The Many Golden Breeds That Have The Call of the Hour.

The first half-colored fowl of England, those interested in poultry should learn about them as well as the Buff Shanghais, as they do double in color, together with the fairly well-developed breed of the Buff Brahmas and the yellow Shanghais, as to which we will say a word later.

The Buff Brahmas, or yellow Shanghais, as such a variety is called, are a breed that is much talked about and much admired. They are a breed of poultry that is said to have been developed in China and brought to England. The color of the Buff Brahmas is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Shanghais, as the Buff Brahmas, are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Shanghais is a beautiful shade of yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Buff Brahmas have not as yet been found as prominently, simply because the breed has not yet been able to prove their hardiness in England. Some of the best females have shown a cross of Indian Game, and so it is possible that we may see more of this breed in the future. Some of the Buff Brahmas have been seen in the United States, and these have been very fine, but the result of the cross of the Buff Brahmas and the golden red of the Orient is in all the Mail-bag. It is a very fine breed and is greatly looked up to by poultry fanciers.

The Buff Brahmas are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates. The Buff Brahmas are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.

The Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais are a breed of poultry that is said to be of Chinese origin. The color of the Buff Brahmas and the Shanghais is a beautiful shade of golden yellow, with the beak and feet a darker shade of yellow. They are said to be very hardy and to thrive in all climates.