Poisoned in a Good Cause.

A peculiar case of poisoning is reported to have happened near Crawfordsville, Ind. At a large party, a new-fangled kissing game was introduced, which proved very popular. The young men, on arriving, drew strings of variegated colors from a box and then selected girls whose dresses matched this string. A young granger then took one of the strings in his mouth and the girl attached her face in a similar way to the other end. Both then chewed up the string until they were mouth to mouth, when several kisses were exchanged. They enjoyed the game very much, but several were taken sick afterward, being seriously poisoned by the dyes used in coloring the strings.—Ex.
