Strange to say, there was no fighting Christmas and only one person was shot, and that accidentally.

On Saturday night some one threw a cannon fire cracker and it exploded in Mr. H. G. Banta's face, nearly putting out his right eye, and burning his cheek badly. He has suffered a great deal of pain from it, but hopes the sight of his eye is not injured.

Mr. C. R. Ballard, of Owensboro, and Miss Sallie Stillfield, of this city, were married at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. John Henderson, on Tuesday morning, Rev. Father L. Young officiating. The young couple left on the 8:20 a. m. train for a short bridal trip.

A gentleman went into the store of Messrs. R. K. McClure & Bro. Saturday and complained that the uppers of a pair of shoes which he purchased of them and had been wearing for just two years and two months were breaking. He wanted another pair just like them to make the damage good.

Miss Irene Went, daughter of Col. E. C. Went, of this city, has taken the first honor thirteen times consecutively in as many months in City School, No. 2, in Lexington. She has not failed to take a first honor every month for the last two years. She makes her home in that city with Dr. Aquilla Talbutt, who has adopted her.

A. Chilson, Vice Grand
E. Whitesides, Treasurer.
W. S. Dehoney, Secretary.

Mrs. F. A. Lyons and daughter, Miss Anna, who reside on Second street, South side, came over to this side of the river Saturday afternoon, and returning home after dark, discovered a light at one of their windows. Thinking the house was on fire they hurried in, when to their surprise the light had disappeared. They were then convinced some one was in the house and Mrs. Lyons went out into the street to call for help while Miss Anna remained to watch for the burglar, and she did not have to wait very long, for a low, heavy set black rascal came rushing down the steps as soon as he heard Mrs. Lyons calling to some one on the street, darted out of the door, and ran down the street, followed by Mrs. L., who chased him to the corner of Main and Second and saw him disappear down Battle Alley. Officer Smith was soon on the ground and made an arrest, but the ladies failed to identify the man and he was released. The fellow had evidently just gotten in and was taking his time when the ladies arrived, for they missed nothing, though a bureau drawer had been opened by him.

Christmas at the Feeble-minded Institute.

On Monday evening Dr. J. Q. A. Stewart, his estimable lady, and the teachers at the Feeble-minded Institute gave an entertainment for the amusement of the children of the institution and invited a number of friends from this city to witness it; and all who attended were amply repaid for their visit. In the afternoon an elegant repast was spread, which was partaken of by a large number of guests, and early in the evening the company were invited into the chapel, which had been beautifully decorated and prepared for the occasion. Two large Christmas trees filled with presents stood one on each side of the stage, and immediately above appeared the words in evergreen, "Merry Christmas." When the company were all seated Dr. Stewart, in a few appropriate remarks, welcomed them, and then the programme given below was gone through with. The tableaux were exceedingly interesting, and the recitations and declamations were given in splendid style. In fact, it was a first class entertainment in every respect. The exercises were begun by singing "Glory to God in the Highest" by a number of the pupils, after which the following:

1. Tableau of the seasons—Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter.
2. Tableau—No rose Without a Thorn.
3. Tableau—Taking the Veil.
4. Recitation—Grandma's Beaux.
5. Tableau—Bridal Scene (bride seen).
6. Tableau—Courtship and Marriage—Six scenes—presentation, declaration, solemnization, cool possession, altercation, reconciliation.
7. Tableau—The Flour of the Family.
8. Address—The Search for Happiness.
9. Tableau—The Gipsy Camp—three scenes—the camp, good fortune telling, bad fortune telling.
10. Tableau—Hallowed be Thy Name.
11. Tableau—Woman's Rights.
12. Essay on Man (S A on Man).
13. Dialogue—The Boy who would not be a Girl and the Girl who would not be a Boy.
14. Tableaux—Going to the Centennial—two scenes—too late for the cars and arrived at last.
15. Song—Ring out the Merry Chiming Bells.

The presents, which were all donated and cost the State nothing, were then taken from the trees and distributed to the children, who were made as happy as larks. After the distribution the invited guests returned to their homes, with the exception of some fifteen or twenty couples of young people who remained and enjoyed a social dance for an hour or two in the Chapel.

The Institution, under its present efficient management, is one that not only our people but the whole State may well be proud of, and it should be amply provided for in future to enable it to continue its good work of throwing light upon the clouded intellects of the unfortunate ones of our Commonwealth.
