Is the Commoner Growing Aesthetic?

Our old friend William Jennings Bryan has brought much adverse criticism on his head because of his apology for taking six weeks of the time he owes the government to perform his duties as Secretary of State to go to the Chautauque circuit and lecture at $250 or more per week, which is to be forced to do so to enable him to live, his salary of $12,000 a year being totally insufficient. Did any body ever? A man with only a wife now to support, born and reared when $12,000 was regarded as a fortune, can't live on that sum a year! Truly many his followers, of which we have been a loyal one these many years, enquire upon what meat has this Caesar fed that he has grown so great that $1,000 a month looks like the proverbial thirty cents to him! His indirect appeal for an increase of salary, when many distinguished former State Secretaries managed to get along on a third of what he gets, is unworthy of the great Commoner, and will not increase his popularity with the masses, who regard his salary now as a very large one. We do not want to do so just to Mr. Bryan, but we fear his love of lucre outweighs all other considerations with him. He has been a great money maker and is said to have accumulated a fortune exceeding half a million of dollars, yet he is the first to squeal for more pay, after so many years of preaching of Jeffersonian simplicity. Verily Mr. Bryan seems to want to wear a crown of gold for serving his country. Our advice is that if he thinks that he is underpaid to throw up the job and let some one else who hasn't such big ideas of his value, try to rattle around in the vacancy his great loss would create.

All Lexington is singing the praises of Acting Governor E. J. McDermott for settling the street car strike so quickly and so satisfactorily. A Republican governor would have sent the militia to bring order out of chaos. Gov. McDermott went in person. He told the street car company that it had to accept his findings and the strikers that he would run the cars with military escort the next day if they didn't.

The men had struck for more wages, better conditions of labor and a recognition of their union. The company had voluntarily advanced the wages and the agreement as signed binds both sides for two years. The company, while it may not militate against the union men, can still maintain the open shop, must take back its old employees, give them the preference over union men when their services merit it and working conditions are to be improved. Everybody was satisfied, the cars started again on Wednesday and Lexington resumed its normal appearance. Now let the rioters get their dues and such disgraceful scenes may not be again enacted.

SEEMING that the tariff bill will pass without their aid or consent, the republican Senators are doing every thing they can to delay the happy day when the masses, and not the classes, will have their innings. Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, has introduced a resolution to postpone further consideration of the bill till the regular session of 1914, so that the people can express themselves on it. Such a proposition is Tommyrotal. The people said in thunder tones at the last election that protective tariff must go and privilege and monopoly shall no longer have away.

This law of supply and demand does not seem to apply to men and women. England is blessed—or otherwise, according to the point of view—with over a million excess women, while in the American Northwest there are men who are compelled to cook their own meals and darn their own socks. There 3,777 marriageable women has officers galore and usually speedily wed. Taking the world as a whole, it is doubtful if there is a very considerable disparity between the male and female population, but there are many spots on the earth's surface where women predominate in numbers and others where men are far more numerous. The Northwestern farmers who want but can't get wives probably are treated so badly by fate because of the fact that Northwestern farm life doesn't appeal very strongly to women. If the farmer could assure some pretty young woman that hard work would not quickly fade the roses of her cheeks, coarsen her hands and narrow her life he might have less difficulty in finding a mate.

We do not recall higher eulogiums to an educator than are being paid to the memory of Prof. James Garrard White, brother of Dr. W. G. White, of this city. His death is a sad blow to the State University, which his high literary attainments, his gentle disposition and his high ideals did so much to build up. Forty or more years of his life were spent in educating young men and in inculcating culture and character, and he goes to his reward with the gratitude of all who came within the sphere of his usefulness and the welcome plaudits of the Master.

The Jacksonville, Fla., Metropolis has been bought by George A. McCellan, of Indianapolis, for $275,000, the biggest price ever paid for a poor newspaper and a poor newspaper plant. We suppose that Mr. McCellan has a method in his madness, but this distance it looks to us as if he is better supplied with luck than gray matter and business acumen. The Metropolis has never been able to do more than play second fiddle in a very poor fiddling game to the Jacksonville Times-Union.

The overwhelming sentiment for a clean primary, the efforts of the newspapers to that end and the pledges of the candidates to use neither liquor nor lucre, seem to insure that the election to be held August 2 will break all records for fairness. The people appear to be determined to put a ban forever on the dirty elections that have disgraced the State. A nomination secured by fraud would not be worth shucks.

In her suit for breach of promise, fixing her damage at $30,000, Miss Hopkins, of Philadelphia, files this "pome" that she claims Gov. Sulzer, of New York, sent her, as an exhibit: "Oh, Polly, dear, I somehow fear my end is near, my head feels queer my Polly, dear!" Let judgment be entered for the plaintiff in full amount!

A WELL-ESTABLISHED newspaper is better than a gold mine, while the reverse is worse than throwing money away. The New York World was appraised at $10,000,000 the other day and Mr. Roberts is said to have refused $100,000 for the Lexington Leader, or more, probably, than all the Richmond papers together could be bought for.

