... putting on a "County Achievement Contest." Ten mountain counties of Kentucky have entered. It began August 1st and lasts for seventeen months. A first prize of $3,000 will be given to the county winning first place and $2,000 to the county winning second place. Judge Bingham, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is financing it, and Berea is putting on the program. So far the ten counties have organized sixteen new Sunday-schools, five new churches, one hundred new community clubs, and voted two road bonds. Also three days of road working was done and one radio set installed. After the contest the ten counties are to be organized into a league carrying the work which has been started.

The type of work mentioned is very beneficial, and the students can be of great service in putting this work on, especially if they happen to be from any one of the ten counties. The students who are here now can help in a similar work when they go back. One thing, they should be leaders and the time to prepare for this is while we are in school. Learn to be a good leader while here and put it into practice now and also after finishing school.

CONDEMNING OURSELVES TO DEATH

Most of us, providentially, start off in life with good bodies and minds. These are given us by our parents who feed us, clothe us, send us to school and make us study and allow us to play. They prepare the physical, mental and moral structure, laying down the foundations on which we later should continue to build. What poor builders so many of us are. As a rule, the only building we do is mental, and some of us are even too lazy to do that. The moral edifice depends a good deal upon our environments, our ideals and our will-power. In the main, we adopt habits of thought and action which are morally good in our relations with our fellowmen.

Physically, however, most of us cease building when we get out into the world away from parental love and care; away from home life and playmates; away from the critical eyes of our friends, and we go off on a tangent of indifference, deceit and pride. The body, our most priceless possession, we treat with the greatest disrespect, greatest ignorance, greatest carelessness and greatest abuse. Why should this be so? Is it because the care of it is left in our own hands? Most of us think we are too busy with other things to bother about it until it begins to complain from misuse; to wear out; to break down. Then we blame providence for visiting us with affliction and ill health. We are too vain and lacking in intelligence to blame ourselves.

When we get away from the play-life of childhood; away from the nurture of mother love and strike out for the open road, we have strong bodies built up by clean, healthful exercise and by clean, healthful food. A perfect machine in good running order soon to be torn down by abuse, neglect, indifference, laziness and ignorance. We disregard even the simplest rules of common sense. "Health makes people happy" therefore keep your body active and in trim. Most of us deliberately sign our own death warrants. Ask the physician if you doubt, for even he is guilty of this common human weakness.

FOOTBALL

In spite of the cold weather quite a number witnessed the games Monday afternoon on the Main Athletic Field. In the first game College defeated Vocational 45 to 0, and in the second game Academy was victorious over the Normal by a score of 26 to 0.

In the first game Vocational started with a crippled team. The captain had failed to appear for regular practice and consequently was not allowed to play. Two other members of the team "struck" in sympathy. But eleven loyal men got together, and after the first stage fright, held the College team down, not even allowing them to score in the fourth quarter. In the first quarter College took the ball straight to the Vocational goal by line bucks, and Johnston carried it over for the first touchdown. Vocational kicked to College, but on the first play College fumbled and Vocational covered the ball. But on their first play Lewis intercepted a pass and ran for the second touchdown. The College again received the kick-off and took the ball down the field. Lewis again making a touchdown. In the second quarter another Vocational pass was intercepted by Johnston and another touchdown made. A completed pass by Harrison made the final score of the first half. In the second half College scored twice in the third quarter, and then was unable to hold the Vocational men. About the middle of the fourth quarter Vocational took the ball to the College goal line, but a pass was completed outside the ten yard line, and the College had the ball. From here on nothing of interest occurred, and the game ended with Vocational in possession of the ball on their own 30 yard line. Huerra, of the Vocational, showed unusual ability in catching passes and much credit should be given to the fearless little Cuban. But above all, much credit should be given the Vocational team that played Monday afternoon. Credit for never giving up even when playing at great odds and credit for showing loyalty to their own department by faithful practice.

The second game was a little more even, tho the score would not so indicate. Soon after the beginning of the game Wilson of the Normal was forced out of the play by an injured leg. The game opened with a bang when Woodruff, of the Academy, received the kick-off on his 15 yard line and then ran a touchdown. This was a remarkable feat and seldom done. From here on in the first quarter the playing was about even and neither side scored. In the second quarter Academy soon made the second touchdown. Then Normal received the ball from the kick-off and took it to the Academy's goal line, only to lose by an intercepted pass. Huette was the player who intercepted it and he ran for a touchdown. This was another sensational play and one seldom seen. In the second half Normal came back strong and Academy was only able to score once. Both teams showed a good style of football. Academy perhaps has the little better advantage, due no doubt to the work of themselves and thus deserve much credit for the work they do.

THE TROSPERS NEAR VERSAILLES

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duerson, who spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Trospen near Versailles, Ky., brought back splendid word concerning the work they are doing in their school and community. Since they began work in the Sunday-school, its regular attendance has increased from an average of 20 to 75. They have 80 students in their school, and from what Mr. Duerson says, their work goes on both in and out of the school room. Mrs. Trospen, he said, was putting into actual practice with the girls in her school the things she learned in domestic science at Berea.

