Stage News.

In offering to the theatre-going public an attraction the management must first select a repertoire of musical comedies that will stand out and entertain the public and in this respect Messrs. McPhillips & Rechin have certainly made good. The musical comedies which will be presented during this week's engagement, commencing Monday night, Jan. 27th, are the best, selected from the big successes from the large cities. Aside from this, the management has selected the best artists in their specialties to act the parts of these brilliant musical comedies, and the costumes of the principals and chorus have also been looked after with great care, and the patrons of the local playhouse have much to look forward to during the engagement of the Hoey's Musical Comedy Co. The opening bill is entitled "The Military Girls." This piece has more life and melody, more catchy songs and more clever farceurs than most presentations of a similar nature. This company has been pronounced by press and public to be the cleanest and best popular priced musical comedy company ever enjoyed by an intelligent and refined audience.

Ladies free Monday night, if tickets are purchased before 6 p. m. Monday.

Don't fail to attend the poultry institute at the Poultry Show at McKee's Hall Feb. 5, 6, 7, and 8. You will hear the best authorities in the U. S. discuss the poultry industry from every point of view. Don't forget that this is the State show of the A. P. A., Kentucky branch, and that all the regular gold and silver medals will be won for the year of 1913. Be sure to enter your birds and win the coveted prizes.

Moved to Winchester.

Messrs. J. D. and Leslie King have moved with their families to Winchester to reside. These gentlemen have resided in Richmond for several years and have been engaged in concrete work, enjoying splendid business during their stay in this city.

The French Presidency.

Last Friday, January 18th, occurred the election of a new president of the French Republic. In France no special significance attaches to any such day as the "Tuesday after the first Monday in November." The republic chooses a new president when the term of the actual president expires, or when he dies or resigns,—for there have been French presidents who resigned,—and chooses him always for a full term of seven years. On three occasions before this election has fallen on January 17th.

The presidential election in France is interesting to Americans chiefly by reason of the difference between it and presidential elections in this country. There are no party conventions or presidential primaries, there is no popular vote, and no electoral college. On the appointed day the members of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies meet in joint session, and then and there choose the new head of the state by joint ballot. In contrast with the year-long preparation and excitement that characterize our national canvass, there is little discussion of the pending election, and that little mostly regards personal qualifications and is devoid of heat. Moreover, whereas in the United States there is eager maneuvering for a nomination, in France there is much reluctance among its candidates to permit their names to be used. Two of the most prominently mentioned statesmen recently refused to accept the office.

Nevertheless, the presidency of France is a position of great dignity and real power. With less authority than the President of the United States, the incumbent yet has greater influence on public affairs, on legislation, and on the personnel of the government than the King of England; for although in France, as in Great Britain, the ministry hold office only so long as it has the support of a majority in the Chamber of Deputies, the president can, and sometimes does, name individual cabinet officers, and with the consent of the Senate he can dissolve the Chamber of Deputies even against its will.

The constitution of France has now been in force for thirty-eight years, and the only changes in thirty-four years are a few machinery of electing deputies. No previous form of government since 1793, when Louis XVI was beheaded, has lasted so long. Moreover, France is a country where the people rule. They have universal suffrage and the kind of government they like, yet they have to make only infrequent visits to the polls, and are never called upon to study the political records of a long list of candidates.—Youth's Companion.

Don't forget that a special feature of the show are the educational features, arranged for your benefit. Come and take advantage of the opportunities offered.

You Can Bank on Zemo for Eczema!

A 25c Bottle Will Prove It Absolutely.

Your skin will reveal with joy the moment you apply the new remedy, ZEMO. "Glorious, but isn't it great!" ZEMO is a liquid. You rub it on the affected part, it sinks right in, and then it's good-bye to all that terrible itching, to every eczema sore, eczema pain, pimples, blackheads, blotches, rashes, sores and prickly heat. Yes, they all go; they're got to go. And how clear, smooth and spotless it leaves the skin! Dandruff disappears, too. ZEMO is safe, absolutely.

Use ZEMO for irritated, raw and inflamed skin; for cuts, sores and bites and feel the difference at once. Children especially who suffer from skin affliction will go wild over it. ZEMO is guaranteed to stop itching.

ZEMO is sold at drug stores in 25-cent and $1 bottles, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo. The $1 bottle contains six times as much as the 25-cent bottle.