The school census for Kentucky shows that there are 12,236 children of the school age less this year than in 1912. This smatters somewhat of race suicide, but when we consider that the total number is 700,000, there is no alarm over the prospect of an early extinction of the population of the Commonwealth.

With President Wilson averting a strike of the Eastern trainmen, involving 80,000 men, and Gov. McDermott settling so satisfactorily the ugly strike of the street car men in Lexington, the country and State have cause for congratulation and gratitude.

A YOUNG WOMAN testified in court at Lexington that sometimes she is as "mean as the devil." We can't conceive how a woman could be that mean, but if she can, the one in question is refreshingly frank, to say the least.

Embry Deatherage Married.
 Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Deatherage are in receipt of a letter telling of the marriage of their son, Mr. Embry Deatherage, at Jackson, this State, on the 14th. Miss Ella Kindred, formerly of Berea, but now holding the responsible position of bookkeeper and stenographer for a big Cincinnati concern, is the young lady he wedded. After the marriage Mr. Deatherage returned to Cincinnati to care for her work until the company fills her place. A letter from her employer to a friend here gives the information that her place will be hard to fill and that it is with reluctance that she is given up. Mr. Deatherage is now holding a lucrative position with J. C. Odeell, the contractor, whose work is near Talliga. He is a fine young man and his many friends here are anxiously awaiting the opportunity to congratulate him on the step he has taken.

Here in the Interest of Sayre College.
 Prof. A. Rogers, to whom the writer had the pleasure of going to school in the long ago and whom he had not seen since, called at the Climax office this morning. He is here representing Sayre College at Lexington, one of the oldest and best institutions of learning in the country. It was organized as Sayre Institute in 1852 and turned out its first graduates three years later. A number of Madison county women have graduated there and many have shown their confidence in and regard for Sayre's splendid work by sending their daughters there. The faculty is a very strong one and the school is supplied with every equipment needed for successful work. It is an ideal place for the education of young women and it is not surprising that its roster contains the names of so many from this and other States. Prof. Rogers is calling at many of the homes of young women who are eligible for entrance to his school.

Sidney Winkler Thrusts His Knife Into the Heart of Wade Reeves.
 About 5 o'clock on last Saturday afternoon, near McSwain's store, in the East End, Sidney Winkler and Wade Reeves engaged in a fight in which the latter lost his life. Winkler stabbing him through the heart. Death was almost instantaneous. Winkler used his pocket knife and it is claimed that Reeves had him down beating him when he did so. There was another cut on Reeves' breast, but it was only superficial. The two men had been down town and had walked out to the East End together. Both were under the influence of liquor and therefore excited. It is supposed to have caused the trouble. A number of years ago the men were in jail and they engaged in a fistfight while incarcerated. Winkler, who is the pest-house keeper, is about 55 years of age and the dead man about 35. Both were married, the latter leaving, besides his wife, two children. He had been married only a short time to the wife who survives him. After the trouble Winkler started to the business part of town to give himself up, and meeting Chief of Police Allen, he told him what had occurred. He was placed in jail and brought out Monday morning for trial, but on account of absent witnesses the trial was postponed until tomorrow morning.

 More Men For Jury Service.
 Ninety more men from this county went to Winchester this morning from which to select a jury in the Callahan murder cases that are being tried there.
 Out After Protracted Illness.
 Mr. James Dykes, who has been ill for a long time, was able to come down town this morning and he was given the glad hand by many of his friends and admirers. He was the happiest man in town, probably, for all during his illness he was anxious to be outtelling the people how he would like to serve them as chief of police. Mr. Dykes has been on the police force for a number of years and his record as an officer is with out a flaw.
 To The Candidates For Jailer.
 I started in to make a clean race for jailer, have done so till now and am going to continue to do so. I will not use either money, liquor or any other unfair means to secure votes, and here and now challenge all the other candidates for this office to sign and keep an agreement with me to that effect. This agreement is waiting for you at the Climax office.
 Yours for a clean election,
 R. A. BARLOW. 85-2t

Church Notes

About twenty-five laymen met in the basement of the First Christian church on last Saturday evening and arranged to hold a Laymen's Convention here in October. All of the churches of the city were well represented at this meeting and Dr. Clay Lilly presented the plans for the convention which met with the hearty approval of all present. Many speakers will be present and the movement is to include the whole county; all churches of all denominations will be invited to take part in the movement and the men of Madison will show their hand in the church work of this county as never before.
 The Madison County Sunday School Convention will take place on August 16 and 17. The program for the first day will be held at Berea and the Sunday program will be held at Silver Creek Chapel near White's Station; dinner will be served on the grounds and a splendid all-day program will be rendered. All of the schools in the county are invited to be present and participate in this great meeting of the Sunday School forces of the county.
 "What shall we do about our boys?" is the question which is being asked by many thoughtful people of Richmond at this time; it is a long neglected subject but some solution for this problem will soon be given if the good people of the place will lend their assistance and help to execute wise and practical plans which are being devised looking to the welfare of the most valuable asset of the people of this city have. Talk it over with your neighbor and make up your mind to give the boys a fair show. The politicians will take care of themselves, let us take care of our boys. How do you vote on that question?