WASHBURN WRITES FROM AFRICA

The following letter from H. M. Washburn, a missionary in Africa, will read as one from a co-laborer in an unfinished task to many in Berea. Mr. Washburn is no stranger here and his work in Africa is of no small interest to those who have kept him and his family in mind since their visit here last summer.

Bulape Station, Sept. 16, 1922.

Dear Friends in Berea:
 You will all be interested to know that we have made almost a record trip to our home in Africa. As you know we sailed from New York the first day of July and landed in Antwerp the twelfth, and there we had a busy seven days doing some shopping and then we sailed again the 20th for the Congo. Our voyage was pleasant all the way, for the sea was on its good behavior. As we came down into the tropics the sun was warm and added its part to the voyage. It was unusually cool for that part of the world, in fact, the very day we crossed the equator we found our coats and sweaters comfortable. But when we reach Matadi we found there that the captain had made no mistake but brought us to the same hot country.

In Matadi, the port of entry, we had a delay of five days and then got to our places on the little Congo train. I bought a lantern and had it filled with oil before we started. The others began to ask why the lantern, but we had good use for it before the day was finished. After making good time all the morning and thinking that we were going to reach our journey's end before dark we came to a freight wreck on the line and were held up for hours so that when we reached our destination it was one thirty in the morning. Just remember that there is no provision made in the coach for light unless the passengers make the arrangements themselves. So you see our lantern came in handy. At Stanley Pool we had to wait another five days for the boat to take us up the river. We had twenty days on the river before we reached our Mission Station at Luebo and then we waited there four days for our porters. We came on to Bulape in two days by the path journey.

We are indeed glad to get back to our work, and the reception that we had was enough to make our hearts burn with a desire to serve these people though they had been cold before which we assure you they were not. One hundred and fifty men came 70 miles on the trail to help us with our baggage and to carry Mrs. Washburn and the children. I used my bicycle which was made possible by the gift of the Missionary Society of the Union Church. So that gift which was put into a sewing machine for Mrs. Washburn and the remainder was put with some other funds and bought the bicycle.

In the meeting of the station we were given the work of training the young men who have come to study for the ministry and we will now be busy planning and teaching as this work has never been organized before because of the rush of other work. I will try and write you more about it later.

We have found our fellow workers in good health and the work in good condition. Some of our old native friends have been called over the river while we were away and we shall miss them but most of the familiar faces are here and we are glad to receive them. One old man of whom I told you while I was there, an old medicine doctor, and chief of a large village who gave it all up and his plural marriage as well to be a Christian and whom I baptized last term, came six miles to meet us on the road. We were indeed glad to see him and to hear that he had been living true to his profession all these months. His face shows that he is in touch with the Holy Spirit for it simply shines when you speak to him of the Kingdom.

Billy had a little fever as we came up the river but it did not amount to much and today Margaret has a little fever. We are treating her and she is now normal so we do not think that it is going to amount to much. Mrs. Washburn and I so far have had none but it is rather to be expected as we had several mosquito bites as we were coming up the river.

We often think of all of you and are glad that we had such a pleasant stay among you last winter. Pray for us that we may be used more this term than ever before. May God bless you all.

Your Friend,
 H. M. Washburn.

BEREA Y. M. C. A.

The Sunday evening meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was led by Professor Dix. He read the parable of the talents for the scripture lesson, then he said that the students come to Berea to get an education, but how is the education they are receiving to be used? Only about one half of the cost per student in dollars and cents is paid by the students; the remainder is paid by donors, etc. The gifts are usually made with the understanding that they are to be spent in developing the youth of the Southern Highlands as far as possible. The majority of our students should go back to their homeland, and take to those who have not had the privilege of going to school the good things which they have received here in school.

The question which arises is, "What can we do if we go back?" Probably the most important thing is to be a good leader. There are plenty who will follow if they have a good leader. The students who have gone back into ten of the mountain counties of Kentucky have an opportunity to achieve very much for their counties as a whole.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS:
 Religion, Music and Extension Lectures

Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, is located on the border between the mountains and the Blue Grass. Has 140 able officers and instructors, draws to its campus 2500 students every year, a large number from every mountain state and a few from foreign countries.

The natural cost of living is low in this section, and good management gives a student the best education for ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS A YEAR.

The College, controlled by no religious denomination, cooperates with all and provides religious exercises and education. Tobacco, liquor and the carrying of weapons are strictly forbidden. All students do some manual labor, for which they receive credit on their school bills.

Students are not invited who do not believe in Berea's principles.

EXPENSES
 Cheaper than Staying at Home

Berea's friends have made it possible to provide an education at a low cost. All students do some manual labor which is credited to their school bills, while many earn much of their way. These low expenses are not secured by unworthy deprivations, but students live comfortably at these rates. Half day school for those who bring least money. All applicants must make room reservations in advance by deposit of four dollars.
