one-half ounces spirits of turpentine and three drams of ether. Keep the end of the drilling tool wet with this solution. After the point comes through to the other side, put the glass in water and then proceed more slowly or drill from other side.

Dog Lover Never All Bad.

He who loves a dog may not be all he should be in the qualities of manhood, but you may safely bet money on it that there is, nevertheless, something in him that merits respect, albeit sometimes to be searched for. The dog gets nearer to the human heart than any other of earth's unhuman habitants.

Peculiar Racial Resemblance.

There are a great many points of resemblance between the Mongolian and the American Indian. They extend to personal and even religious observances, notwithstanding the fact that the Mongols have long been converted to Lamaism, one of the most exacting and intolerant of religions.

"ROAD RAZER"

Avery One-Man "Road-Razer"

For Country Roads, City Streets and Road Patrol Work

The Avery One-Man Road Maintainer or "Road-Razer" as it is now called, is undoubtedly the best, most economical motor road maintaining machine that has as yet been made. It operates more easily and quickly, cuts more smoothly and does better work than any machine on the market built for this purpose.

It is easily handled—it backs up and turns around instantly in its own tracks, which is of unusual advantage in this class of work.

By its use country roads and city streets can be kept smooth and in the best possible condition at all times. It is also an especially ideal machine where the road patrol system of continuous maintenance is in operation—a system which because of its merit is rapidly coming into use.
