Practical and Inspiring Lessons for All

A Great Man Whose Many Deeds Shoul Be a Constant Inspiration to Every One-As Interesting Sermon Hy Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D.

In the southeastern part of Arabia man issitting by a well. It is an arid country, and water is scarce, so that a well is of great value, and flocks and herds are driven vast distances to have their thirst slaked. Jethro, a tunate as to have seven daughters; and they are practical girls, and yonder they come driving the sheep and cattle and camels of their father to the waterstones and chilling their feet, and the troughs are filled. Who is that man out Why does he not come and help when he saw an Egyptian op-pressing an Israelite and gave the Egyptian a sudden clip and buried him in the sand, and he showed after-ward when he broke all the Ten Comnandments at once by shattering the two granite slabs on which the law was written. But the injustice of this treatment of the seven girls sets him n fire with wrath, and he takes this shepherd by the throat, and poshes tack another shepherd till he falls over the trough, and sims a stunning blow between the eyes of another, a he told the seven girls of this Midiante sheik to gather their flocks to gether and bring them again to the vatering. Oh, you ought to see a fight between the shepherds at a well in the Orient, as I saw it in December, 1830. There were here a group of rough men who had driven the cattle many miles, and ere another group who had driver their cattle as many miles.

Now the sheet with a peculiar mark across their wool ly backs, were at the trough, and now he sheep of another mark. It was one of the most exciting scenes I ever witnessed. An old book describes one of these contentions at an eastern well when it says: "One day the poor men, the widows and the orphans met ogether and were driving their cam els and their flocks to drink, and were all standing by the water side, Daji came up and stopped them all, and took possession of the water for his master's cattle. Just then an old woman belonging to the tribe of Abs ant manner saying: "It's so good Master Daji, as to let my cattle drink

Time has dealt hardly with me. It has aimed its arrows at me, and its daily and nightly calamities have destroyed all my men I have lost my children and my hus-band, and since then I have been in great distress. These sheep are all that I possess. Let them drink, for I live on the milk that they produce Pity my forlorn state. I have no one

What was the use of Zipporah bemeaning herself with work when she might have reclined on the hillside near her father's tent and plucked butover imaginary songs to the brooks No. she knew that work was honor able, and that every girl ought to have somethi g to do, and so she starts with bl. ating and lowing and bellowing and neighing droves to the well for the watering.

Around every home there are flocks and droves of cares and anxieties and every daughter of the family though there be seven, ought to be doing her part to take care of the flocks in many households, not only is Zipporah, but all her sisters, without practical and useful couployments. Many of them are waiting for fortunate and prosperous matrimonial alliance, but ome lounger like themselves will come along, and after counting the large number of Father Jethro's sheep and camels, will make proposal that will be accepted; and neither of them having done anything more practical than to chew chocolate caramels, the two othings will start on the road of life together, every step more and more a failure. That daughter of the Midi-

Do something well. have fathers with great flocks of absorbing duties, and such a father needs help in home, or office, or field. Go out and help him with the flocks. The reason that so many men now con-dema themselves to unaffianced and solitary life is because they can not support the modern young woman, who rises at 10:30 in the morning and retires after midnight, one of the trashiest of novels in her hand most of the time between the late rising and the late retiring—a thousand of them not worth one Zipporah.

There is a question that every father and mother ought to ask the daughter at breakfast or tea table, and that all the daughters of the wealthy shick ought to ask each other: "What would you do if the family fortune should fail, if sickness should prostrate the breadwinner, if the flocks of Jethro should be destroyed by a sudden ex-cursion of wolves and bears and by enas from the mountains? What would you do for a living? Could you support yourself? Can you take care of an invalid mother, or brother or sister as well as yourself?" Yea, bring it down to what any day might come to a prosperous family. "Can you cook a dinner if the servants should make a strike for higher wages and leave that morn-ing?" Every minute of every hour of every day of every year there are fam ilies flung from prosperity into hard-ship, and alas! if in such exigency the seven daughters of Jethro can do noth-ing but sit around and ery and wait for some one to come and hunt them up a situation for which they have no world, did not begin by lecturing in the university. Our friend and Washingtonian townsman, W. W. Corcoran, did a mag nificent thing when he built and en-dowed the "Louise Home" for the unfortunate aristocracy of the south— the people who once had everything but have come to nothing. We want an-other W. W. Corcoran to build a "Louise Home" for the unfortunate aristocrac f the north. But institutions like tha in every city of the land could not take care of one-half the unfortunate aristoeracy of the north and south, whos large fortunes have failed, and who, through lack of acquaintance with any of work, can not now earn their own bread.

There needs to be peaceful, yet radi-cal revolution among most of the pros-perous homes of America, by which the elegant do-nothings may be transformed into practical do-some-things. Let useless women go to work and gather the flocks. Come, Zipporah, let me introduce you to Moses. But you do not mean that this man afflanced to this country gir was the great Moses of history, do you? You do not mean that he was the man who afterward wrought such wonders? Surely you do not mean the man whose staff dropped, wriggled in-to a serpent, and then, clutched, stiff-ened again into a staff? You do not mean the challenger of Egyptian thrones and palaces? You do not mean him who struck the rock so hard it wept in a stream for thirsty hosts? Surely you do not mean the man who stood alone with God on the quaking Sinaitic tanges; not him to whom the Red Sea was surrendered? Yes, the same Moses defending the sever daughters of the Midiantish sheik; who afterward rescued a nation.

Why, do you not know that this i the way men and women get prepared if it drops, then notwithstanding the for special work? The wilderness of influence will go on in other latitudes Arabia was the law school, the theo-logical seminary, the university of rock and sand, from which he graduated for a mission that would seas, and drown armies, and lift the lantern of illumined cloud by night, and start the workmen with bleeding oness among Egyptian brick kilns small part of our earthly stay is only a small part of our sphere.
