DRIPPING SPRINGS Special.

—Beginning on August 16th and continuing four weeks until the close of the season, I will reduce the price of board to $5 per week. This will enable all invalids to obtain the benefit of these waters, and will insure a good crowd until the close. The present has been a very successful season, both financially and otherwise; opening early in June, we have been constantly crowded up to the present time, and all have been either entirely cured or greatly benefited. I will meet the trains at Crab Orchard, Ky., on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and at Paint Lick on the K. C. railroad, when written to do so. Will have dances on Tuesday and Friday nights when guests desire them, music by the Crab Orchard String Band. Cottages to rent at $5 per week, furnished with cooking stove, chairs, tables and bedsteads. New's your choice. Respectfully,
D. G. SLAUGHTER

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—The republicans here have tucked their tails and given up the fight.
—L. A. Jordan, a young man near this place, was thrown by a young horse and got one of his shoulders broken. I was thought for awhile that the young man was killed.
—F. F. B. B. the great 4-mile horse, often goes best, but he never lets down. He is now entered in another race. He is a candidate for doorkeeper. He has written to our representative, Mr. W. A. Anderson, asking him to vote for him.
—We have it from good authority that the editor of our county paper, the man who urged the democrats to vote for Gen. Buckner, when it came to the scratch went back on him and voted for Fox. [We hope Mr Mulline can deny this. Ed.]

Don't Know He is Dead.

(To the Editor of the INTERIOR JOURNAL.)
CRAB ORCHARD, August 5.—Please to insert the following: Hon. Font Fox Bell, candidate for the legislature, will speak at Stanford 1st Monday in September—county court day. Let every friend of justice come to hear him on the most infamous conspiracy to thwart the will of a free people that blackens the pages of modern history.
FONT FOX BOURBON.

There is no reason for denying it, the result of the State election is a black eye for the democratic party; and from a democratic standpoint, except for the influence it may have elsewhere, we see no occasion to regret it. The democratic majority in this State has been so ponderous and unwieldy that it is a burden and a barrier to party organization. But there are no signs that there was any defection from the democratic ranks. It was only the stay-at-home that caused the reduced majority.—[Owensboro Messenger.]

—The Secretary of the Treasury announces the basis of prepayment of interest before maturity on an unusually liberal scale. The rebate is 2 per cent. He also calls for tenders of 41 per cent bonds on account of the Sinking Fund according to law. These options of interest and redemptions, if the urgency for money should become as great as many apprehend, may result in the payment by January 1 of nearly forty million dollars.

"Tell me," he whispered with the hoarseness of emotion, "whispered as if he feared the murmuring surf might catch the question and bear it to some other ears. "Tell me, have you ever loved?" She trembled. She hesitated for a moment and he thought he felt her blushes glow in his eyes. She trembled and in a still, small whisper, gentle as the summer breeze, answered: "Not this summer."—[San Francisco Chronicle]

The sooner strawberry plants are set out in July or August the better chance for a crop next spring. If a large patch is to be set, wait for a rainy time, that their growth be not too much checked. Frequent hoeing and stopping the growth of runners will make the hills thrifty. All the fruit buds for next summer's crop must, however, be formed this fall.

A child was recently watching a young lady in Holliston busily talking into a telephone transmitter. Suddenly the child said: "Who are you talking to?" The lady answered: "I am talking to a man." The child replied: "Well, he must be a awful little man to live in such a small house as that!"

The most wonderful remedy for chicken cholera ever discovered is Ganter's Chicken Cholera Cure. It is guaranteed to cure and is sold by all druggists.

—Patrick Heiber insulted Mrs. Mike McMullen at Pitsburg and the lady fractured his skull with a rock.

CARD.

To the Patrons and Friends of Stanford Female College

I am sorry to announce to you that Miss Hobson will not be with us next season. The feeble condition of her health is such as to forbid her teaching. The long strain of work in the music room has at length had its effect upon her nervous system and general health.
However, she recommends in her place a young lady whom she knows from a personal acquaintance. Her successor, Miss Carrie Lee Mayer, comes from Sweetwater, Tennessee, and has the experience of several years in teaching, having twice taught in two female colleges of high standing. She is represented as a lady of intelligence, refinement, of an amiable disposition and enthusiastic in her special vocation. I am acquainted with her family and in social standing they rank amongst the first of her native town.

Please read carefully the testimonials below and you will see that the position will again be ably filled by one worthy of your patronage and confidence. Thanking you for your kindnes and support in the past, and believing that you will still be pleased in this department, I am very respectfully,
ALEX. S. PAXTON.

TESTIMONIALS.

It affords me much pleasure to state that I am well acquainted with Miss Carrie Mayer and know her to be a most excellent teacher, both of vocal and instrumental music, and any school would find her a treasure. I most heartily commend her to the College and to the people of Stanford.
LUCKY A. HOBSON.