Sold and guaranteed in Richmond by the Perry's Drug Store. adv

Absence

Makes the heart grow fonder, we're told, but a good portrait of the absent one will keep the recollection of the absent one more vivid—and comfort many a lonely hour of separation.

The Parcels Post.

This Parcels Post system established by your Uncle Sam is having a splendid effect upon the express companies throughout the country. Instead of being so independent, as heretofore, they are bowing subserviently to the will of the people. The following letter from W. M. Barrett, president of the Adams Express Co., to officers, agents and employees of the company, will be self-explanatory:

"Because of many inquiries from employees and others, it is deemed proper to state the attitude and policy of the Adams Express Co. toward the parcels post inaugurated on the 1st instant:

"The company appreciates that the parcels post has been established in response to a widespread and persistent demand and anticipates that it has come to stay. The company's policy will be to devote its energies to rendering a service even more efficient and satisfactory than in the past, and all officers and employees are directed to extend every effort to that end. The company does not wish any of its employees to adopt a policy of fault finding towards the parcels post, but expects them by their efficiency to demonstrate to its patrons the necessity for the express company's distinctive service."

Lester Bryant.

The death of Lester Bryant, seemingly, one of life's tragedies against which no human provision can be made. Selected as Kentucky's champion boy corn grower to be the guest of the Agricultural Department in Washington, a delayed train caused him to miss the committee appointed to take charge of him at the station. A desire to save something from the expense account allowed him, indeed him to go a cheap boarding house instead of to the Ebbett House, where a room had been reserved for him. Ignorance of the city's ways caused him to blow out the gas on going to bed. His dead body was found the next day near the door of his room, where he had fallen in an effort to escape.

His parents are poor. The same qualities which gained for him first place in a contest with the boys of the State prompted his thought of saving his money, the better to fit himself for usefulness on his return home.

It is all very pitiful and sympathy for those he leaves behind is as general as it is heartfelt. But, if it be true that life is after all but a school, it may well chance that a wiser power has called to new duties one who in so brief a span had so well learned the meaning of life's duties.—Louisville Times.

Richmond Royal Arch Chapter will confer the Royal Arch degree on a class of candidates at Masonic Temple Friday evening January 31, at 7 p. m. The Grand High Priest of Kentucky is expected to be present to inspect the work. All Royal Arch Masons are earnestly requested to be present.

Will Test New Primary Law.

Judge E. H. Winn, of Mt. Sterling, Judge Homer Batson, and Judge George Du Kelle have been appointed a committee of three by the Republican State Central Committee to 12-draft a suit testing that section of the State primary law, prohibiting political fusion by providing that no man shall offer for a party nomination without making affidavit that he voted that party ticket at the last election. Judge Du Kelle said the suit would not be instituted for some time, explaining that the various parties had not made preparations sufficient for the coming election to justify the filing of the suit at this time.

After any Sickness

nothing so rapidly restores health and vigor as SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is the essence of natural body-nourishment, so medically perfect that nature immediately appropriates and distributes it to every organ, every tissue—feeding, nourishing and restoring them to normal activity.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is not a patent medicine, but is nature's body-nourishment with curative, rebuilding properties and without a drop of drug or alcohol. It contains superior cod liver oil, the hypophosphites of lime and soda, glycerine, and is so delicately glycerinated that it enters the system without digestive effort—builds, tones and sustains.

After cough, whooping cough, measles and other child ailments it is nature's ally in restoring health.

After grippe or pneumonia it imparts strength and health, and for colds, coughs, sore, tight chests and throat troubles SCOTT'S EMULSION gives the greatest relief known.

Louisville May Have a Blue Grass League Club.

The following from the Louisville Times will be of interest to base ball fans in this section:

Louisville may have continuous base ball next season. Plans are now under consideration whereby all Association club owners may be enabled to increase their revenues by admitting clubs from smaller circuits to play at their parks when their own clubs are out of the city. At the meeting of the Association recently in Chicago the matter was discussed informally and it was discovered that a majority of the magnates favored a plan to admit minor clubs under certain restrictions. Thus the Blue Grass League would be permitted to place a team in Louisville, providing the club were controlled by President Wathen, of the Colonels, who could use it as a farm for his Class A team; already the Central International League has been proposed by Messrs. Lennon and Cantillon; the Ohio State League will place a club at Columbus and the Wisconsin-Illinois will invade Milwaukee.

