"GUM-SHOES" Hunter has always been a disturbing element in the Republican ranks. His appearance in the E'venth district has caused such a serious split in the party down there, that it will take years to heal the dissension.

An immense crowd greeted Gov. Beckham at Hickman, Ky. A significant feature of the meeting, showing the trend of sentiment towards the Democracy, was that Hon. R. T. Tyler, who has not affiliated with the party for seven years, presided and introduced the Governor to the audience.

Worse and still more of it. The postal scandal and fraud in connection with the care of the Indians were enough for the Republican National Administration to contend with, but now comes news that a stupendous "land graft" has been unearthed on the Pacific coast. The Oregonian of Portland, Ore., thus tells about this latest scandal:

The government has unearthed a stupendous "land graft" ring that has been carrying on a business in every well-timbered area on the Pacific slope. This ring has not only acquired "base" lands by "dummies" and other fraudulent means; it has debauched State land officials, making them hirelings or partners in the business. It has maintained in the general land office at Washington agents whose duties were to "leak" information about proposed reserves and other profitable matter; and by use of money has influenced placing of a re-boundaries to its own interests. The central figures of this conspiracy are said to be in San Francisco. William J. Burns, in the secret service in the Treasury Department, and A. B. Hugh, Assistant Attorney General in the Interior Department, were in Portland last week gathering evidence that will help the government in prosecuting the instigators of the conspiracy. They interviewed a number of men who had been paid for the use of their names in applications for State school land; also certain notaries public who are accused of certifying false and fraudulent affidavits.

CLARENCE MATHEWS, P. M.

Mr. Deboe Was Tiresome.

GREENUP, KY., October 21.—One hundred and eight people, including ladies and the Danleyton brass band, heard Senator W. J. Deboe at the court house this afternoon. His effort was weak and tiresome, and he only made one point, and that was that the railroad company violated the law instead of Belknap & Co. in the case of indictment.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. D. Schwendeneck and two daughters of Mill Creek are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rattler of Dayton, O.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford and children are visiting his parents at Dover. They expect to locate at Cincinnati shortly.

—Lieutenant Carroll Power and wife went to Flemingsburg Thursday to spend a couple of weeks with his parents, Judge Power and wife.

—Mrs. George Schwendeneck and little daughter Catharine of Augusta visited Mr. Dan. Schwendeneck and family of this county and attended the mission at Maslick the past week.

BACK IN RANKS.

Judge Humphrey, of Louisville, Tells Why He Will Vote Democratic Ticket.

Believes in Democracy's Principles and Believes Democratic Rule is Best For the State.

One of the striking features of the present campaign in Kentucky is the number of Democrats who have "returned to their first love" and who are now advocating the election of the State and county tickets. Not in many years has the party presented as solid a front, and the harmony that once more prevails points unmistakably to a Democratic victory on Nov. 3rd. The list of those who have returned to the ranks includes some of the most prominent men in the State. Notable among them is Judge Alex. P. Humphrey, one of Louisville's foremost citizens and among the State's leading lawyers. At a big Democratic rally at Louisville this week, Judge Humphrey addressed a crowd of over 5,000 of his fellow citizens, and told why he is going to vote the Democratic ticket Nov. 3rd. Among other things he said:

For some years past I have been most regularly irregular in my Democracy. In this time I have found that there is nothing my Republican friends think so well of as a Democrat who is independent; and by independence is meant a Democrat who votes the Republican ticket. It is this strict definition of independence, this inability of good rule to work both ways, that keeps Philadelphia solidly Republican while it encourages the Citizens' Union in New York.

The secession from the Democratic party in Kentucky in the Presidential years of 1896 and 1900, and in the State election of 1899, was not caused by any personal pique or disappointed ambition. It was largely of those who had neither held nor wished to hold office; of those who had been all their lives Democrats from conviction, from sentiment and from prejudice. All three of these things enter into our politics. We were at variance, and radically at variance, with the platforms of 1896 and 1900, and we regarded the election law as the vital issue in the State election of 1899.

The election law has been replaced by another, of which I shall speak in a moment; and time has tried and events rendered idle the differences of 1896 and 1900.

Under these conditions there is every reason why those of us who believe in Democratic principles and wish for the success of the Democratic party should resume our place in its ranks.

I do not undertake to say that our election law is yet an ideal law; but I know of no law in any of the States which is fairer to both political parties than is the law of Kentucky. Nor do I find in the programme of the Republican party any definite proposition of amendment or change in our method of registration and election. Nor, considering what has been done by the Democratic Legislature in this respect, do I find any reason for those who have heretofore been Democrats continuing outside of the party organization on account of the issues of 1899.

Again premising that I am now speaking to those persons who believe that party government is essential to a government by the people, and to those persons who have been Democrats from conviction, it seems to me clear that we can no longer excuse ourselves from taking an active part in the selection and election of Democratic candidates.

Speaking for myself, and aside from sentiment and prejudice, I have two present and sufficient reasons for being a Democrat. I think the tariff should be radically reformed, and I think we should prevent a recurrence of carpetbag governments in the Southern States.

The tariff is becoming every day more and more an issue of vital importance. The events of the day are pressing this issue closer and closer upon us.

A good deal is said in political platforms and in campaign speeches regarding the evils of large industrial combinations. It is the freedom of competition which is bounded and curtailed by our tariff law.

The other question which has threatened the South since the close of the war and will always threaten it in the absence of a strong Democratic party, is the enforcement of the Fifteenth Amendment. There is hardly a writer upon political science who does not acknowledge that the passage and enforcement of the Fifteenth Amendment was the greatest political crime ever committed against a free people. The Democratic party has no sort of prejudice against those who were supposed to be protected by the enactment. It owes to that race the duty of education and enlightenment, and is performing that duty up to the limit of the means of the people. Nor does it fear what that race, if left to itself, would do. But it is impossible for us to forget the result of the combination of a handful of white men, aided and abetted by the National Republican party, with its ignorant vote imposed upon the South in States by the passage of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. And it has not been very many years since the Republican party endeavored to enact a force bill which would have compelled the Southern States either to submit again to universal plunder or to invite the National Government to reoccupy its territory and govern it by the military power of the nation.

In regard to State and local issues the platforms of both parties promise the same things. As for men, we are able to say from the experience of many years that the Democratic party is well fitted to govern us in our State and local affairs. I might recite one honorable and prosperous Democratic administration after another, and challenge a comparison as to the peace and welfare of the State and city during any one of them with the best Republican administration that has at any time been given us.

And again, I repeat that there is no good reason why a Democrat or a real Independent should prefer to intrust the affairs of our State and city government to the hands of the Republican party rather than to the hands of the Democratic party.

We are asked to vote the Republican party into power because it is the party of peace, of law and obedience to law, of conservatism, of order and obedience to order. I might ask you to go over with me the events of the winter of 1899-1900, but they are fresh in your memory. Whatever anyone may think of the contests for the offices, they were instituted in pursuance of lawful right, before tribunals prescribed by statute for their consideration. Do you call that man a law-abiding citizen who obeys the law only when it is to his advantage? Who acquiesces in judgments which redound to his profit? After all had been done, that was done, and when the State of Kentucky was in the very throes of anarchy, some of the calmest, most conservative and wisest of the members of the Republican party met with men of similar character in the Democratic party. Terms of adjustment were agreed to—honorable to both parties. Peace and order would have been the fruit of this endeavor. What happened? The compact was torn to fragments by those in power, and counselors cast to the winds, and by whom? Not by the Democrats, but by those in control of the Republican party.

IN MAYSVILLE.

Every Claim is Backed by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Maysville what can it be?

Mrs. Willard Nichols, of 251 West Third street, says: "The result of the use of Doan's Kidney Pills proves them to be a most valuable remedy. Relief from backache follows from the first dose and a positive cure is effected in a short time. Mr. Nichols also used Doan's Kidney Pills with best results, procuring them at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store, corner of West Second and Market streets."