—Bristol, Tenn.
You may consider yourself fortunate if you can secure the services of Miss Carrie Lee Mayer in your department of music, in both instrumental and vocal. She was in my employ for several terms at Martha Washington Female College and gave satisfaction.
E. E. WILKEY.

President Martha Washington F. College, Abington, Virginia.

Miss Mayer taught instrumental and vocal music two years in Weaverville Female College and gave entire satisfaction. Her voice is sweet, clear and well-trained. Her pupils make fine progress. She is patient and painstaking as a teacher, prompt and punctual in the performance of duty, has pleasing manners and is very popular with her pupils.
D. ATKINS.

President Weaverville Female College, N. C.

Little Isabel had been to Sunday school. The lesson was the escape of Lot from Sodom, and on her return home she was asked to tell about it. "Oh," she said, "it was about Lot, and the people in Sodom were awfully wicked and Lot was the only good one, and he was told to flee from destruction with his family, and they said: 'Now, Lot, you mustn't turn and look back,' and Lot didn't look back, but Mrs. Lot wanted to see what was going to happen, so after they had gone a ways Mrs. Lot turned and looked back and turned a somersault!"

The American cow is the noblest of all animals, for American dairy products are estimated at $450,000,000 annually. When it is recalled that the cotton crop is valued at $50,000,000 less and the wheat crop at $50,000,000 more, the cow is a very considerable factor in this country, and represents a business interest that ought to be protected from the pauper labor of the pump.—[Louisville Times.]

Waterston got sick early in the canvass and rushed off to the seaside, and Carlisle fell by the wayside after one or two speeches; but old man Beck and Jim McKenzie staid with the boys until the last day in the evening. In view of the returns it now appears that but for the efforts of Beck, McKenzie and a few others the State would have gone republican. Just think of it!—[Owensboro Messenger.]

The New Jersey man in Michigan who rather than pay his board, murdered the lady that kept his boarding-house and then killed himself, would not have acted that way at home. The laws of Michigan, unlike those of New Jersey, do not provide, for hanging, and no New Jersey man can be happy if, after committing a capital offense he sees no chance of being hanged.

"Yes, we had quite a collision; pretty good, too, most of it; but there was one dash that I couldn't make out what it was. It looked like Roman cement, ready mixed for building purposes and it tasted like slate pencil dust." "Oa, that was choo late ice-cream."

Prof. Richard A. Proctor, the eminent scientist, has made a close study of baseball pitching. He did not at first believe that a ball could be curved, but he became convinced, and wrote a learned thesis to show how it was done.

A democrat who does not go to the polls and cast his vote, for all practical purposes is just as much of a republican as the man who marches to the polls and votes the straight republican ticket.—[Louisville Times.]

A young man in Jackson, Miss, is eating peaches off a tree that grew from a sprout with which his mother "corrected" him him years ago. He struck the twig in the ground and it grew right along.

Union Sunday-School Picnic.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]
WOODSTOCK, July 31.—Pulaski has done herself proud to-day, we, for the grand old county and her sister counties about her this has been a great day. Such an outpouring of Sunday-school doctrine has not often if ever been surpassed in this or any other part of the State. The committee of arrangements had done everything possible to make ample means of accommodation for all who might be here and the fruits of their labor showed to the vast audience that their efforts had not been in vain. The fountain of Sunday-school doctrine was kept on tap throughout the day in the beautiful grove 3 miles north-west of Woodstock called for its clever owners, Gastineau's woods. Having sympathized with those absent for what they missed they cease to attract attention and the hundreds who gathered around the speakers stand and who did not slight the picnic course in for consideration. They were here from Lincoln, Garrard, Rockcastle and Casey in numbers and old Pulaski was well represented.

The hosts began to gather at an early hour. They came on foot, on horseback, in every kind of vehicle from the two-horse wagon to the most elegant carriage and at 9 o'clock the beautiful grove was a mass of Sunday school men, women and children. The exercises began promptly at 9:30 A. M. by music of the five classes representing the five schools respectively, led by our worthy teacher of vocal music, G. C. Gilliland. After which the 12th chapter of Ecclesiastes was read by Rev. W. T. Reynolds and a very able prayer offered by A. J. Pike.

Then came the Thompson school represented by Dr. S. C. Perkins and Bright Ferrell as its speakers; Miss Allie Reynolds and Miss Belle Reynolds read essays, from said school. Second school, Estes, represented by Messrs T. J. Acton and I. N. Gastineau. Essays by Mrs. S. A. Gastineau and Miss Ida Larkin.

Just at this time there was a cry heard in the near west, "Dinner is ready, everybody invited!" It is useless to say that every one present made for the dinner table, which was well loaded with all the good things of the season, and plenty too.

At 1 P. M. the crowd was called together by music by the class. Then came the Grange Hall school, represented by Rev. J. W. Barron and C. M. Thompson. Misses Macy Mercer and Mrs. Barron. Next the Pence school represented by Messrs. W. T. S. Green and J. S. McWilliams. Misses Hannah Nelson and Ophelia McWilliams. Fifth and last came the Woodstock school represented by W. K. Price and J. A. Vanhook. Misses Allie Martin and Emma Thompson, which closed the programme of the day. The reports of all the schools show them to be in a healthy condition. During the season there have been 20,488 chapters read by the several schools, 102 lectures delivered and 72 essays read in the hall of the Sunday school camp.

