NEED MORE ROOM

Santa Fe General Office Building Too Small.

Outside Rooms Rented to Accommodate Overflow.

USING MORE CLERKS.

Freight Auditor's Office the Most Congested of Any.

A Brand New Building May Be Erected.

It is not known that any plans are contemplated for the near future, but it is a certainty that one of the growing needs of the Santa Fe at this point, is a larger general office building or at least some greatly increased quarters.

Two years ago an addition was made in the general office building here, which cost $40,000, and which alleviated the congestion for a short time. This is the addition to the building on the east. This addition was built and put into use, the different departments have grown, and in some instances almost doubled, so that now there are but few of the departments which have ample room for their work.

The new rulings of the Interstate Commerce commission have added to the clerical force of the roads. The commission has also made new rules regarding the keeping of records and documents. Papers of this kind, which were formerly kept for a limited period of five years or so, are now required to be filed indefinitely and this requires room, much more room, than the general public realizes.

Already the force of the different departments has increased in number to such an extent that office rooms in the neighborhood of the general office building have been engaged. This of course entails additional expenses of rents and the like, that would be needless should the building be enlarged or another one built.

The freight auditing is at present the most congested department. The clerical force occupies all the top floor of the general office building and in addition fifty-four clerks are occupying quarters in the old Reed residence, located across the alley in the rear of the general office building. The Santa Fe purchased this property a few months ago.

The ticket auditors have a force of about twenty men working in the new brick building adjoining the Copeland hotel on the south. This force has been nearly doubled within the past two years.

The tie and timber department, which is assuming importance because of the scarcity of timber, occupies a suite of rooms in the Smith building at the northwest corner of Ninth and Kansas avenue. The time card room, where all the train schedules are worked out and which is an important department is also located in the building south of the Copeland.

Other departments which do not use overflow office room are badly in need of increased quarters. The passenger department is crowded to its capacity, while the freight department hasn't any room to spare.

Should the Santa Fe decide in the near future to increase the office room, it is likely that an entirely new building would be erected. When the Reed property was acquired, it was then understood that the road intended at some future date to build a new structure on the site, and this would be the probable course.

The present general office building is about complete from an architectural standpoint, and hence no further additions are expected, although there is plenty of building room left on these lots.

He Swallowed a Dollar.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—A hearty laugh over a story came near causing serious consequences for Fernando Romero, 35 years of age, a laborer living at Monterey last night. He had a silver dollar in his mouth and when he burst out in a fit of laughter swallowed the dollar. The coin passed a short distance down his throat and then lodged. He was placed on a car for Los Angeles and brought to the receiving hospital, where Police Surgeon Wiley succeeded in extracting the dollar.

FIGHT IS WON.

Battle Against Tuberculosis Believed to Be Over.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—What is considered by medical men to be the most important discovery in the war against tuberculosis since the finding of the tubercle bacillus by Koch, is contained in an announcement by Dr. Randle C. Rosenbergh of the chair of bacteriology at Jefferson Medical college.

Dr. Rosenbergh declares that the tubercle bacillus germ can be located in the blood before it reaches the lungs and that in view of this it can be destroyed by very simple treatment. By use of anti-toxin, he thinks, the disease can be soon stamped out.

A paper on Dr. Rosenbergh's researches is soon to appear in a medical journal, but the results he says he has obtained were discussed before the faculty of Jefferson college. In view of professional ethics, however, the doctor declined to talk about his researches outside medical circles.

If the theory that the tubercle bacillus germs first make their appearance in the blood of the patient is correct, it is believed that the injection of anti-toxin or virus would prevent them from reaching the lungs, practically rendering the patient immune.

"If this is all that is hoped for it," said Dr. Lawrence Flick, president of the Phillips' Institute for Consumptives, "the fight against the great white plague is won."

NIGHT SCHOOL IN PRISON.

New Jersey Inaugurates System of Education for Convicts.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 6.—With almost every convict enrolled as a student, night school was opened in state's prison here last night with indications that it will be a success. Instruction for prisoners has been advocated by former Governor E. C. Stokes of New Jersey, for some time past, who holds the belief that great good can be done by giving the men a means of education during their incarceration. It is hoped not only to give practical instruction, but to arouse ambition and perhaps have an important bearing on the future life of the men when they go forth into the world again.

An interesting feature of the plan is that several of the better educated convicts are acting as tutors for their fellows.