It would be a ten-strike for the Blue Grass League to locate a team in Louisville. The games would not have to draw very large crowds to pay expenses; in fact, the Sunday dates alone would meet all revenue requirements, it is believed. Placing a team in Louisville would necessitate the dropping of one of the present Bluegrass cities, or the taking in of another town, to make it a six or eight-club circuit. This matter probably will be settled within the next ten days.

If Louisville enters the Bluegrass League a number of the youngsters who played last season on the Old Grand-dad team, pennant winners of the Afternoon League, under Manager Knobkamp, will be given places on the team.

"Mr. Bob" will be at the Opera House, this city. Dates given later. if

Foreshadows Banking Reform.

Carter Glass, of Virginia, Chairman of the House subcommittee which is framing a banking reform bill, has written an article for the New York Journal of Commerce on the essentials of a sound banking system. These he holds to be a sound elastic note issue, based on commercial credits, a rediscount agency for commercial paper, and more efficient bank regulation.

Mr. Glass has nothing to say about centralized reserves. It is reported from Washington that the subcommittee is debating whether to pool the bank reserves in a single reservoir, or to establish a limited number of districts, each to hold its own reserves. As chairman of the body which will frame the most important bill (or at least it is certainly the most conspicuous) to be presented to Congress on this vital issue, Mr. Glass looms as perhaps the most important figure in the banking reform movement; and what he has to say on the question is therefore of supreme importance.

Upholds Penalty Against Dishonest Horse Trader.

For a second time the Court of Appeals Tuesday affirmed the sentence of a horse trader for misrepresentations concerning the character of the animal he was selling, which amounted to obtaining money or property by false pretenses, when it affirmed the Calloway Circuit Court in giving an indeterminate sentence to Onis Hale. He sold a worthless mare to Isaac Woodall for $15. About a year ago a Graves county horse trader was convicted under similar circumstances of obtaining property by false pretenses. Defects in the indictment, employing the "get" instead of "obtain," and "horse" instead of "mare" were pleaded in the Hale case, but were declared to be immaterial by the court.

Believes in It.

Judge Benton believes it pays to be sick. The Winchester News says: "Judge Benton has reached the conclusion that it pays to be sick. He has found that when a fellow is sick his friends come to the front with messages of cheer and many other good things. While he was sick last week his larder was pretty well filled, fresh backbone, young chickens, dressed and alive, bottles of cream, a box of oranges and grape fruit from Jacksonville, Florida, flowers from the greenhouse, a book on Christian Science, two bottles of real grip medicine, and many other good things were showered on him. He felt like it would be a pretty good thing to be sick about twice a year."

First P.O. Primary.

The first post-office primary held in Kentucky to select the choice for appointment under the incoming Democratic national administration, was pulled off Saturday at Marion, Crittenden county, the home town of Senator-elect Ollie M. James, and proved a great success. Jessie Olive, a well-known Democrat, defeating seven opponents by the scant margin of 54 plurality. Under the agreement of all the applicants, who at the suggestion of Senator James, submitted their claims at the primary, Olive will get the Senator's endorsement and be the next postmaster at Marion. There is talk of holding post-office primaries at other places.—Louisville Times.

Father Punch Appointed.

Rev. Father Wm. T. Punch, the noted Catholic clergyman, well known in Richmond, where he has many friends, being at one time pastor of the Catholic church of this city, has been appointed by Bishop Mass, of Covington, a member of the Diocesan Council of the Diocese of Covington. Father Punch is at present pastor of the large St. Peter's church at Lexington.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, and is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all dealers. ad im

TURNPIKE BIDS!

Under orders of the Fiscal Court, the undersigned will, up to 3 P. M., Feb. 3, 1913, receive sealed bids for work on the various sections of turnpike in Madison county for the year 1913. Contracts to be fully completed Nov. 1, 1913, and those to whom contracts awarded to enter into written contract with the county on or before March 3, 1913, with approved security. Bids to state so much per CUBIC YARD for crushed or rapped stone, hard slate or gravel, quality and size of same to be approved by County Road Engineer, spread on road at places and times indicated.

From this date all measurements of stone, gravel, slate or other material used in repairing the pikes of this county will be computed by the CUBIC YARD of 27 cubic feet, instead of the perch and rod heretofore used as the unit of measurement. Ditching, heretofore measured by linear rod, will in the future be computed and paid for by the cubic yard of 27 cubic feet for actual quantity of earth, etc., removed from ditches. The rod heretofore used contains 8 1/3 cubic yards.

W. R. SHACKELFORD, Judge.
