IRELAND'S ANSWER.

Opening of the Sinn Fein Parliament in Dublin last week and the declaration of independence of Ireland may prove to be the right step in getting the peace conference to consider Ireland's case.

LITTLE REFORM HERE.

The editor of the Baptist World is indignant because President Wilson called on the Pope and wants reform in the Government attitude to the Catholic church.

The opera-bouffe setting given the Sinn Fein Parliament in the inspired dispatches from Dublin has made no friends for the Associated Press.

MARY J. CLINES.

One of the well known and most beloved women of the Cathedral congregation passed peacefully away at her home Sunday night when the immortal spirit of Mrs. Mary J. Clines, widow of the late Thomas P. Clines, was called to partake of the bliss of an eternal life in heaven.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:

HAVING an ambition to serve the people of Kentucky in the high and honorable office of Attorney General, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for this office at the August primary, 1919.

R. W. LISANSBY, State; a nonpartisan judiciary; efficiency in office; and whatever will redound to the betterment of our State; and if nominated and elected

I pledge my best endeavor to the efficient handling of the affairs of this office. The Princeton Bar Association is kind enough to say of me as follows:

"As members of the Princeton Bar Association and in behalf of R. W. Lisansby, a fellow member, in his race for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General, we beg to say that Mr. Lisansby has successfully handled the important litigation in this section of our State for several years; he has successfully appeared in oral argument before our Court of Appeals of Kentucky, in a number of cases; in 1915 a case he successfully handled, Frank vs. Smith, appeared in the Lawyers Reports Annotated, selected as a leading case in point in our nation, about forty pages of this great publication being given to this case with citations to other similar cases; all of which is a record of which a graduate of Yale or Harvard might well be proud.

ASSURING you of my high appreciation of your support and pledging my sincere efforts to faithfully discharge the duties of this office if nominated and elected, I beg to remain, yours sincerely,

R. W. LISANSBY, Princeton, Ky. January 20, 1919. (Advertisement.)