Great credit is due the entire representation of each school as well as the entire community for the hospitality shown the picnic. Everybody went home filled with S. S. doctrine, enthusiasm and picnic, trusting that all may be spared to enjoy another such a blessing in 1888.

Resolved, That the INTERIOR JOURNAL and Somerset papers be requested to copy proceedings of said picnic. Done by order of committee. J. N. THOMPSON, M'gr.

THE EVENING BATH.—All farmers who are subject to severe physical labors find the greatest possible refreshment in a bath of the whole body at the close of the day's labor. Every farm house should be fitted with an out house where the men may remove the dust and perspiration resulting from their labors and where they can change their dirty clothes for clean ones, for next to a clean skin, clean clothes rests a weary body. No one who has not tried the evening bath and change of clothing would believe how great is the relief thus obtained. Not only is the immediate effect great, but the bath induces sound and refreshing sleep, and thus a double purpose is served.

When a funny story is suddenly recalled to a man's mind by some circumstance, the desire to tell it is suddenly irresistible. This was peculiarly so of Jimmy Crawson. He was going down the creek one day on a raft, when one of the raftsmen was struck by an oar and knocked into the raging flood. The incident suggested something ludicrous to old Jimmy and instead of plunging in after his comrade, he drew as near to him as he could safely and said: "Your falling in there reminds me of a little thing that occurred about 20 years ago." But the man had gone down never to rise again.—[Nashville Banner.]

While the State democratic majority is not as big as some barn doors, or as high as a Cumberland mountain hay stack, it is sufficient to keep our republican friends from trotting out their male poultry and crowing over the result. So far as the election itself is concerned, it signifies nothing. If the republicans can construe a significant indifference among democrats and a wide-awake activity in their own ranks into a moral of comfort for themselves, nobody cares to object. Whenever the party needs it Kentucky will willingly turn up with that same old forty or fifty thousand.—[Glasgow News.]

—The trustees of the various school districts are being stirred up on the subject of getting school-houses in proper shape for winter.

—Mrs. Celia E. Rice, of Fort Worth, Texas, is at her father's, Willis Adams', in Garrard. Mrs. John Foster, with her two little boys, of Barrens, is visiting Dr. Davis here.

—We failed to mention in last report that James Prewitt, independent republican, was elected coronor by 980 majority. Dr. Davis received 1,145 votes for school superintendent and his majority corresponds with the number of votes polled for him; no opposition.

—A man calling himself Henry Johnson passed through this place Thursday last, after stopping at the blacksmith and wood-working shops of W. H. Cocks and H. C. Gentry. That night the above shops were broken into and $20 worth of tools carried away. Mr. Gentry went to Brodhead and recovered the tools from persons to whom the thief had sold them. Johnson was wearing dark checked clothes, spare build and weighs about 140; $5 reward is offered for his capture.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Dr. El Alcora has found practice in his own family. He proposes to name the boy "Bobbitt Redivivus."

—Don't forget that Messrs Blakeman and Thompson with the able assistance of Misses Thompson and Ford are prepared to vindicate the ancient honor of Christian College on the 5th of September.

—The colored population have been sadly neglected by the papers, which have failed to chronicle their astonishing feats with ball and bat. They threaten to organize a bicycle brigade and carry their claims for appreciation to other regions.

—Eld. Jas. Ballou preaches at the Christian church on the first and third Sundays in each month; Rev. J. C. Randolph at the Presbyterian church same days. Rev. Coleman serves the Baptist church; I don't know his days.

—J. E. Green, the indefatigable Sunday-school man of the West End, organized a flourishing institution at Moreland on Sunday. Ang. Bridgewater furnishes a commodious room and the people generally seem disposed to back the enterprise.

—The weather is cool, health generally good, few deaths reported. No large transactions in stock. The election seems to be over. No public demonstration over the results, nor have we heard any one conoling himself with the old woman's panceas: "It might have been worse"

—Mrs. J. A. Wright and Mrs. J. B. Adams, of Montgomery, Ala., are visiting the family of L. B. Adams. Will Weatherford and young Mr. Barnham, of Richmond, spent Sunday at G. D. Weatherford's. J. E. If every murderer could be brought to trial within 30 days from the commission of his crime, and, if convicted, hung within 30 days thereof, murder would be far less frequent and society be far better protected. The present so-called "humanity of the law" is but little else than a premium on murder.—[Cleveland Leader.]

This is the time of year when the farmer who does not take a newspaper because he cannot afford it, meets with two or three traveling confidence men and gets cheated out of enough money in one day to pay for a subscription to half a dozen daily papers from every State in the Union.—[Philadelphia Times.]
