

Daily Eagle H. M. MURDOCK, Editor. SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 23, 1887.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION. The Republicans of Sedgewick county, Kansas, will hold a county convention for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices to be filled by election this fall:

What do our friends on the Missouri think of our car shops? "The little town of four thousand people on the flats with a couple of plug railroads," got there all the same.

THE OHIO ELECTION. The Democracy of Ohio have their forces in the field, and unexpectedly to the good many people they have dodged the only real issue before the county—the protection of American labor.

OVER THE EAGLE LINE. On our trip over the Eagle line we found corn in a much better condition than one would expect. They got but little of the late rains but their corn will not hurt much if they can get rain in the next week or so.

perpetual Union view of it. The blood of American soldiers has so fixed it. The American soldier, and especially the southern soldier, will see to it that the flag of the Union is supreme everywhere.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION. The Republicans of the Eleventh Judicial District will hold a convention for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for judge of the district.

A Texas paper claims that the passenger conductors on one of the Louisiana roads are prohibited from going barefoot while on duty.

The Eagle, proud old bird, flies from her nest this morning with ten thousand fledglings with their wings on the wind and their eyes on the sun—screaming to the top of their voices.

THE PROPOSED NEW FLAG. The Speech of Major McCarthy at Richmond to the Virginia Grand Army Post.

THE OLD FLAG. The speech of Major McCarthy at Richmond to a visiting Grand Army post, which will be found in another column.

Kansas City takes the cake when it comes to blowing; when it takes cash she isn't there.

A large number of people were noticed on our streets yesterday vigorously shaking hands. Some worldly minded people were inclined to ascribe this good feeling to the location of the car shops instead of to the gospel preaching of the Salvation army.

AN OLD MAN. The oldest man in the world is said to be James James, a colored citizen of the United States, who resides at Santa Rosa, Mexico.

A BOLD BAD GOOD MAN. A Christian minister of Odessa, Mo., named J. J. Henry, was accused by the good people of that town of conduct unbecoming a gentleman and minister of the gospel.

The Kansas City exposition is a magnificent enterprise and is worthy of commendation; yet, in no spirit of boasting, we remark that if said exhibition were one year later, the Peerless would be in condition to help along her sister at the mouth of the Kaw by coming to her rescue with an exhibit of manufactured articles that would make the Kansas City exhibition the grandest ever known in the world's history.

The modest Princess of the Plains might under ordinary circumstances feel elated over the little matter of securing a manufacturing interest that will employ two thousand men, but her mind is so taken up with larger interest now demanding her attention that the present enterprise is not appreciated as it otherwise would be.
