Fine Points of Two Boxers Discussed by Fitzsimmons.

The Ex-Champion Talks of the Jeffries-Rubin Contest.

MAN WITH THE PUNCH

Will Win the Fight Over Science Every Time, He Says.

Californian's Merit Is Ability to Stand Punishment.

New York, Dec. 27.—Robert J. Fitzsimmons, the Journal publishes the following: "I have never made a practice of attempting to pick winners in fights, and I'm not going to begin now. But having met both Jeffries and Rubin and knowing just how they fight, I think people will be interested in my views upon the coming championship battle.

"Jeffries is the champion, and his methods of boxing need to be gone into more fully than those of Rubin. Jeffries is the slowest champion we have had since the days of the old style fighter. His merit does not consist in his ability to receive punishment as in his capacity for receiving it. He is a great, big, strong fellow, young, with wonderful powers of recuperation—a man whom the kick of a mule would scarce topple to the ground.

"He is game. A good six punch serves to bring him back for more. His defense, while appearing awkward, is effective. He crouches up in a crouching position he adopts as a cast-iron protection for vital spots such as the solar plexus, stomach and heart.

"He has what is known as a cast-iron jaw. That he is stocky, but when a mule would scarce topple to the ground. "Jeffries is one of the most careful fighters I ever saw. He leaves absolutely no opening for any but a most scientific boxer.

"There is none of that waste of energy caused by useless movements in Jeffries' boxing. He is content to wait until the best blow which he uses is a left jabber. He is content to wait until the best blow which he uses is a left jabber. He is content to wait until the best blow which he uses is a left jabber.

"Jeffries' telegraph his blows. That is, he starts them so slowly that the quick eye opponent can, nine times out of ten, tell just where he hopes to land. "That is why he has been called the 'top of the pugilistic ladder.' "How for his faults. "Non-aggressiveness. "An undeveloped knockout punch. "They are not many, but they are. And they are faults which can be remedied.

The Notorious Klondike Finds Another Victim.

An Unknown Man Is Badly Beaten and Robbed.

THROWN BY THE ROAD

A Soldier Finds the Man Lying Insensible.

His Memory Blurred and Unable to Relate Facts.

Seems to Be of Jewish Extraction and Under Thirty.

Leavenworth, Dec. 27.—Another man has been slugged and robbed in the notorious Klondike near this city. How or by whom the man was robbed and injured is a mystery. He was put on a street car by an old veteran near the Soldiers' home Christmas night. The veteran had found the man in the road near the Klondike. Conductor Rodenhuis was in charge of the car. He did not know how seriously the man was injured. Although bleeding heavily, he sat up in the car.

Reaching the corner of Third and Delaware streets, Rodenhuis helped the man off the car and to the sidewalk. Here two hospital stewards from the car, who happened to be passing, saw how seriously the man was hurt. They took him to Fritsche's drug store. On the way the injured man talked incoherently and said something about being 'touched' and out. When the store was reached the man fell senseless to the floor. The man was taken to the hospital and removed to the station.

The general supposition among the police is that the man was slugged and robbed in the Klondike. He was found helpless and sodden with drink. He had nothing on his person to identify him. A small memorandum book with a few figures in it and a trunk check on the Chicago and Great Western railroad were all that was in his pockets. In appearance the injured man seems to be a Jew, about 25 years old and fairly well dressed.

The flesh on his nose had been laid bare to the bone, from the end of the nose to the bridge. The shape of the cut showed that it had been made by a jagged instrument. Several stitches were taken in it and the injured man was taken to the hospital. The operation he relapsed into a senseless condition and did not revive for some time. His memory was blurred and he was unable to give an account of himself or even tell his name.

STEEL RANGE SWINDLER Finds Several Easy Farmers in Leavenworth County. Leavenworth, Dec. 27.—Another victim of the steel range swindlers has shown up. This time it is M. M. Gallagher of Springfield. Some months ago a smooth looking man, who called himself Gallagher, called on Gallagher's farm and wanted to sell a steel range. He represented himself as the agent for the National Steel Range company, with headquarters at St. Louis.

The range was represented as a world beater and was offered at the remarkable price of $69. Gallagher only took a note to be accepted for the $69 and the note was payable in installments over a period of several years. Gallagher jumped at the big bargain offered and was soon the happy possessor of the range. But he was not happy long. The range was not exactly all that it had been represented to be. It was very particular as to what kind of fuel it would burn and often refused to burn at all.

