"In the mails which come to this office daily there is much duplication and much waste of money, to say nothing of the bother to us to sort out our mail from the 'junk.'"

Mail is still coming to this office from the treasury department, the census department, the war department, the labor section of the interior department, the collector's office, from Henry Ford's publicity agents, from the Red Cross, the Belgium Aid, the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A., the naval recruiting service, the aid to fatherless children in France, the M. E. temperance bureau, the National Chamber of Commerce, the good roads bureau, the One Per Cent. Tax League, the Personal Liberty League, Purdue University, the public service boards and commissions, the picture corporations, the coal operators, etc., on and without end, all wanting free publicity, all wanting something for nothing, from one that has to pay something for everything.

These various companies, organizations, committees, bureaus and departments would do well to correct their mailing lists. It is bad enough to send one copy to each publisher without sending it in double and triple doses. This condition could be corrected in a large measure by the people having this in charge. The government and State publicity is so badly managed, is so valueless might as well be discontinued altogether. Add to this the waste of duplication and the extravagance is appalling."

Saying Or Doing?

"Your actions speak so loud I cannot hear what you say," said Emerson. Roosevelt put it another way—"Make your actions square with your words." It is what we do—not what we say that is the measure by which we are judged. No matter how we may talk, if those words are not backed by acts, all our professions are in vain. There are people right here in Paris who rant and talk about the town and what should be done to make it better. They can tell all its good points and are strong in their condemnation of people who are not "boosters"—and then the first thing we know we find them sending their money to mail-order houses or going to the city to trade. Help your "Old Home Town." The town that is good enough to live in and make a living in is good enough to spend in—and, you will find that your home merchant is no higher, quality considered, than elsewhere. It is not what you say about Paris, it is what you do, and how you live to your own words.

Don't Stop Building.

The cry is for houses—more houses—and still more houses here in Paris. The cost of material and labor is high, but there seems no prospect that it will be lower and the houses are needed right now. The man who has contemplated building should not be dissuaded by the cost, for when the building is completed the value is there. Many of our citizens have been contemplating improvements. It will be the part of wisdom to make the improvements now, for there is every chance that next year will see materials and labor even higher than at present. We cannot look for cheap building material. Our forests are denuded, and there has been no substitute found that will reduce the cost of building. Nothing has been done for two years to bring down material—now, we must build more than usual.

Undeodorized Aliens.

This good old U. S. A. is so full of aliens of various and sundry kinds, among them being the turbaned, the yellow, the low-browed and the undeodorized, that a little wholesome legislation relative to their accumulating large gobs of land here is well. We like our Hindoo brother first rate out on the railroad section, and are not particularly averse to seeing a slant-eyed Mongolian chase a shirt up and down a washboard, but don't exactly hanker for either of them buying the adjoining home place next to us and smoking baled hay and opium and stewing chop-suey to the detriment of the pure and ambient atmosphere now full of healthful microbes and ozone.

All In a Day's Work.

A newspaper publisher has to do a great many things in his calling that are personally disagreeable to him. To do his paper justice he at times sacrifices friendships that are priceless. He is forced to forget himself as a part of the machine. He goes after stuff that does not interest him personally a bit, but he does it as a duty. Sometimes he is met by a haughty grandee who wants to know what business of his it is if he does so and so, and the editor is given the insult direct. But he doesn't pay any attention to insults. If he did he wouldn't last a day. In a little country town these insults are borne as a business policy but not always forgotten.

Back To Old Time.

Here we are again back to the old time, clocks and watches having been set back an hour to conform with the order of things before the so-called "daylight saving" law became operative.

Personally we preferred to let the time stand as it was, even if we did have to hustle out of bed an hour earlier. The advanced hour got us out of the daily grind with more daylight at our disposal in the shank of the afternoon, and that seemed to have suited city folks best. Country people, however, didn't look at the matter from the same viewpoint, and it was their attitude that caused a revocation.

PORTRAITS OF RED CROSS WORKERS ASKED

A request has been received by officials of the local Red Cross Chapter from Dr. Stockton Axson, National Secretary of the Red Cross, asking that photographs of the Chapter's most prominent workers be forwarded to the Red Cross headquarters. At a recent meeting of the Chapter it was decided to send photographs of Miss Hannah Owens, Mrs. Owen L. Davis and Mrs. H. Clay Howard.

The request, as stated by Dr. Axson, was made in accordance with a plan to be put into effect for making a painting to typify the work of the womanhood of America during the late war. The face of the allegorical picture is to be a composite of American women, and as such will bear the blended lineaments of representative workers in all sections of the United States.

EXPERIMENT STATION WINS IMPORTANT LITIGATION

A suit instituted last June in the Circuit Court at Mt. Sterling by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, through its counsel, Mr. W. B. White, against the C. W. Jean Company, an Indiana firm operating a number of cream buying stations throughout Kentucky, for failure to secure a license for their station in Mt. Sterling last spring, was successfully terminated last week. Judge Robert Winn, attorney for the C. W. Jean Company, appeared in open court and agreed that a judgment should be entered against his client for the sum of $300 and costs. This represents the first prosecution brought by Dean Thomas Cooper for a violation of the Kentucky Creamery and Tester's License Law, the object of this law being to insure fair dealing between the producer of cream and the company buying it.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" IS LAXATIVE FOR CHILD

Look At Tongue! Remove Poisons From Stomach, Liver and Bowels

Accept "California" Syrup of Figs only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless laxative or physic for the little stomach, liver and bowels. Children love its delicious fruit taste. Full directions for child's dose on each bottle. Give it without fear.

Mother! You must say "California."

Wise Provision of Nature. Man always worships something; always he sees the infinite shadowed forth in something finite; and indeed can and must so see it in any finite thing, once tempt him well to fix his eyes thereon.—Carlyle.

NOTICE!

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Council of the City of Paris, Kentucky, by ordinance passed at the regular meeting of said Council, on August 28, 1919, approved by the Mayor, and published as required by law, called and ordered an election to be held on the next regular election day, being November 4, 1919, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of the City of Paris, Kentucky, the following question, to-wit:

Are you in favor of issuing bonds of the City of Paris, Kentucky, in the sum of Sixty Thousand Dollars, ($60,000.00), to be paid in levies made annually to meet said bonds and the interest thereof, for the purpose of constructing and extending the sanitary sewer system of the City of Paris on the following streets, to-wit:

- J. W. HAYDEN,
Clerk of the Board of Council of the City of Paris, Kentucky.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

That Much Assured.

A somewhat impecunious young fellow rashly engaged himself to a charming young thing, who shortly after the excitement had subsided began to evince doubts. Said she: "How long dearie, do you think we shall have to be engaged?" "Well, sweetheart," said the young man cheerily, "I have enough money to last for six months I think."

CONSTIPATION.

Most laxatives and cathartics afford only temporary relief and should be used only for that purpose. When you want permanent relief take Chamberlain's Tablets and be careful to observe the directions with each package. These tablets not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

Look Decent.

Bobby's father was a photographer, and the little fellow had often seen him take pictures and heard him admonish the people to "Look pleasant, please." One day he obtained a small, worn-out camera and pretended to take his little playmate's picture. Getting her to stand for a snapshot, he directed: "Now, Hazel, stand still and look decent, please."

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

Mrs. J. W. Phillips, Redon, Ga., phoned to J. M. Floyd, the merchant there, for a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said she had bought a bottle of it at his store recently and that it was doing her children so much good that she wanted to keep up the treatment. You will find nothing better for coughs and colds in children or for yourself. It keeps the cough loose, expectation easy and soon frees the system from the cold.
