BRITAIN'S

Propaganda in the United States Is Exposed in Investigator's Report.
Histories and Text Books Rewritten to Influence Present Generation.
Northlife Fund of $150,000,000 and Ten Thousand Agents For Propaganda.
SEE THE ANGIO-SAXON MYTH.

Amazing revelations of British propaganda in the United States are exposed in a report by Edward F. McSweeney, Chairman of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce. The report in part is as follows:
What is the object of this alleged attack on the integrity of the United States and the "proof" that any "back" being made? Answering the first question: Imperial ambition, the persistent and never-changing methods of British diplomacy have, during 300 years, increased an island kingdom of 50,000 square miles to an empire of 15,000,000 square miles—more than one-half of the inhabited fertile land area of the world—and from a population of about 6,000,000 to a combined ruling and subject population of more than half a billion souls.
To achieve this result England, during the generations, by the arts in which it is indubitably the master of the world, has successfully wrecked every nation striving to be its competitor for any considerable share of the world's commerce or for equality of political power among the States of the world. As the result of this policy Britain has, by intrigue, propaganda and alliance, destroyed in turn the commercial power of Spain, Holland, Denmark, France and, during the great world war, that of Austria-Hungary and Germany.
There remain today only two nations which are real competitors of England—Japan and the United States. Japan, being in hope of enjoyment of the fruits of its secret treaties, is for the present a friendly ally, but the only remaining competitor to Britain is the United States, which is now being allured into a permanent alliance, to be followed by a formal reunion, for which its propaganda services are feverishly at work to create a favorable sentiment in this country.
What are the proofs that this conspiracy is under way? It has never ceased for over 140 years. Colonial times we have always had a considerable part of the population who opposed our national independent existence from British control. The Tories were one-half, if not more, of the population of England's time. They politically controlled Massachusetts in the war of 1812 and were largely in evidence during the civil war. It is, however, only during the last three years that the modern Anglo-Saxon propaganda has been introduced and shown themselves in their true colors.
The first effect of the British propaganda campaign has been to undermine the foundations of our national life in the public schools. As can be shown conclusively, this already has made substantial progress. The history of the Revolution has been rewritten. In the words of Dr. James K. Mooney, LL. D., in his history of Samuel Adams in the American statesmen series, page 263: "The objections to a connection with England, so important a hundred years ago, have been in a large measure set aside" and further, "The time may come through some application of the Federal principle that they (the United States and Great Britain) may come together into a vast United States, the pathways to which are strewn with the debris of a shattered past."
After Lord Northcliffe's return to England, following his visit to the United States in 1917, it was reported to Parliament that he had left here $150,000,000 for propaganda and 10,000 agents. In that year a Fourth of July demonstration was held in London, during which George Haven Putnam, the head of one of the largest book publishing houses in this country, made the following observations:
"The feelings and prejudices of Americans concerning their transatlantic kinship were shaped for my generation, as for the boys of every generation that had grown up since 1775, on text books and histories that presented unbiassed, partisan and often distorted views of the history of the first English colonies, of the events of the Revolution, of the issues that brought about the war of 1812-15 and the grievances of 1851-65."
"The influence of the British elements in our population has proved sufficiently strong to enable the English-American to bring it under control and to weld it into a nation that, in its common character and purposes, is English. Text books are now being prepared which will present history in accounts of the events of 1775-83, 1812-15 and 1851-65."
"The most dangerous and un-American of the British propaganda arguments is that about 'Anglo-Saxon civilization,' because it is the oldest and has the most distinguished advocates. By dint of iteration and reiteration this uncontradicted falsehood has actually brought about in the United States the subconscious acceptance of a misleading idea which during the last fifty years has run until it is commonly used, yet nobody ever knows what it means. One of its high priests, President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, recently described what he calls the "Anglo-Saxon impulse" in the London Times.

"Nothing seems to me more clear than that the world desperately needs for its leadership, guidance and safety precisely those qualities of mind and character known in our own history as Anglo-Saxon. It is the extraordinary persistence of the Anglo-Saxon impulse which brought America into existence; it is the underlying and controlling fact in American life. It has furnished the war through which the shuttle of time and change has carved the threads which make American history."
"Despite the large Irish, German, Slav, Italian, Scandinavian and Jewish additions to the original American population, the Anglo-Saxon impulse holds its own. In America it is repeating, on a larger scale, the history of England, and it is drawing to itself support and strength from the other and varied nationalities that are here joined to it."
"The English language overrules the immigrants' native tongue, if not in the first generation, certainly in the second, and the English common law, with its statutory amendments and additions, displaces the immigrants' customs of life and death with a rapidity that is truly astonishing."
The Anglo-Saxon impulse was and is not in the least responsible for the progress of the United States. It had nothing to do with the Spanish in Florida, the Huguenots in Virginia, the Swedes in Delaware and New Jersey, the Dutch in New York and Pennsylvania, and the Celts in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

IRISH BILL DATE FIXED.
From London it has been cabled that a definite date is now fixed for introduction of the Irish Government bill. On or about Thursday, December 4, the Government will lay upon the table of the House of Commons the Irish proposals, which will, in the belief of the coalition supporters, "at least command discussion both in the United Kingdom and beyond the seas." The London Chronicle, which is understood to reflect the Prime Minister's views, says:
"The Governments are wishful that the Irish bill should be examined thoroughly by every one interested, and they are not too likely to take any further step with regard to it until after Christmas. By the time the second reading is fixed, therefore, full opportunity will have been given to the formation of public opinion as to its practicability. The opinion of the people of the United States is not relevant to decision of a Parliamentary measure of course, but it will have a certain effect upon public opinion in Ireland and Great Britain. The point of interest to Americans probably will lie in the fact that the scheme will contain all elements of local Government, as local government is understood in America. It should, therefore, command itself to that people as a reasonable proposal for settlement."

