EVERY HOG A MONEY MAKER

Keep your hogs free from worms. These deadly pests will rob you of your profits—starve your stock—make them thin, scrawny and finally kill. If you follow the advice of the best stockmen, you will have

NO MORE LOSSES FROM WORMS

E. C. Stone, Sec. of the American Hampshire Swine Record Assn. says: "I know of nothing so good, reliable and cheap to expel worms and put hogs in condition to digest food as Sal-Vet."

Good Suggestion.

The Danville Messenger suggests that President Lawrence call an extra session of the Kentucky Press Association and all go to Florida and be guests of Lew Brown, Clarence Woods and W. P. and E. C. Walton for the next month or so.

And They Were Wed.

A young drummer named H. T. Baker got a one-dollar bill in change at a Lexington hotel in 1910 upon which he found the name of "Hattie Daisy Morris, Louisville, Ky." Baker wrote to the young lady and they married last Saturday.

The Latest.

The latest social wrinkle is a "white elephant party," to which each lady guest is invited to bring something that she has no use for, but is too good to throw away. Eleven husbands attended one of these social functions here.—Elizabethtown News.

Mexican Veteran Dead.

The last Mexican veteran of Nicholas passed away in the death of Jno. Martin, aged 85, at his home near Headquarters, that county, after a long illness. He was the father of Dr. Wm. H. Martin, a well-known physician of Oakdale Mills, Nicholas county.

Best Family Laxative.

Beware of constipation. Use Dr. King's New Life Pills and keep well. Mrs. Chas. E. Smith, of West Franklin, Me., calls them "Our family laxative." Nothing better for adults or aged. Get them today, 25c. All druggists or by mail, H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.—Adv. mar.

Isn't It The Truth?

Some men are very forgetful of the kind words spoken of them by others and the interest manifested in their welfare. But the world is full of ingrates and the best way to treat them is whenever they stick up their heads for public favor, whack it off.—Nicholasville News.

Gus Eastin's Estate.

The will of Gus Eastin, the widely-known turfman, was admitted to probate last week at Lexington. The estate is valued at about $100,000, most of which was in stocks and bonds. The Security Trust Company qualified as executor by giving bond of $75,000.

Special bequests, aggregating $30,000, were made to nephews and nieces. The remainder of the estate is to be divided equally between his grand-niece, Mrs. Annie Lou Chick Smith, with whom he made his home, her son, Augustin Eastin Smith, and his grand nephew, Geo. C. Chick.

Both Mr. Eastin and the beneficiaries under his will are well known in this section of Kentucky.

Itch! Itch! Itch!—Scratch! Scratch! The more you scratch, the worse the itch. Try Doan's Ointment. For eczema, any skin itching. 50 cents a box.—Adv. mar.

Injured by a Hog.

George Shumate was seriously injured while feeding his hogs on his farm west of Danville. One of the hogs became frightened and before Mr. Shumate could get out of his way, he was run over and knocked down by the furious beast.

Other Railroads May Cut Rates.

In order to compete with the L. & N. for passenger business in Kentucky, four other roads—the Southern, C. & O., Illinois Central and the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis roads may follow the lead taken by the L. & N. and reduce their rates to 2-1-2 cents between now and April 1.

More Deer For The Bell Preserves.

The second shipment of deer for the game preserves provided by Bell county, was received Saturday morning by express from Michigan and turned loose immediately in the temporary enclosure provided for them. The first shipment consisted of four does and in this shipment were three bucks and two does. The State Game Commissioner has contracted for 30 deer.

How to Catch Him.

The farmer's mule had just balked in the middle of the road when the country doctor came along. The farmer asked the physician if he could give him something to start the animal. The doctor said he could and, reaching down into his medicine case, gave him some powder. The mule switched his tail, tossed his head and started off at a mad gallop down the road.

The farmer looked first at the flying animal and then at the doctor, and asked: "How much will that medicine cost, Doc?"

"Oh, about fifteen cents," said the doctor.

"Well, give me a quarter's worth, quick!" and he swallowed it, saying, "I got'r ketch that mule!"

