WILD HOGS DO DAMAGE.

Barbourville, Ky.—To abate to some extent the ravages of a drove of hogs in the Turkey Creek country of Knox county a big hunt has been planned, in which a number of local sportsmen will take part. Several years ago a farmer on Turkey Creek, a mountainous and sparsely settled district, turned a drove of hogs out to exist on the beech mast, which is plentiful in the Turkey Creek region. He was never able to round up his drove, which has multiplied to such an extent that there are now believed to be over 100 of the animals, which have grown ferocious with the years of liberty. The few farms in that section have been scenes of depredations of the hogs, cornfields being devastated and fences torn down. Several dogs have been torn to pieces, according to reports, while attacking the brutes. Several of the wild hogs have been killed but no concentrated effort has ever been made before to rid the community of them.

TEACHERS HAVE GOOD PROGRAM.

Owensboro, Ky.—The teachers of the First and Third congressional districts closed a two-day conference here. A number of prominent educators were on the program, among whom are McHenry Rhoades, Lexington, state supervisor of schools; N. C. Hammack, president of the Kentucky Educational association; Prof. R. P. Halleck, Louisville; Dr. William F. Bock, supervisor of the Indiana schools, and Dr. Ora Samuel Gray, Boston. Dr. Ward King, of Split-log drag fame, addressed the teachers on good roads. Mr. King gave a demonstration of the use of the split-log drag on one of the country roads under the auspices of the Owensboro Chamber of Commerce.

FIRE STOPS MURDER TRIAL.

Hazard, Ky.—An alarm of fire stopped the argument of Senator Hogg, one of the half dozen attorneys in the case of the commonwealth against Emma Eversole, who shot and killed her husband, Mac Eversole, former sheriff of Perry county, last September. The fire was discovered in room 15 at the Combs' Hotel and was extinguished with but slight damage. There was a large gathering of women to hear the arguments and the stampede with a probable loss of life stopped by prompt action of Sheriff Horn and his deputies who held the crowd back long enough to give the people time to collect their wits and act with prudence.

WILL INVITE CHAMP CLARK.

Louisville, Ky.—Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and Henry Watterson will be asked to deliver addresses at the unveiling of the statue of George D. Prentice, which was presented to the board of trustees of the Louisville Courier Journal and The Times. The committee appointed to decide where the statue shall stand has announced that it will be placed in front of the main entrance to the library. The base of the statue will be of Bowling Green stone. Including the base the total height will be about eleven feet. The date for the unveiling has not yet been announced.

FARMERS FAILED TO ATTEND.

Harrodsburg, Ky.—The Farmers Institute held four days' session last week. The teachers performed their work admirably, but the farmers failed to attend as they should have, and as a rule manifested little interest. Only twenty-five to thirty-five attended each day. Those who attended are extravagant in their praises of the institution. Sixty high school boys and girls attended the afternoon sessions. The girls were specially interested in Miss Ann Chinn's talks and experiments. Miss Chinn was the official instructor in home economics.

MOONSHINING ON INCREASE.

Whitesburg, Ky.—A party of revenue officers, led by United States Marshal W. B. Adington, raided five large moonshine stills along the headwaters of Pound river, in Wise county, Va. Three alleged moonshiners, Creed Wells, Daug Wampler and Hugh Elliott were arrested. This was the most important moonshine raid made along the border in several weeks. Moonshining seems to be on the increase along the mountain border.

MAKING HANDLES FOR BASKETS.

Hickman, Ky.—The Erie Basket Co. is installing the machinery for its new plant. It began operations with handle machines. This company manufactures handles of all kinds, berry baskets, strawberry boxes, etc. Its headquarters are in Canada. It is the only concern of this kind in Western Kentucky.

ADAPTED FOR FRUIT GROWING.

Hickman, Ky.—The expert sent out from the department of agriculture at Washington to study the adaptability of this section to fruit growing has made a very favorable report of the country from Paducah to Reelfoot lake, below Hickman, saying that this part of western Kentucky as well as the Ozark belt of Missouri may be called "The Land of the Big Red Apple." Very little fruit is now grown in this section, the attention of farmers being given to cotton.

Hon. Cassius M. Clay's Will Probated.

The last will and testament of the Hon. Cassius M. Clay was presented at the office of County Clerk Pearce, at Paris, Wednesday last, for probate. The document, which is entirely in the handwriting of Mr. Clay, bears the date of April 4, 1903, with several codicils added thereto. The testator first bequeaths to his wife, Mary Harris Clay, the same rights and personal property that she would have possess under the law had he died intestate, and the balance of his estate of every description with such exceptions as are later mentioned, is to be divided equally among his four living children, Annie B. Shackelford, Sue E. Goodman, Cassius M., and John Harris Clay.

He directs that his daughter, Mrs. Shackelford, is to have the silver service and other personal property belonging to his mother, and that Mrs. Goodman, is to have the personal property belonging to her mother. To his son, Cassius M., he leaves his watch, scientific instruments and books on scientific subjects, and his father's portrait; and to his other son, John Harris, his fishing and hunting tackle and appliance.

