

Safeguard Other People's Children.

"Whenever it is necessary, for the welfare of the children, to insist that one or more families be quarantined," says the July Woman's Home Companion, "it is astonishing how frequently this is taken as a personal insult by the parents. It seems to be considered as an infringement upon the family rights and not for one moment to be tolerated."

This editorial has to do with a widespread evil. It says further:

"A striking instance came to notice recently in a suburban town. For some weeks sporadic cases of diphtheria had been appearing. Every care was taken to find out the source of the trouble—but all to no avail. There were carriers at large, and no one knew who was responsible. So it was decided to make a systematic examination of the throats of the school children, and to send cultures of all suspicious-looking cases to the laboratory. It was found that twenty-five per cent of these cultures gave a positive reaction, so, of course, these children were promptly banished, and quarantine ordered by the board of health. The nature of the work and the necessity for these precautions were explained to the parents in every instance; nevertheless, some of these same parents were very angry, and tried various devices to break the quarantine. One of the mothers threatened a law suit unless her child was promptly taken back to school and the sign put on her house by order of the board of health immediately removed!

"Another mother entirely ignored the notice sent to her, and flatly refused to keep her child in the house, though she knew he was not well when she sent him to school. It was several hours after this child had been sent home before the mother could be brought to terms. Meanwhile, to spite the authorities who had perpetrated this outrage upon her family by barring her boy out of school, she sent him over to one of her neighbors to play with the children. Two of these children promptly contracted diphtheria, and the younger one, scarcely more than a baby, developed a malignant type and died in two days. It would certainly be using a harsh expression to say that the child was murdered, and yet if he had been neatly shot he would have suffered far less."

Why "Swap Horses?"

The Democratic ticket has been nominated, the platform has been made, and the organization for the campaign soon will be perfected. It is a good ticket. There is nothing doubtful about it. No one has to guess where Woodrow Wilson stands on any of the great issues now before the American people. The record of his administration has demonstrated his signal ability to direct the affairs of the Nation. He has been confronted by many complex problems, but has met them all with courage and with a high sense of national honor. He has given the country a safe and sane administration. As Senator Ollie James quotes from the homely language of Abraham Lincoln: "Why should we swap horses while crossing a stream?"—State Journal.

"The most sensible covering ever made for the feet," says Dr. Arthur R. Reynolds in the July American Magazine, "is the moccasin of the American Indian worn without a stocking. Sandals also, are good. The sneakers of children and tennis shoes with pliable rubber soles are next best. The shoes generally on the market for young children are without heel; there is a level sole for the thread and the toes are wide, but it is usually made of hard, unyielding leather."

The Flag on the Seas.

During fifty years of Democratic freedom of the seas and of commerce following Thomas Jefferson, 80 per cent., of American commerce on the high seas was carried in American ships. During fifty years of Republican high tariffs and hide-bound sea traffic, our merchant marine dwindled until only 8 per cent., of American commerce was carried in American bottoms. Under the Democratic ship registry act of 1914 both the number of merchantmen carrying the American flag and the percentage of commerce carried in American bottoms have more than doubled. Moreover, under Democratic tariff and shipping laws, the United States in 1916 has become both the leading commercial nation and the leading ship building country of the earth. All this country required, the facts show, was to cut loose from its Republican swaddling clothes.—State Journal.

We wonder if the Republican candidate "Hughes to the line?"

What irony of fate! Silver is going up but Bryan is going down.

The month of May, 1916, produced a greater volume of wage increases than any preceding 12 months of American history. Against this wall of prosperity, Republican spell-binders will make little progress in trying to stampede American workingmen into voting a return to Republican conditions.

The Story of a Famous Hymn.

The famous hymn beginning "God moves in a mysterious way," known as "Cowper's Hymn," had its origin as follows: Cowper was all his life the victim of melancholia and more than once attempted suicide. One day, bent upon destroying himself, he got into a cab and ordered the driver to take him to a certain point on the river where he intended to drown himself. The cabman, noticing his strange appearance and feeling that all might not be right with him, drove him about the city and finally stopped in front of the poets door. Stepping out and recognizing the old familiar surroundings and shocked at the thought of his narrow escape, Cowper exclaimed, "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," and, rushing in, immediately composed the immortal hymn.

The Government has recently been advised by a correspondent in California that a variety of wheat is being advertised under the name of "Titanic." The assertion is made that it is a new variety of wheat discovered in England about four years ago, and that a small quantity of seed was brought to the United States by one of the survivors of the ill-fated Titanic. The wheat is represented as having extremely high yielding power, the returns reaching as high as 7,000-fold. A photograph sent by this correspondent shows a head identical in appearance with the widely exploited "Alaska" wheat. Five acres of the wheat are said to be growing in the State of Washington, and the seed, it is believed, will be offered at high prices after harvest. The department has no further or more definite information concerning this variety, but farmers and dealers are cautioned to be on their guard concerning this new exploitation.

It is understood that in return for Roosevelt's support of Hughes the Republicans will nominate the Colonel for the Senate from New York, and make Gen. Wood Secretary of War.

Roosevelt has declined the Progressive nomination and asks the members of his party to support Hughes. Six members of the National Committee voted against the endorsement of any candidate and nine refused to vote.