Early Disking "Makes" Corn.

More corn failures result in Kansas from an insufficient supply of moisture, says the Valley Farmer, than from any other reason. Early disking is the remedy. The subsoil forms a large reservoir, where an excess of water may be stored for future use. The spring rainfall can be saved by stirring the ground so it will enter freely and by keeping the top soil worked to prevent evaporation. If corn land is not plowed it should be disked early in the spring. Double disking is better. Disking keeps the soil from drying out so rapidly. Later in the season the moisture in the subsoil will rise to the surface as the crop uses the surface water. Besides preserving water, disking will help make a better seedbed and destroy a great many of the first crop weeds. A little early work as soon as the land is dry enough to work helps to pull the crop through a critical period in the summer time.

It Costs Money.

The mansion cost almost $100,000. On the first floor are six rooms and seven on the second. The first floor will attract the most attention, as on it are located the ball-room, the banquet hall, two drawing rooms, Gov. McCreary's private office his private dining-room and the ante-room to his office, which is but a part of the expansive hallways. Now, Rube, what kind of a house do you live in? Thirteen rooms, costing nearly $8,000 each is a fine place for your Governor to live in. What the devil do the taxpayers want with a ball room at Frankfort? What do they want a banquet hall for anyway? It's a wonder they don't have a big room for the chaplain to hold forth in while the crowd in the ball room is dancing and the crowd in the banquet hall are drinking their extra fine wines. Dancing, drinking and preaching all going on in the Governor's mansion at once. And the whole paid for by you, dear Rube.—Burdette Item.

Fares to be Reduced by The L. & N.

A reduction of one-half a cent a mile for passenger fares on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Kentucky was announced by W. A. Russell, passenger traffic manager, at Louisville.

Possibly as early as April 1, certainly not later than May 1, according to the announcement, the rate on the L. & N. and on all branches and new lines, except those on which the present passenger rate is not remunerative, the fare will be reduced from three cents to two and one-half cents a mile.

This reduction applies both to intrastate and interstate traffic. Combined with similar reductions in Tennessee and in Alabama, it establishes practically a two and one-half-cent rate from the Ohio river to the Gulf of Mexico.

It is estimated that this rate reduction will affect the passenger revenues in Kentucky in the sum of $130,000 a year on interstate traffic and the total cut in passenger revenue for the three States of Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama is estimated at $900,000 a year through this reduction of half a cent.

A Preacher's Wife.

The following may be a new law enacted by the Kentucky Legislature. We refer it to the probate committee:

"The minister's wife ought to be selected by a committee of the church. She should be warranted never to have headache or neuralgia; she should have nerves of wire and sinews of iron; she should never be tired. She should be cheerful and intellectual; pious and domestic; she should be able to keep her husband's house, darn his socks, make his shirts, cook his dinner and copy his sermons. She should keep up the style of a lady on the wages of a day laborer, and be always at leisure for "good works" and ready to receive morning calls. She should be secretary of the Band of Hope and president of the ladies' missionary society; she should conduct Bible classes and mothers' meetings; should make clothing for the poor and gruel for the sick; and, finally, she should be pleased with everybody and everything, and never desire any reward beyond the satisfaction of having done her own duty—and that of other people's, too.

An Eloquent Passage.

Probably of all the beautiful and eloquent passages ever written by the inimitable George D. Prentice, the following is the finest:

"It cannot be that earth is man's final resting-place. It cannot be that our life is a bubble cast by eternity to float a moment upon its waves and then sink into nothingness. Else why is it that the high and glorious aspirations which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts are forever wandering unsatisfied? Why is it that the rainbow and cloud come over us with a beauty that is not of earth, and then pass off to leave us to muse on their loveliness? Why is it that the stars which 'hold their festival around the midnight throne' are set above the grasp of our limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And, finally, why is it that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view and taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affection to flow back in an Alpine torrent upon our hearts? There is a realm where the rainbow never fades; where the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber on the ocean, and where the beautiful beings which pass before us like shadows will stay forever in our presence."