NEW ALBANY.
Rev. Father John Handley, of the Order of the Congregation of St. Paul, and a member of the staff of St. Mary's Catholic church in Chicago, has been conducting this week at Holy Trinity church one of the most successful and beneficial spiritual retreats for men ever known in New Albany. It will close tomorrow with sermon and blessing. Father Handley, who states that he is a convert to the Catholic faith, has been in the priesthood since 1889 and has been active in mission work in the United States and in Alaska. Before he entered the priesthood he was a newspaper man, and he received his early newspaper training under the late Marquess B. Morton, a former well-known Louisville newspaper man. His one time job was reporter on the Nashville American and he attended Vanderbilt University. It was while he was serving as private secretary to George B. Cable, the novelist, that he became converted to the Catholic faith.

MISSION AT ST. PETERS.
Beginning at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning a two weeks' mission, conducted by the Friars Minor Conventual, will open at St. Peter's church, Seventeenth and Garland. The first week will be for women and the last for men. The mission will be at 5:30 and 7:30 in the morning, the Way of the Cross at 2:30 in the afternoon, and rosary instruction and sermon and benediction at 7:30 in the evening. Father Feberl, the pastor, will welcome all who desire to make the mission and obtain the Papal blessing and indulgence.

BARSTOWN.
Sunday was a great day for the Knights of Columbus of Bardstown, when the third big class initiation within the past six months was put over. The degree work was exemplified by the Bardstown and Louisville teams, nearly fifty new members receiving the honor of Knighthood. Following the initiation exercises a banquet was served at the Bardstown Opera House by the ladies of the Altar Society of St. Joseph's church. The speakers for the occasion were District Deputy Thomas D. Gilnes, Hon. Ben Johnson and others.

NOTICE TO CLASSES.
Miss Eva Cooper has volunteered to teach the office training class on Wednesday nights and Miss Anna Bell Augustus the English mathematics class on Friday nights, for the present term. The hours are from 6 to 8 at the National Catholic Council rooms on Fourth street, and all girls are welcome to join at any time. There are no charges.

K. OF C.

Paying the Way of Soldiers, Sailors and Marines in Leading Colleges.
Scholars Represent Every State in the Union and Also All Creeds.
Stands Forth as a Rather Solid Piece of Reconstruction Work.
TO COST A MILLION DOLLARS.

In their official report of their educational movement for ex-servicemen, the Knights of Columbus state that out of a total of 3,000 applications for the 100 scholarships they offered last August to veterans of the war 257 applicants qualified for preliminary examination. Applications were received from every State in the Union. Over 100 came from men in France and one from an American soldier in Germany. The Knights increased the number of scholarships from 100 to a number sufficient to accommodate the men who passed the entrance examination set by the institution they desired to enter. Of the 367 over 300 qualified; 284 are now in school and others will be placed. It is expected that the final roster of K. of C. ex-servicemen will contain between 350 and 450 names.
Not one of the men selected by the Knights had other prospects of receiving higher technical or academic education. The Knights provide them with tuition, board and lodging and books. In cases where the men live off campus they are allowed $50 per month for living expenses, a sum in excess of that given by most large endowments. The bulk of the applicants selected technical courses in engineering, agriculture, dentistry, etc. They have been placed in these numbers: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 44; University of Pennsylvania, 26; University of Illinois, 30; Georgetown Foreign Service School, 25; Sheffield Scientific School, 17; Stevens Institute, 15; Louisiana State University, 9; Worcester Polytechnic, 7; University of Minnesota, 6; Brooklyn Polytechnic, 5; University of California, 5; Purdue, 5; Michigan Agricultural College, 4; Ohio State College, 4; West Virginia University, 2; Oregon Agricultural College, 2; and Missouri University, Montana State Agricultural College and the Colorado School of Mines, 1 each. Holy Cross College, of Worcester, leads in the receipt of academic scholars, having 22; the Catholic University has 19, Notre Dame University 18, Fordham 15, and the others are distributed as follows: the proportion of applicants successful in the academic examinations. The scholars come from all States in the Union, New York leading with 51, Massachusetts having 49, Pennsylvania 22, Connecticut 13, New Jersey 15, Indiana 14, Louisiana 8, Missouri 7, Minnesota 6, and California 5.

While the Knights asked no questions concerning religious affiliations of applicants, all denominations are represented among the scholars, Catholic being less than 50 per cent of the total. The names of scholars attending one college are typical. Brooklyn, Connecticut, New York, Norway, Finkelstein, O'Brien and Persistent. It is estimated that the cost of giving these men a full course will be over $1,000,000. These scholarships, with the K. of C. demobilized men's technical schools now operated by scores of K. of C. subordinate councils, will bring the expenditure for the Knights' educational branch of relief to $2,000,000, a considerable sum for a religious organization of only a few millions. The Knights are excepting their most keep abreast with studies. Many football and other athletic stars are numbered among them, including Capt. Tim Callahan, of Yale. President Bradley, of Yale, has described the plan as "an admirable work of reconstruction" and President Ira N. Holtz, of Worcester Polytechnic, congratulated the Knights for "going ahead without red tape and without imposing all kinds of restrictions."

INSPECT THE CONVENT.

The Catholic Northwest Progress covers this generally exciting subject with the following editorial, which certainly gives us a phase of inspection overlooked by our Catholic brethren in most parts of our country. We take the cue with pleasure and relay the idea for the consideration of our societies and readers. The Progress says:
