AND now a scandal has been disclosed in the patent office at Washington City. "Turn the Rascals Out" would be a good campaign slogan for the Democrats next fall.

In view of all the rascality and rottenness in different departments of the National Government, the Hon. Joseph Folk of Missouri would be a good man to put in charge of affairs at the National Capitol for a while.

THE price of illuminating oil has been gradually increased until now it is 14 cents a gallon, and that gigantic combine of extortioners known as the Standard Oil Company is filling its coffers with millions to be apportioned among the gang. It has not been so very many years since Maysville people could buy all the oil they wanted at 7 and 8 cents a gallon, but that was before the trust tightened its grip upon the country. The increase in the price explains how the combine can distribute millions upon millions of dollars every year in dividends. And while pondering over this question don't lose sight of the fact that the Republicans continue to give this gigantic trust all the "protection" it demands in the way of tariff legislation.

The lecture of the Rev. Dr. C. F. Evans on the above popular topic was listened to by a good audience at the First M. E. Church, South, last evening. The Doctor treated the topic from every standpoint except its practical application. The lecture was full of beautiful and striking illustrations and incidents from the lives of the highest and lowliest. Those who heard this address will no doubt be inspired to indulge more frequently.

Mr. Thomas Y. Nesbitt is improving.

THE TOBACCO GROWER.

His Hope is in Organization—Living Prices Can Thus be Obtained.

[Lexington Herald.]

In a conversation with a gentleman who is perfectly conversant with the tobacco trade in all of its phases, he said that the opportunity was never more favorable for the farmers to perfect an organization for their protection than the present. He reviewed their efforts the past year, and ascribed the reason of failure to their luke-warm support of Mr. Hawkins. He said there would be no trouble to raise the required amount of money to handle the crop if the farmers would join hands sincerely and heartily: "A few of the most sturdy did go into the business and work with a vim and energy worthy of credit. Others, mainly the large raisers, pulled back, hoping to profit by the efforts of the workers and not lay themselves liable to the ill will of the Continental Company in case of failure of the scheme. If they had gone together this past year and worked the scheme to a finish, they could just as well have realized the prices prevailing in the past month.

The profit realized to the farmers would have capitalized a company sufficiently strong to run the business. 120,000,000 pounds of tobacco at a profit of 10 cents per pound would make the enormous sum of $12,000,000.00. The farmers might have had that much money to their credit as stock in the farmers' organization, besides having used the amount that was realized for the crop from the Continental, had they joined hands there would have been no trouble to realize a greater profit than 10 cents even. They should do it yet for the ensuing year, and get their organization completed while there is no surplus to contend with. Secure the signature of every raiser of tobacco in Kentucky and Ohio, then go to work and put the organization in thorough working order and be ready to receive and pay for the crop at an agreed price by the first of November. Then when the crop is sold the residue or profit could be disposed of as they saw proper. It could be used to capitalize the company or could be drawn and used and then next year hypothecate again the growing crop. I favor the latter way, as the men who were growers this year might not be next year.

The present effort of the Continental is directed, towards producing a surplus which does not now exist and to getting the crop in their control. They are even now—May, 1904,—trying to buy tobacco to be delivered in the winter of 1904-05, showing that they do not feel secure and that the effort made by the farmers last year caused them to think. Of course, if the farmers raise a larger crop than can be used and each one tries to knock the pins from under his neighbor, not caring what becomes of his neighbor so long as he gets a satisfactory price for his own crop, it will only be a short time until the crop will be a drag at 4 to 6 cents and the farmer at the complete mercy of the Continental. As seen by people acquainted with the general workings of the trade there is no trouble to tell what the Continental wants and what will help them most. A big crop, which will leave in someone's hands a surplus. Curtail the crop. Organize. Be sure. Get as much for tobacco grown on one acre of good land as on five acres of every kind of land. This will be the result if you curtail and organize. Control your own product."

A Musical Treat Promised.

There is a great treat in store for lovers of music in Maysville and vicinity at the opera house Monday evening, the 23rd inst. Brahm Van den Berg, the Belgian pianist, will be heard in a program of surprising interest. His playing is a revelation, and so astonishing is his technique that he does seemingly impossible things. Mr. Van den Berg has been in this country but a very short time, but he has astonished musicians and critics with his virtuosity in a number of cities. He played this season with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Frank Van Der Stucken in the great Music Hall and created unbounded enthusiasm. The Enquirer, in speaking of this performance, said:

The fifth Symphony concert was a triumphant tribute to the artistic equipment of a pianist who had behind him the fame of an international success. Mr. Brahm Van den Berg was heard in the Saint-Saens Concerto for piano in G minor No. 2, a composition as pianistically grateful as it is exacting on the musician. In both these respects Mr. Van den Berg realized an ideal with few of the great pianists of the present day possess. From the interpretative side the thorough, deeply convinced musician-artist was in evidence, and grew upon the audience from the first notes of the rhapsodic introduction to the brilliant close of the final presto. There is a marvelous crispness in this pianist's staccato playing, and the singing tone which he reveals at all times is that of the musician-poet. His style of playing is direct and without a tinge of mannerism. The tone-color with which he invested his reading was that of the master who spoke with conviction. The tone which he elicited from his instrument was uniformly beautiful, and in the fairy-like first part of the second movement was invested with a rare gift of poetic fancy. While in the tremendous technical requirements of the presto he fully met

EASY WAY TO CURE CATARRH.

Breathe Hyomei and Kill All Catarrhal Germs—"Money Back if it Fails," Say J. J. Wood & Son.

There is no dangerous stomach drugging when using Hyomei. The healing and aromatic balsams which compose this wonderful treatment are breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every $1 outfit.

In this way the germ-killing and health giving Hyomei penetrates to the most remote cells of the lungs. It searches out and kills disease germs in the air passages of the head, throat and nose, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane, and absolutely drives catarrh from the system.

Such remarkable results have followed the use of Hyomei by the best people in Maysville that J. J. Wood & Son have the greatest confidence in its power to cure catarrh. They believe in it so thoroughly that they will give their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, the purchaser to be the sole judge.

This is an unusual offer and the first time that any medicine or treatment for the cure of catarrh has been sold in this way. If it cures, the expense is trifling, while if it fails, the cost is absolutely nothing.

If you are fortunate enough not to be troubled with catarrh, tell your friends of J. J. Wood & Son's offer and get them to take advantage of it.

Mrs. R. Wallingford, of 220 January street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store, corner of West Second and Market streets proved of such great benefit to Mr. Wallingford that he did not consider it necessary to take more than one box to cure him of backache which had annoyed him for some length of time. My father also used Doan's Ointment and is enthusiastic in its praise."

virtuoso demands, it was the lofty musical interpretation he gave the entire work that impressed itself most. Mr. Van den Berg was recalled by the audience several times, and presented in honor of McKinley Day with a bouquet of deep red carnations.
