THE DANGER OF OVER-EXERCISION.

A Stalwart Man Becomes Weaker Than a Child and Then Recovers his Former Strength.

(Waterloo, N. Y., Observer.)

In these days of rowing giants and athletic heroes fine physical development is more observed than ever before since the time of the Athenian games. A man who shows the elements of physical power is looked up to far more than in the days of our ancestors possibly because there are fewer specimens of well-developed manhood than then. An emissary of this paper met a magnificent specimen of physical power a few days since in the person of Dr. A. W. McNames, of Waterloo. His muscles, which showed unusual development, were as hard as wood. At his request the writer sought to pinch him in the arms or legs, but found it wholly impossible. A realization of what is meant by an iron man was fully made manifest.

"Have you always been so stalwart as this?" inquired the news gatherer.
"Not by any means," was the reply.
"When a young man I was always strong and active and felt that I could accomplish anything. This feeling so took possession of me on one occasion that I attempted to lift a box which four men found it impossible to move. I succeeded in placing it on the wagon, but in two minutes from that time I was unconscious and remained so for hours, and when I recovered consciousness I vomited a large quantity of blood. From that day I began to grow weak and sickly. I believed that I had suffered some internal injury and experienced a general debility, which seemed similar to the effects produced by malaria. My back was very weak; I had no appetite, and at times loathed food. My lips were parched and cracked. My head felt as though it were entirely open at the top and it pained me on the side intensely. In six weeks' time I had fallen away from 208 pounds to less than 170; I was in a most wretched condition. I was completely discouraged."

"What did the doctors say about you?"
"Almost everything. I consulted no less than six different physicians. They all treated me and none did me any good. At that time I was suffering intensely. I could not sit upright but was obliged to rest in a cramped, uneasy position. I was compelled to urinate every five minutes and I passed over three quarts every day. I was not living. I was existing.
One night (how well I remember it!) my wife had put the children all in bed, when the feeling came over me that I should live but a very short time. My wife and I talked matters all over and I gave the minutest directions as to what she should do after I was gone. I was not in a flighty condition by any means, for the doctor, on leaving town the day following, bade me good bye, saying he never expected to see me again, for I was suffering with Bright's disease of the kidneys in its last stages. Within the next few days more than twenty friends came to bid me good bye. Among the number was Dr. John L. Clark. He asked me what I had used in the way of medicines. I told him. He then recommended a remedy of which I had heard much, but about which I was very skeptical. It faith were an element of power it certainly was lacking in my case."
"And so you did not try it?"
"On the contrary. I did try it and to my surprise it seemed to go to just the spot. Indeed, it was the most palatable thing I had taken into my mouth for months. I relished it."
"And did it cure you?"
"Do I look as if it did?"
"Yes, indeed. What was it?"
"Warner's Safe Cure."
"A proper etary medicine!"
"Of course. What of that? I suppose I once had as great a prejudice against advertised medicines as any one could have. When I was studying medicine at Ann Arbor, Michigan, I used to vow with the rest of the class that we would fight all such remedies at all times. When a man comes down to the last hour, however, and bids his wife and friends good bye, such bigoted prejudices as these all vanish. I can assure you, and any remedy that can cure is gladly welcomed."

"And how have you been since then?"
"As well—or better, than before."
"Do you still exert your strength?"
"Certainly. But I do not over-exert, as formerly. My strength is increasing every day, and my health is number one. I know that my life was saved by Warner's Safe Cure, and I believe it is the best medicine that was ever compounded by any chemist or physician. I am willing the doctors should sneer at me for such a statement if they choose, but I have proven its truth, and am prepared to stand by it."
The above experience should be of great value to all who are suffering. It shows the deceptive nature of this terrible malady; that all symptoms are common to it, and that there is but one way by which it can be absolutely avoided.

C. B. Lytle, Manchester, Ky., says he has used Brown's Iron Bitters in his family, and it is all it claims to be.

Flag Fork.

Blackberries are abundant. Oat harvest is about over. Mr. E. B. Bailey is on the sick list. Mr. C. V. Bailey has gone to Louisville on business. Hon. J. C. Smith has got the best tobacco in this section.

The Flat Creek base ball club will play the Elkhorn club Saturday afternoon. One of Mr. Ben. Younts, littlechildren fell Wednesday and broke its arm in two places. Mr. A. B. Polsgrove moved in with Mrs. Sara Slattery Monday. I guess she can stay at home now.

I would like for some one to tell me why a man gets mad when he is warranted, as it is generally the case that they do so.

Mr. W. A. McDowell and Miss R. Ellen Smith were missing from home about the same time two or three weeks since, neither could be heard from until they came home Tuesday in a buggy, stayed all night, and went to Versailles next day, saying they had married and gone to house-keeping in that place.

Mr. W. H. Grubb died at his residence, in this neighborhood, on Friday, July 13th, 1883, aged 50 years and five months, after a short but painful illness with disease of the spine. His many friends and acquaintances will be pained to hear of his death. His wife and seven children have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. The remains were interred in the Pleasant Ridge Church yard.

Switzer.

Born.—On 15th inst., to P. C. Smith and wife, a daughter.

But very little news to be found this week. Most every person has gone visiting.

Miss Belle Carter, and Miss Ida Thomson are visiting in New Castle, Henry county.

J. W. Gayle, of the South Side drug store, is visiting his parents, Dr. R. C. Gayle and wife, this week.

Miss Bettie Lyon and Miss Lizzie Hoover spent several days with Mr. Wm. Brister and wife, at Cove Hill Farm last week.

Mr. Dudley Carter, an old citizen of this neighborhood, died at his residence on the 10th inst., after an illness of only a few days. He leaves a wife and children to mourn his loss. The bereaved family have our deepest sympathies.

Misses Belle and Carrie Hardin, and Miss Hattie Hockensmith, of Monterey, who have been visiting friends in this neighborhood, returned home on Wednesday of last week, very much to the regret of all whose pleasure it was to meet them, and more especially the young men. We hope the young ladies enjoyed their visit, and that in the near future we may again have the pleasure of extending the hand of welcome to the young ladies in our neighborhood again.

It would surprise you to see the change that has taken place in some of the young men of this neighborhood in the last week. Young men that have always worn a pleasant smile on their faces in the past now look almost a perfect picture of despair. A group of them may be seen to-morrow evening at this place sitting around and standing about, and I asked "why tarry ye here," with a long face and very sad look they will say, "the girls have all gone home; those who have been visiting the neighbors and most of those living here have gone away on a visit, and we have no where to go. Cheer up, boys, live in hopes that they will all return again in the very near future.

ONCE A WEEK.