In the last codicil, which bears the date of November 5, 1913, Mr. Clay directs his executors to pay the expenses of his two sons in getting a college education, and that $6,000 each of such amount shall not be charged against them in the division; that they shall have from his estate $9,000 each free from any limitations; and that Mrs. Goodman shall be given $4,000 to equalize her share with the other children. The estate of Mr. Clay is said to be worth about $350,000. Among the executors of the estate appear the names of Judge W. R. Shackelford and Mr. T. J. Curtis, of this city and county, respectively.

Rheuma Will Stop Uric Acid Deposit.

RHEUMATIC COMPLICATIONS CHECKED AND THE "HUMAN SEWERS" RESCUED.

The Kidneys, Bowels and Skin are the "human sewers" which carry off the impurities in the blood. When these are clogged Uric Acid sediment lodges in the muscles and joints and Rheumatism follows. RHEUMA, the great remedy for all forms of the terrible disease, checks the deposit of Uric Acid. "I suffered from Rheumatism for six years. Tried different doctors, with no relief. I have taken three bottles of RHEUMA and am entirely free from the disease."—P. W. Miller, Catawissa, Pa. B. L. Middleton will return your money if it fails. Fifty cents a bottle.

Smoking Habit Increasing.

Between 1903 and 1913 the number of cigarettes consumed yearly leaped from three billions to twelve billions. During the same ten years the increase in the use of little cigars has been from 640,000,000 to a more than 1,000,000,000 a year, or about 65 per cent. Cigars themselves have passed the 7,000,000,000 mark. But whereas, ten years ago, half as many cigarettes were smoked as cigars, now half as many cigars are smoked as cigarettes.

Judge—Hit by a piece of brick-a-brac?

Umpton—Not the brick, your honor; just the brick.—Judge.

"How would you do it?"

Leaves Falling "Down."

If the public could see some of the feet stuff brought and sent to newspaper offices, many would not wonder that an editor sees the ridiculous side (all to himself) and gets a little silent fun therefrom. Editor Sam Stairs, of the Dover News, prints the following:

"We have received a beautiful poem—that is, we imagine it is beautiful—the first line of which reads:

"The Autumn leaves are falling down."

We didn't read any further, for in all our years of experience, boy or man, we have never seen the leaves fall up. So, therefore, if the balance of the poem is as truthful as the first line, there is—sort of—well, it contains "more" truth than poetry." A poem containing all truth and no poetry has no business in this office.—Danville Advocate.

An Autobiography.

We know a man in our neighborhood that we call a good citizen. He has never set the world on fire and has traveled about but little, and is hardly known outside the confines of his own district. His name does not often appear in print and he has never stood forth and bowed to the applause of a crowd of admirers. But when a neighbor is ill this man drops around to ask if there is anything he can do. When a friend is laid away to the dreamless sleep, he always goes to drop a final tear on the bier, and as he walks slowly home after the last rites he always manages to say a good word about the departed.

He is fair and decent and honest in his business relations. He knows that he is simply a private and he does not try to wear the gold buttons of a colonel and shout himself hoarse giving orders.

We say such a citizen is worth a thousand of the four-flushers who wear a red sash and hank while the crowd is about, and then slink away when the shadows begin to lengthen and the people have dispersed.

Proprietors of more than 3,000 saloons in Ohio closed their doors last week, in accordance with the provisions of the State liquor license law, which limits the number of saloons in "wet" territory to one to each 500 inhabitants. The majority of the saloons which will not be permitted to reopen are located in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Toledo.

A Blood-Stained State.

Mr. O'Sullivan's interview concerning the stain of blood on the name of the State should receive the attention of the people at home and of those men who are to represent these people next winter at Frankfort, says the Louisville Evening Post.

Murder is the crime which it is safest to commit. Whether it is sympathy or a fellow feeling with the murderer, we can not tell, but here men are slain and murderers suffer no more than a slight inconvenience.

It should all be changed. The laws should be simplified; the provisions clearly described and the process of indictment and trial made so clear that no Commonwealth's attorney, no judge, no jury, could err therein.

This contempt for life casts a shadow over the whole State, warps the judgment of men, lowers our moral standard, and greatly retards our natural growth as well. It is the pestilence that stalketh at noonday, and which haunts the shadows of the night.

Life.

Man comes into the world without his consent and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood he is a devil; in his manhood he is every thing from a lizard up; in his duties he is a fool; if he has no family he is committing race suicide; if he raises a check he is a thief and the law raises Cain with him; if he is a poor man, he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich he is dishonest, but considered smart; if he is in politics he is a grafter and a crook; if he is out of politics you can't place him as he is an undesirable citizen; if he goes to church he is a hypocrite; if he stays away from church he is a sinner; if he donates to foreign missions he does it for show; if he doesn't he is stingy and a "tightwad." When he first comes into the world everybody wants to kiss him—before he goes out they want to kick him. If he dies young there was a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age he is in the way, and only living to save funeral expenses. Life is a funny proposition after all.

Jackson or Hughes May Run.

In the Kentucky political column of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Sunday, appeared this dope: "Henry Jackson, of Danville, appears to be most likely to make the race against Representative Harvey Helm, of Stanford, for the Democratic nomination in the Eighth District, and it is even being whispered about that Judge John W. Hughes, of Harrodsburg, who has just been appointed Collector of Internal Revenue at Danville, may conclude to out in for Congress."
