THE DAILY BULLETIN

SATURDAY EVENING, DEC. 27, 1884.

THE Court of Appeals has adjourned until January 5th.

MR. CLEVELAND will go to Washington City, after January 9th.

THE employes of the Gould system of railroads, six thousand miles in length, have arranged to strike January 1st, if the proposed cut is enforced.

A BARN containing 3,000 pounds of tobacco, belonging to J. B. Thomas, near Flemingsburg, burned to the ground a few days ago, There was no insurance on the property.

A DESPATCH from Montreal staates that previous to his death "Dr. Vennor had completed the manuscript of his almanac for 1885, which has just been published here. A mild, open, unsettled winter, with an unusually green Christmas and genial new year, are predicted. It is also asserted that we are in the midst of a 'moist period,' which is to last two years."

FARMERS in many parts of Nebraska are burning corn for fuel. They have figured the matter out to their own satisfaction and are confident that it is cheaper to burn corn than it is to sell it and buy coal. Soft coal is worth in that State about 22 cents a bushel, and corn does not find a ready sale in the rural markets for more than 12 cents. Experiments have shown that two bushels of corn will produce more warmth than one bushel of coal, and farmers are thus burning the former and saving themselves the trouble of hauling it to market and drawing the coal home again.

THE New York World which evidently speaks by authority says: Gov. Cleveland will give the country—A strong, distinctive Democratic administration as a vindication of Democratic principles and in order to give the lie to the Republican slander that the Democracy has neither honesty nor capacity to bring to the public service.

A homogenous policy, by filling with capable, honest and thorough Democrats such offices as pertain to the diplomatic service, the finances, the postal system, the administration of justice, the collection of revenue and other branches of the Government in which entire and sincere accord with the President's views and the principles of Democracy is demanded in the public interest.

A Lawyer Quotes the Law.

[From the Chicago Herald.]

A young lawyer and the conductor of a Chicago omnibus had a dispute about change the other day. The lawyer claimed that he gave the fare-taker $1 and demanded 75 cents change. The conductor persisted in declaring that the lawyer had handed him a half dollar, and therefore the 25 cents change which he had given him was right. The conductor won his point and the lawyer got no more change, but he had his revenge by crying out a warning to the other passengers. "Beware," he exclaimed loudly, "he will cheat you out of your eye-teeth. He's a swindler, he is, and will play you all false unless you watch him. As we lawyers say: Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus!" The conductor gave him the 75 cents.

Editorial Labors in Arizona.

[New York Tribune.]

Two noble Indian braves of Arizona, named Gee-Up Charley and Short Pants, made reckless by too much fire-water, attempted to clean out the office of a local paper. The next week the editor described the result as follows: "At first they had the advantage, Short Pants having hit us a terrible blow in the stomach, which temporarily knocked the wind out of us. But we soon rallied and by pying two forms upon Gee-Up Charley's head eliminated him from the battle. Then, by skillful maneuvering, we kept Short Pants from hitting us again until we got to the door, when we called to Al Blodget to help us, which he did. The red devils are now in jail, where they will have a chance to sober up. Our loss was $4.75."

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, KY., December 24, 1884.

What a load the Republican party had to carry when they shouldered Mr. Blaine with all his short-comings. Wasn't he a delightful article to work up into President. He got the biggest vote though of any man they could have picked on, as he knew better than any one how to work the wires.

We had a misgiving when it was announced that General Grant had declined to be the recipient of a pension that there was something behind, as he hardly ever refused anything. It is explained now that the retired list is what he is looking after. How wonderfully modest this man has always been.

It is too bad that Mr. Blaine should have to lose that $50,000 for which he brought suit against the Indianapolis Sentinel. We all know it is justly due him, and he should by all means have it. Congress ought to pass some law for his benefit in the matter.

It will be a long time before our Republican friends gather themselves sufficiently to bet as freely as they used to do. Mr. Blaine has done some good for his party at any rate.

New names and new faces will be the order of the day in Washington after March 4th. The Camerons, Robert Lincoln and so on will have to pack up and leave. It is to be hoped that Mr. Cleveland will gather about him a far different set of men than such as have graced the capitol for so many years. X.

HIS BROTHERS SLAYER.

The Fatal Ending of a Christmas Drunk in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 27.—While Police Officer Bernard Lyons, of Gloucester, New Jersey, knelt in prayer during the celebration of Christmas services at the Catholic Church there, Thursday, his ten-year-old nephew, John, a son of his brother, Thomas, rushed in and asked him to come out. "Papa has been hit in the head," sobbed the boy, "and is bleeding." The policeman started on a run for his brother's house. "No, he's at uncle William's," panted the boy. In a few minutes they reached the dwelling of William Lyons, the youngest of three brothers. The policeman found his brother Thomas lying with his head in a pool of blood and he was dead. In the kitchen, William Lyons, whose hand struck the fatal blow, sat in a stupor, so drunk was he that he was neither conscious of his crime nor of the cries of his frantic wife, who witnessed the deed. When policeman Lyons had raised the dead body of his brother Thomas from the doorstep in his line of duty he arrested his brother William. A Christmas spree was the cause of the fratricide. William Lyons, who is a laborer, began to drink at the beginning of the week and each time he came home, was more abusive to his wife, and elder brother Thomas, who lived but three doors away, was called in periodically to protect his sister-in-law. Early yesterday morning William came home and was surly with drink. He began to abuse his wife as soon as he saw her. "Call in that d——d Tom Lyons," he said. "By G—, you'd better go there and stay; I'll turn you out." He started to execute the threat, and tried to push his wife out of the door. She clung to the door frame. The man became furious and beat her savagely in the face. Thomas Lyons heard the screams and rushed to his brother's house. He pulled the husband away and began to expostulated with him. "I'll have no more of your interference," shouted William and delivered a straight blow with his fist, which struck Thomas in the neck. The latter reeled and fell, striking his head on the stone doorstep and died there. The slayer, exhausted, stumbled back into the kitchen and fell into a chair. The wife rushed screaming to the dead man's house, where his son John was sent on the errand which brought Bernard Lyons to arrest his youngest brother for murder. His eldest brother Thomas Lyons was forty-five years old and leaves a wife and four children. William came from Ireland three years ago.

