A DECIDED HIT.

Alberta Gallatin Greatly Pleases Topeka Audience.
A Perfect Portrayal of Vivacious Nell Gwynn.
EARN CURTAIN CALLS.
Simplicity and Naturalness Her Charm.
Says Mrs. Nation Would Make Dime Museum Freak.

Without a piece of special scenery and dependent only upon her acting Alberta Gallatin scored a decided triumph at the Grand night as the vivacious "Nell Gwynn," who has lately been revived by the historians and playwrights. It was Miss Gallatin's efforts alone which decided the success of the performance. After the third act she received three curtain calls and was warmly applauded during the last act.

High Priced Shares.
Pittsburg, March 6.—The Dispatch says that two of the principal minority holdings in the Carnegie Steel company, amounting to about 3,700 shares, have been sold independently to the Morgan interests on a cash basis. The price paid, it is said, was close to $120 a share and the purchasers will take advantage of the combine offer to the Carnegie shareholders. Friends of H. C. Frick say that they do not believe that he will under any circumstances take any office in the new corporation, as his private affairs are now so extensive that all his time will be required in Pittsburg.

Miss Gallatin's acting leaves nothing wanting. It does not seem that any other actress' conception of the character could be better. The charm of her acting is the simplicity and naturalness. Not once, even in the wildest scenes, does Miss Gallatin overdo the part in the least. Many who have seen her perform in many ways to Mrs. Fiske. There is a reminder in Miss Gallatin's ways of the portrayal of "Rocky Sharp." Miss Gallatin is supported by a company not as strong as could be desired. The "Charles Stuart" of Allen Davenport is not as pleasing as it might be, although Davenport is an actor of ability. Arthur Davenport is an actor of ability. Arthur Davenport is the strongest in the support of Miss Gallatin. Margaret Dale Owen is a strong character. Her acting pleased the audience, both on account of her prettiness and good acting.

There were a few funny incidents in the play not calculated to do credit to the third act. "Nell Gwynn" and "Charles Stuart" were to be seated together on a sofa. Instead of a sofa the property man had secured a large arm chair, and when the king and "Nell Gwynn" unbent themselves to be seated they sank into the chair, or tried to, and looked as if something must give way. But nothing gave in the least, and they were wedged in together behind the narrow arms of the chair. The audience laughed, and so did the ever vivacious Nellie.

Miss Gallatin was much interested in Mrs. Nation's "this is the story of the Nation's exploits, is it not?" she asked. "Well, I have followed her pretty closely in the papers. Do I think she could be successful in the stage?" she asked. "The audience has given me the days of sensationalism of that kind are over. She might do in a dime museum as a freak, but not on the stage." Miss Gallatin was about to answer, but while in England bought a copy of a painting of Nell Gwynn, and from that painting her work was made. She wore the dark Auburn wig she wore as the character. Miss Gallatin is a decided brunette.

Pinogree Sees Chamberlain.
At London, March 4.—Former Governor Pinogree of Michigan spent half an hour last evening with Mr. Chamberlain, the governor of England, discussing the state of the South Africa. Whether Mr. Pinogree will soon go on business while Mr. Chamberlain did not refer to the negotiations in progress for the release of the late General Louis Botha he told Mr. Pinogree could hold out much longer. Mr. Pinogree who was greatly impressed by the colonial secretary said after the interview, "I never sat down with a more benevolent man than Chamberlain. I always knew he was a brainy man, but I must confess he surprised me."

Meeting at the Auditorium.
A meeting in the interest of the law and order ticket will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. Good music. Good speeches. Everybody should attend.

PLAIN FACTS TOLD.

right in the matter? The meeting was really a remarkable one. A competent reporter might have made huge legitimate capital out of it for the Journal's Mr. Gled's speech was really a chilling, villainous. Some others largely so. The strongest and really only argument in favor of Mr. Hughes was that in all things a stronger, less objectionable than Mr. Warner. In many respects the meeting resembled an ordinary ward heelers' meeting, except that many of the speakers were actuated by a high and pure motive—a desire to conserve the best interests of the city if he knew how to do it. There was a doubt how best to secure this result. Not one speaker expressed entire confidence in his candidate. One plainly declared he could not support Mr. Hughes. There were two meetings. In the interim informal discussions were had. Mr. Hughes was favored by most of those present, but under protest, plainly expressed, a sentiment manifestly general throughout the city among his supporters. After most of those in attendance had gone, including Mr. Gled, Mr. Hughes arrived and a few returned to hear him. In his remarks he named some business men who are supporting an ordinary ward heelers' meeting, as not friendly to the cause of probity. At that time I was opposed to Hughes, and I became more so after the meeting while watching Mr. Warner.

WRITINGS OF ST. JOHN.
Interesting Papyri Which Have Been Discovered in Egypt.
New York, March 6.—According to a Tribune special from Boston, the Rev. Dr. Wm. C. Winslow, vice president of the Egyptian Exploration Fund there is authority for the statement that in addition to the papyrus of St. Matthew's Gospel sent to the University of Pennsylvania, a number of other documents, the Ptolemies, presented to Harvard two extremely interesting papyri are yet to be assigned. One is that of John which contains eighteen verses of chapter 1 and 14 verses of chapter XX. In the first part are the words "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world," and "We have found the Messiah." In chapter XX is the memorable story of Mark at the supper table. This papyrus of St. John in book form contained about fifty pages. Dr. Winslow says, and only the outer leaves are missing. He says that the document is better written than the St. Matthew papyrus and is in harmony with the famous text of Westcott and Hort. The fragment is dated 200 A. D., or a little later and is pronounced only a little later than the St. Matthew text. The outer edges of the text of the present version is absolute.
