

GRADUATING CLASS OF 1902

Commencement Thursday and the Address was Delivered by Prof. Olin Templin

The class of 1902, the largest class which ever graduated from the Iola High School, finished its work and with appropriate exercises celebrated the event and received diplomas.

The program of the evening began with an invocation by Rev. D. B. Shuey, who asked the guidance of God's hand in the lives of the young people just entering upon their duties as men and women.

Miss Mitchell then introduced Prof. Templin, of the chair of philosophy at the State University, who delivered the commencement address.

Mr. Templin said that deep interest was always felt in graduating classes and in young people because of the possibilities they represented, and there was always a temptation to speak words of advice.

He took as a text the Biblical verse, Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whoso shall seek to lose his life shall preserve it.

So the text is interpreted not to refer to Man's physical life but to his spiritual life. Certainly Man is not expected to go against all his natural instincts and deliberately seek death for the body.

The grain of corn remaining alone and preserving itself never accomplishes anything. If it is destroyed in the earth it brings forth many grains; if consumed by man it creates brain and muscle and good works.

With humanity it is the same way. Unselfishness, kindness and helpfulness of others are necessary for the accomplishment of real good in the world.

Yet humanity demands unselfishness of man. The bee stores honey for unborn bees; the collie dog risks and loses his life to preserve that of others.

He who seeks to save his life shall lose it; and he who seeks to lose his life shall preserve it.

The address required about thirty minutes, after which the girls' double trio pleased the audience with a pretty selection. The singers were: Edith Sucher and Birdie Hoch, sopranos, Carrie Clayton and Elsie Pepper, second sopranos, and Grace Morrison and Alice Gilliam, altos.

Mr. E. C. Rensberg as president of the board of education made a short speech before distributing the diplomas. He said that of the infant class of ninety-four members who enrolled in the schools eleven years ago, just one remained in the graduating class—Roy Sleeper.

After a song by the chorus and the benediction by Rev. John Maclean, the audience departed. It was a very enjoyable program and a mighty fine looking class.

ANNUAL ALUMNI BANQUET

Nearly One Hundred Graduates of Iola High School Enjoy the Annual Feed and Toasts.

Saturday night at the Odd Fellows hall the annual alumni banquet of the graduates of the Iola High School was held. Gathered there were nearly one hundred of the alumni and the evening was a most enjoyable social affair.

Before the banquet the crowd visited in the large lodge room and many pleasant acquaintances renewed.

The banquet proper was in charge of the ladies working society of the Presbyterian church and the good things provided were done ample justice by the hungry graduates.

Mr. J. E. Henderson acted as toast master and he proved himself a most capable presiding officer, his brief introductory speeches being witty and putting those who responded on their metal.

The address of welcome was given by Adlai Ewing, who expressed the approval that all felt over these annual meetings. On behalf of this year's class Miss Edith Austin replied in well-chosen words and happy vein.

Miss Marga Stevenson spoke on "Our Prophecy," pointing with pride to the correctness of the prophecy she made two years ago when she was class prophetess of the graduating class.

Miss Lucy Woodin responded to the toast, "Any Old Thing," her remarks being bright and interesting. One number on the program was not filled and Mrs. Jennie Colborn Moffett, of Wallace, Idaho, was called upon to occupy the time.

Mrs. Moffett is one of the members of the first class that graduated from the local high school and is today the only surviving member of that class.

Her reminiscences were intensely interesting and everybody was delighted to have her present and hear her talk. The toastmaster rather insinuated that Miss Hyde was of Irish descent when he introduced her, so she called the turn and related a number of very laughable Irish stories.

The brevity of the program and the excellence of the responses made the evening one of the pleasantest in the association's history.

As usual the annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows: President, Willis Henderson; vice president, Claude Stewart; corresponding secretary, Julia McClure; recording secretary, Myrtle Simpson; treasurer, Craigie McDowell.

Mr. Charles Klummann, the retiring president, presided over the meeting and music was furnished during the evening by the Brown-Shields-Hering orchestra.

Death of Willard Hibbs. Willard Hibbs, who has spent nearly all his life in Iola, died quiet suddenly at his room in the Cottage Hotel on west Madison avenue Friday evening about 8 o'clock.

