COMMUNICATION FROM STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Paris, Ky., Jan. 14, 1919. Believing that a former order of the City Board of Health strongly urging the importance of inoculation with the Rosenow-Mayo serum as the safest known method for protection against influenza and pneumonia, has in a large measure been disregarded, the percentage of inoculated children in the various rooms of the City School being about six, and in further view of the fact that the Board finds many cases, though mild, which might have been prevented, respectfully calls attention to the following communication:

Bowling Green, Ky., Jan. 9, 1919. THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH, THE ROSENOW—MAYO VACCINE Dr. A. H. Keller, City Health Officer, Paris, Ky.

As requested, I am sending you the Rosenow-Mayo Vaccine for preventive inoculation against influenza, and especially against the types of pneumonia which have caused most of the deaths during this epidemic.

Dr. Rosenow advises that individuals be given three inoculations, one week apart, in order to get the highest and most enduring immunity.

As a treatment during an attack of influenza the dose indicated on the label is to be given daily for three days and, although some reaction may follow, many physicians report excellent results in relieving the influenza and in preventing pneumonia.

As to the preventive value of the inoculation, the records in the office of the Surgeon General of the Army, dealing with a division of 27,000 troops in the early stage of the epidemic, show that of 12,000 men who received the inoculation 8 developed pneumonia, with no deaths; of 15,000 not inoculated, 800 developed pneumonia, with 120 deaths.

With the approval of the Surgeon General, the entire army has been inoculated. This Board after the fullest investigation endorses its use by every person in Kentucky who is not certain that he or she has recently had influenza.

Dr. South, here, has entire charge of the distribution of the vaccine and it will prevent delay and confusion if all requests for it by letter or wire, are addressed to her. Also, on account of the scarcity of glassware, please mail all vials and containers back as soon as they are emptied.

Very respectfully, J. S. McCORMICK, Secretary. C. G. DAUGHERTY, J. M. WILLIAMS, JO VARDEN, Board of Health, A. H. KELLER, City Health Officer.