All these minor difficulties were endured patiently by Mr. Gallagher. But there is a limit to a man's patience. Gallagher's patience ceased to be a virtue when the range refused to burn Saturday last. On that day, an agent, a different one by the way, called on Gallagher and told him that the note for $69 paid in full. Gallagher's wrath was aroused and he told the agent he'd be blanked if he ever paid the note. He had only one way to pay it, in several years and not the note presented and complete payment permanently demanded. No, he'd be blanked if he ever paid the note.

The matter was finally compromised. The agent agreed to surrender the note to Gallagher if the latter would deliver the range to the agent. Gallagher did this yesterday and is now happy once more. Gallagher says he wasn't the only one in his part of the country who was duped by the steel range man. In fact, he says he could name a dozen.

JOHN WILSON MISSING. Wichita Man Who Was to Wed Strong City Girl Has Disappeared. Wichita, Dec. 27.—John Wilson, who was to have been married Christmas night to Miss Varner at Strong City is mysteriously missing. He has not called on his father's home since he obtained his clothes nor has he reached the bride's home. He was to have left here at 3:40 yesterday and it is believed he was seen on the river bridge looking down on the water. Somebody has broken the windows of his bride home and it is feared that he became despondent over it. His father had just presented him with a valuable farm adjoining the city and $300 in cash for his wedding expenses.

BANQUET TO J. R. SODEN. Employees of Emporia Water Mill Present Proprietor With a Chair. Emporia, Dec. 27.—The employees of the Emporia water mill recently gave a banquet to their employer, Mr. J. R. Soden. A four course supper was served, after which Mr. S. B. Maxwell in a few well chosen words presented Mr. Soden on behalf of the employees, a beautiful leather covered rocker as a token of their esteem for him. Mr. Soden responded with a few words of thanks.

A good supper was eaten about midnight, and all present thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Killed by the Cars. Ottawa, Dec. 27.—E. C. Johnson, known about town as Craig Johnson, was mangled to death by a Pacific freight train at the Pacific depot platform yesterday afternoon. Whether the old man deliberately walked to his death or whether the affair was purely accidental is not clearly understood. Indications are, however, that Johnson walked too close to the edge of the platform, nearly reaching his danger and was struck by the beam on the engine front and thrown down beneath the cars.

Want Servant Arrested. Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Late this afternoon Mrs. May Garretson, filed a complaint with the county attorney asking for the arrest of John Servatius, who shot and killed her husband Monday night in Hill street. Servatius is an old white haired man, has been in business here twenty years, and his absence from his shop during the holiday season seems to warrant the fear that some calamity has befallen him.

Burglars at Lebanon. Lebanon, Dec. 27.—Robbers gained entrance to the home of J. M. Tygart, in this place, last night and stole a gold watch, valued at $35, and about $5 in silver. Thirty or forty dollars in bills at the time were overlooked. They then went into the dining room and helped themselves to lunch. The house of Dr. A. W. Tygart was also broken into. A gold watch and chain and $15 in money.

Fort Scott, Dec. 27.—A rural free delivery route will be established along Kansas river, between Lebanon and Fort Scott in a northwesterly direction, and returning on another section line. WASH SHUN GAH'S VISIT Indian Chief Calls Upon President McKinley. Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—President McKinley's visitors today included Wash Shun Gah, the celebrated chief of the Kansas tribe of Indians. He was in full war paint, from his thoroughly smeared face to his gray-colored moccasins and fiery red shawl, but he was not in a bellicose humor. He was, in fact, the best natured and most talkative old Indian who has been to visit "the great white chief" in many days.

He was so full of talk that he begged to be allowed to make a speech to the president in his pigeon English vocabulary. He was not allowed this pleasure, but he shook hands with the president in the most free and easy manner, extending his right hand to the president in as gay and cordial manner as a congressional candidate just before an election. Wash Shun Gah has made two speeches since he came to town Friday. One was to Secretary Hitchcock of the interior department and the other was to Commissioner Jones. Wash Shun Gah's speeches are better understood from his suggestive shrugs and gestures than from his badly-mixed collection of words.

Secretary Gage went to the White House while Wash Shun Gah was there, and was introduced to the Kaw chief. The interpreter explained to the chief that Secretary Gage was the man who had all the Indians' money. Wash's face brightened. He patted Secretary Gage on the shoulder and said: "Me no go home till git mon."

Wash was accompanied to the White House by Representative Charles Curtis of Kansas, who is proud of the trace of Indian blood in his veins. Others in the party were Forest-cheau-teau, Aun Poppan, General W. E. Handy, Willing and Gladys, and O. A. Mitchell, all members of the tribe except the last named, who is the agent of the Osage and Kansas Indians.

James E. Legate will arrive in Kansas in a day or two all of breath. He has left Washington. Of course it is generally understood that nothing of smaller proportions than the senatorial fight could drag him away from this town. L. W. THIAVIS.