The funeral were held from the Culbertson undertaking parlors at 1:30 and the remains buried in Iola cemetery.

For some time Hibbs has not been feeling well and in conversation with friends intimated that he thought he would not live long. He seemed as well as usual Thursday and in the evening went to his hotel. He complained of feeling weak and went to his room to lie down, dying shortly later. The cause of death was a weakened heart action.

Hibbs was a Woodman of the World and an Eagle and the funeral service were conducted under the auspices of these two orders. He was but twenty-nine years old at the time of his death and was widely acquainted over the county.

Talking County Fair The men who have looked after the county fair year after year are again getting busy. The fair has always been a popular and self sustaining concern in this county and with good crops promised for this year ought to be an unusual success.

The livestock and agricultural interests of the county are increasing and steps ought to be taken to get a good display of every manufacturing concern in the county. This feature would make a mighty fine showing and would be a lesson to every visitor to the fair. The directors will hold a meeting in the near future and the first work to be done will be the getting out of the premium lists. Make up your mind right now to help make the fair a success by exhibiting something at it.

Fined for Uttag a Net. There was a very unusual trial in Judge Hough's court Thursday which resulted in a conviction that ought to please the fishermen. The defendant was Jim Coates, for whom a warrant was issued last February. The complaint being that he had caught fish with a net, contrary to law. Coates disappeared, but Constable Habs found him here yesterday, took him in and Hough tacked a twenty-five dollar fine on him.

This should be done to everybody guilty of the same offense. Only one remedy in the world that will at once stop itchininess of the skin is any part of the body; Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

Whooping Cough My little son had an attack of the whooping cough and was threatened with pneumonia; but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of roup.—H. J. STRICKFADEN, editor World Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale by W. L. CRABB & Co., CAMPBELL & BURRELL.

The Matrimonial Column. It is better to be dead than out of fashion, you know. The fashion in Iola is to sneak off, far from your friends and relatives much after the manner you would steal watermelons, when you get married. All the best people seem to do it that way, so there's no use kicking.

The latest fashionable wedding occurred Saturday evening, May 24, at the home of Judge J. B. Smith. At that time Scott R. Gard and Cora V. McDonald were united in marriage. They are making their home with the groom's parents, temporarily, on north State street. The groom is a son of Judge Jacob Gard, was a member of the Twentieth Kansas regiment, and has been working at the smelters for some time. He is an upright, manly youth and has a large number of friends. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, an accomplished musician, and numbers her friends by the hundred. The young people have the best wishes of all who know them.

At the Methodist church Monday Rev. John Maclean united in marriage W. L. Zink and May B. Fisher, two well-known young people from west of the river. Mr. Zink was left an orphan when quite young and has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Webster Green. He is a successful farmer and owns a valuable farm near the Green home. The bride is one of the most charming girls of the neighborhood and the young people have a host of friends who wish them joy.

Word came from Olathe the other day that Mr. W. G. Allison was quite ill and that there was danger that he might not live. Mrs. Allison went up Thursday night and word was telegraphed to their son Meri, who is in Indianapolis. Mr. Allison had been feeling poorly for some time and gradually grew so weak he could not be about and the doctors gave up all hope and telegraphed to his relatives. Mr. Allison's numerous friends here will rejoice to know that since then he has rallied and is very much improved.

The Hygiene of Old Age We look upon the aged with good reason as having a slender hold upon life, one that may be loosened by a slight shock of injury or disease which, in the young or middle-aged, would serve only as a stimulus to the reparative vital powers. This is a conservative belief, but it warns us to shield our loved ones, who have fought the fight, from all influences which might shorten their stay with us. But we must not go too far in our solitude, for injury may be inflicted and life shortened by coddling the young. The vital processes in the aged are slow, but they are still existent, and they may be kept active by gentle opposition and stimulation, just as they may be increased in childhood and youth by rough methods. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and Herb Laxative Compound is a boon to the aged and infirm and probably no medicine has accomplished so much, or received as high or as many endorsements from men and women whose extreme age gives them a seemingly slender hold upon life. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin makes perfect digestion and acts gently upon the bowels in an easy and pleasant manner. Tones up the entire system and prolongs life. 50c and $1 bottles. At C. B. Spencers, Iola; Kline & Son, Moran; W. J. Waters & Co., LaHarpe.