SNOW at Leadville, Colorado, on a level, is three feet deep, and the drifts in the streets are ten feet high. All railroads between Denver and Leadville have been abandoned save the Denver and Rio Grande, and it is requiring much effort and expense to keep it free of blockades. All the mountain towns are suffering from the heaviest snow ever known, in many cases the snow crushing the roofs of the houses in.

AT Tonners, France, a bachelor named Brisbard visited the house of one Francey during his absence, to pay his addresses to his wife. He was shown the door, and told if he repeated his visit she would shoot him. He repeated yesterday, and Mrs. Francey kept her word. Brisbard rushed from the house, blood streaming from him, pursued by the woman, and failing, she put two more shots in the prostrate body. All the parties stand high, and the affair has created a sensation.

Blood Poisoning.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 27.—Dr. G. F. Atkinson, a well known physician, has been lying dangerously ill at his residence for several days. Atkinson, it appears, was recently performing a surgical operation upon a man when his knife slipped and cut his hand. The poison absorbed from the knife caused the arm and hand to swell to an abnormal size. He has been unconscious during the past twenty-four hours.

Cuticura

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev Mr. Armistry has to say about it.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have been a fearful sufferer for fifteen years, most of the time with what has been called Eczema or Salt Rheum, Psoriasis and Lepra, and the like, and have always been told that there was no cure for me, and have been so discouraged that I had as soon die as live. I have been so badly afflicted sometimes that there was not the smallest spot from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet that was not diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small white spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so inflamed as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning sensation would be almost intolerable.

I was at times so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without asistance. I have tried many remedies, and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although helped for a time, I soon relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881 and 1882 I suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Elder and Mrs. L. C. McKinstry, who are well known in these regions, to try your Cuticura Remedies; and I felt somehow a little courage from their favorable opinion of them, to try their virtue. About the second week of July last I commenced taking the remedies, and within six weeks I began to see a permanent improvement, until now (Oct 1) I am about as good as new, and my flesh is as the flesh of a child. MRS. BENJ. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement of my wife is correct, and I join with her in expressing my gratitude for the great benefit she has received. B. SMITH.

I certify that the above statement is correct Mr. Smith is a prominent man in this community, where he lives. He is a well-known dealer in stock, and his statement, with that of his wife, is fully entitled to credit.

Done at Stanstead, Province of Quebec, this twenty-seventh day of October, 1882.

A Mother's Love—A Practical Illustration of Its Power.

A mother's love! What a potent thing it is! It will melt the heart of the most hardened criminal, when no other influence would be effectual. No one but a mother knows its full meaning, but every one can appreciate it if they will. It is known, though, that it means sleepless nights, care, inconvenience, and, if necessary, want, hardship and death. But the subject has been too eloquently treated by the sweetest poets and the ablest writers to furnish an essay for these columns. Too many practical illustrations occur in every day life for it to be dwelt upon, so that it is unnecessary to speak of the subject further in order to make the reader understand the full meaning of what is to follow.

Mrs. Henry Schualen, of Ashland, Ky., writes that her daughter has been cured of deafness which resulted from chronic catarrh. She tells how she had lost all hope of her daughter (her ideal) being cured, and how overjoyed she is at the result. After trying many remedies, she says PERUNA brought a cure, and that the daughter's hearing is restored. She concludes, by speaking in the most flattering terms of PERUNA, and then describes in the most lovely manner the happiness it has brought her, and reviews the distress she experienced while her daughter was afflicted.

Dr. A. R. Ong, Martins Ferry, O., writes: "I have a large trade on your PERUNA. Think it is a grand remedy."

Mr. Robert C. Hannah, Tolesborough, Lewis county, Ky., writes: "I write to inform you of the great benefit I received by the use of your medicines, PERUNA and MANALIN. I had been low spirited and very sick for about six months with a bad cough, and my friends thought I had consumption; tried a number of patent medicines, and most of the doctors in the vicinity (and we have some as good as you can find in the country), but they did me no good whatever. Our merchant, Mr. Gillespie, insisted upon me trying your remedies. I did so, but must say, I had little faith in them at first; before I had consumed my first bottle, I noticed a change for the better, and to-day I am entirely well, and as sound a man as there is in the vicinity. I credit my cure to your valuable remedies, PERUNA and MANALIN, and recommend them to all of my friends."
