

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

ABSOLUTELY PURE CLEVELAND FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Thinks He Has Written Enough On the Tariff Bill.

He Favorably Expresses His Mind to a Senator on the Subject.

Strained Relations Between the President and Secretary Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—"Oh, — a message, I have said enough about the tariff bill."

This was the answer President Cleveland made to a Democratic senator who called at the white house to urge the signing of the bill with a message stating the views of the executive.

The president's vigorous expression was intended for Senator Carlisle, but it was such a remarkable utterance that it was promptly repeated to other senators, and in this way came to a corresponding effect.

Nothing could better illustrate Mr. Cleveland's attitude and temper at this time. He will not sign the tariff bill, and he will not write a message to Congress. The president will simply ignore the act of the democratic senate and house. And he will show his contempt for their tariff work by permitting the bill to lie on the table of the treasury until it becomes a law.

It is surprising for the president, according to inside administration sources, was the letter of Secretary Carlisle to Senator Harris, pleading against the free sugar bill, which is now pending in the senate.

Mr. Carlisle would cause a deflection of nearly $100,000,000. There are two stories told as to this famous letter. One is that Secretary Carlisle, after sending his communication to the senate, acquainted the president with his intention and was told to go ahead.

Another story is that the president never looking about the contents of Mr. Carlisle's letter, and is very angry at the argument given the senate as an excuse for obstructing the tariff bill.

As near as can be ascertained, Secretary Carlisle did make an effort to see the president the morning after his letter was written, but the president, however, was ill and was suffering from the attack of malaria which subsequently drove him to Buzzard's bay refuge.

No one could see the president, but a verbal message was sent to him by Private Secretary Whitney, which may or may not have been clear.

At any rate a cabinet officer is reported as authority for the statement that the president did not know what his secretary of the treasury was doing.

It is also reported that the president would have signed the tariff bill if he had known that the president would have signed the tariff bill.

All this comes from those who intimate that had the president been healthy and that he would not be in the peculiar position he is today, with a bill pending in the senate, and a bill pending in the house, and a bill pending in the treasury.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the president's attitude is very interesting, and that the relations between the president and the senate are strained and likely to become more so.

It will also be seen that the determination of Mr. Cleveland's closest friends to believe him, as far as they possibly can, from any responsibility for the terrible plight into which matters have now come.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The senate today passed a bill to amend the act of March 3, 1879, relating to the duties of the collector of the customs.

The bill was passed by a vote of 75 to 15. It was introduced by Senator Carlisle.

The bill provides that the collector of the customs shall be appointed by the president, and shall hold office for a term of four years.

The bill also provides that the collector of the customs shall be removable at any time by the president.

The bill further provides that the collector of the customs shall be subject to removal by the president for any cause which would justify the removal of any other officer.

WILL NOT SIGN.

President Cleveland Will Withhold His Name From the Tariff Bill, Says Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Cleveland will not sign the tariff bill. This determination was indicated Thursday by the adjournment of the senate and house until Monday.

The greatest pressure ever exerted upon an executive to make his father a measure more under the supposed responsibility of acknowledged democratic leadership has failed to sway the final determination of Mr. Cleveland even a hair's breadth. He will have nothing to do with the younger generation.

The outgoing train Friday evening were filled with departing cabinet members. They were completely disgraced by the news conveyed privately by Speaker Crisp to congress that President Cleveland would not endorse their tariff work. Most of these representatives were expected to engage in a re-bait campaign for re-election.

The democratic paralysis produced by the president's highly refusal to endorse the tariff bill, which became a law within a few days can hardly be appreciated away from Washington. Senators and representatives are all shocked by the fact that a lightning stroke of presidential contempt which has been hurled at them.

A veto would have offered an outlet for the indignation of the republicans, but the president's refusal to do so has left them with no alternative. The declaration that notwithstanding the executive disapproval of the measure, the republicans will permit a bill to pass concerning the mistake as to also is not to be expected.

On their way down to the Detroit team was stopped by a gang of hostiles, and Douglas, who was with them, were compelled to leave the bus to punish their assailants. A Toledo lad who was riding in their last had his jaw broken by a stone thrown at him by launching their hits in the fourth inning.

Mexicans Killed at a Cook Fight. SANTIAGO, Aug. 28.—At a grand cooking main given in the village of Comuna, southwest of this city, attended by the mountaineers for many miles around, while the fights between the birds were in progress, trouble arose between two rival owners, and a general fight took place, which resulted in five men being stabbed to death and several others seriously injured.

The ranch guards were called upon to quell the disturbance, which threatened to involve the whole town. A large number of arrests have been made.

NEW COURTHOUSE.

Chicago is To Have a Magnificent One, and One Half.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—The commissioners of Cook county have for some months been planning the erection of a new and magnificent structure for a courthouse and city hall to take the place of the present dilapidated buildings occupying the site of the old courthouse.

The greatest pressure ever exerted upon an executive to make his father a measure more under the supposed responsibility of acknowledged democratic leadership has failed to sway the final determination of Mr. Cleveland even a hair's breadth. He will have nothing to do with the younger generation.
