Watches, Fine Clocks, Engraving, &c.

SAMUEL AYERS,

FORMERLY OF DANVILLE, KENTUCKY,
WATCH MAKER,

Successor to B. F. Meek, Main Street, Frankfort, Ky., continues the watch repairing business at the old stand. By promptness and careful work he hopes to merit the patronage of those who desire to have their watches repaired, without damage being done them. Surveyors' compasses repaired and other instruments requiring delicate and accurate adjustment.

In retiring from business in Frankfort I take pleasure in expressing my entire confidence in Mr. S. Ayers, and from my long acquaintance with him as a workman, do not hesitate to commend him as every way capable of meeting the expectation of my former patrons.

Point Pleasant.

Nice fat shoats are ripe.

Mr. R. J. Shannon is improving.

Mild-weather for this time of year.

Mrs. John Finsel visited Mrs. Updyke Sunday.

Mr. Butler Gore has the quincy, which is troubling him very much.

Mr. James Rossell took some good cattle to town Monday and sold them at good prices.

Messrs. J. C. and W. C. Moore, of Scrabble, Shelby county, paid the Point a visit Tuesday.

Rev. J. C. B. Stivers, after a week's visit to his mother, returned to his home in Waverly, New York, Saturday.

Mr. Curtis Rogers, of Bald Knob, visited the Point Tuesday on his return from a few days' visit to friends near Midway.

I propose all the correspondents of the ROUNDABOUT meet at the office of the editor on Saturday, Dec. 29th, 1883, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. J. R. Harrod, of Shelby county, paid the Point a flying visit Saturday. Mr. Harrod proposes moving to Frankfort this spring.

Mr. James Snow is hauling logs to have lumber sawed to build him a house. He proposes to have the cage ready when he catches the log.

Miss Lizzie Stivers, after a week's visit to her mother, left Saturday to take charge of her school at Fallen Rock, where she is giving general satisfaction.

Mr. Henry Rogers, of Bald Knob, spent Tuesday night at the Point, the guest of R. J. Shannon. Mr. Rogers was on his way to Louisville to take in the Exposition.

Mr. John Shuck and sister, Miss Minnie, of South Frankfort, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Shannon Sunday and Monday. Mr. Shuck left Wednesday for Tipton county, Indiana, where he expects to make his future home.

Mr. R. J. Shannon has now in his possession the scalp of an Indian, which was sent to him by a friend from Texas. He also has the photograph of said friend, dressed in uniform, gun in hand, and the scalp hanging to his belt, when anyone can see by calling on him at Point Pleasant. The scalp was sent to him in 1875.
HAWK EYE

FRIENDSHIP.

Friendship is as holy charm that may claim celestial origin. It is bestowed upon us—or the faculty for its exercise is an endowment from our Great Benefactor to cheer the heart and promote the great interest of the human family.

It is unlimited by particular circumstances like a rare exotic, it blooms in princely homes sending pleasure throughout the glittering realms of costly magnificence, and is often found rich and true among the poor and uneducated. An immutable principle exists in the laws of nature, that anybody or system of bodies can attract only as it is itself attracted and the physiognomist has conclusive evidence of this truth in his own observation. How pleasant are the smiles of kindly greeting, as enjoyed by those who can appreciate the delicate courtesies of mutual regard. Solitude may be sweet to the care worn and weary, yet were we constantly deprived of the privileges of society, we could soon adopt the language of the exile when he exclaimed: Oh! solitude, where are the charms that others may see in thy face, I'd rather dwell in the midst of alarms than to reign in this horrible place. Man is not only a reading animal enjoying the sediments of others as expressed in written language but a species of individually characterizes every member of the great fraternity. Respect sympathy and gratitude combined form the bright links in the golden chain of friendship.

The People and the Public Schools.

Editor Roundabout:

The suit now pending in the Franklin Circuit Court, in which the Trustees of the Frankfort City School are plaintiffs and the Auditor is defendant, is of vital importance, not only to the people but to the defendant also.

As long as it is pending it places the Auditor in a very embarrassing attitude. If the plaintiffs are right then from $75,000 to $100,000 a year of the public taxes are illegally applied, and the schools of Kentucky unjustly deprived of that amount annually, as well as the $271,000 for which this suit is instituted.

If the plaintiffs are wrong the suit should be dismissed in order that the people may look to other sources of revenue for the public schools.

Delay will benefit no one. It is but proper that the lower court should dispose of this case in some way in order that it may go to the Court of Appeals as soon as possible.

If the people are entitled to this fund to educate their children they ought to have it in spite of the "laws delay." There is no way to evade or dodge the question. It must be determined sooner or later and the sooner the better to drive illiteracy from the State.

George Bancroft, Maysville, Ky., writes: Brown's Iron Bitters completely cured him of continual heartburn.

Something About Water.

Editor Roundabout:

There is something vitally wrong in the system of administering the water-works of Frankfort. The demand which the city of Frankfort, in its organized capacity, through its appointed officers, makes upon the citizen upon many occasions, to pay for what it does not furnish him—to pay something for nothing—is simply an organized raid upon his purse.

We may say it is an old custom—we may say the fathers did it, so do we—but that does not justify the act.

If a citizen were to enter the store of another, and with pistol drawn, demand that he furnish goods without compensation, the law would denounce it highway robbery and the community would feel outraged.

But when the City of Frankfort, represented in its appointed officer, and authorized by its solemn Council, appear before a citizen and demand that he pay for what it did not furnish, it is about time the moral sense of the community be aroused to the enormity of the act, and some steps be taken for proper relief.

The City of Frankfort claims to be a personage, in a corporate sense, of some character. It goes before the world, asserting considerable dignity and authority in matters of right and justice.

What a poor show of defense, therefore, can it make when its pride is punctured with the needle of conviction which must elicit the confession that it is receiving money from its own citizens under fear of a threat—the threat that unless they tamely submit to the extortion, they can get no more water in any quantity—great or less.

The Constitution of the United States says no private property shall be taken for public use without just compensation. The Constitution of Kentucky echoes this manifest law of equality of ownership.

Money is property, and the city of Frankfort, through its municipal organization, takes money from its citizens for water it does not furnish, nor claim to furnish.

It asserts the right—
1. To demand money for water it does not furnish during the dry season, through its own inadequate supply of resources.

2. To demand money for water from hydrants not in use or officially shut off—that are closed, and from which the citizen cannot draw water if he wished—no demand being made for the time such hydrants remain closed.

When the old City Council expired one of the spades that dug its grave was branded "Water Mismanagement." The new or present City Council began with "Reform" as its motto. It does not strike us that on the water question it has chosen an appropriate symbol.

Having voted for it we claim an individual right to discuss its obliquity on the water question, and shall as bravely as possible go into and through the matter.
FAIR PLAY.

No matter how jaded the constitution may be from disease or excess, the Great German Invigorator restores it permanently. See advertisement. For sale by Joe LeCompte.
