OBITUARY.

About eight o'clock Sunday morning the remains of Mrs. Lucinda Greenleaf were found in her bed, her spirit having taken its flight sometime during the night. She retired at the regular hour on Saturday night, in her usual health, and death was not known until some one went to her room to announce breakfast, when her body was found in its natural position, which indicated the fact that the spirit and body had separated without the least struggle. As soon as the fact was made known everybody, who knew the estimable old lady, went to pay a tribute of respect and take a look at the familiar features.

Funeral services were conducted, at the Christian church, on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, by Eld. George Gowen, in his forcible and attractive style, after which the remains were interred in Lancaster cemetery. The large crowd in attendance evinced the high repute in which she was held, and the expressions of regret over her departure, and the frequent reference to her noble, Christian character and her pure life, revealed the fact that everybody was her friend.

She was, in reality, a consistent member of the Christian church, having confessed her faith, in early life, and lived in a manner which proved to the world that she was possessed of those Christian virtues which adorn and beautify this life, and prepare the soul for that purer and brighter existence.

On Friday a number of her lady friends met and dined with her, to celebrate the 84th anniversary of her birthday. Of course, at this advanced age, her health was not very good, but her sudden departure was unexpected.

She had been a widow for many years, and leaves four sons, an only daughter; Mrs. H. C. Kauffman and G. S. Greenleaf, of this city, Mr. John S. Greenleaf, cashier of a bank at Richmond, W. H., a prominent business man of St. Louis, Mo., and Lee Greenleaf, now residing in Texas. The high esteem in which they are held, by all who know them shows the value of a Christian mother in the formation of character, and how the words of advice and admonition, given in early life, will determine the course and destiny of those who are blessed with them.

Such women have done more to exalt and embellish human life, than all the orators, philosophers and ministers of earth. While living they deserve a brighter crown than any that ever decked the brow of Caesar, and over their remains the chiselled marble should be reared until it kisses the skies. Let this and the rising generations follow her example, live her life, and the world will be much better.

Human nature revolts at death when alone, when denied any human ministrations, but, in this instance the touch of a human hand, or the dropping of a tear would have been of no avail, when the angels hovered about her pillow and wafted her spirit to its heavenly home, to which all such spirits gravitate, by a law as fixed and immutable as the law which draws the pebble toward the center of earth.

Of the slab, which will mark her resting place, we say with the poet—
"The granite monuments which stand,
During Time's snuffing roll,
Are guide-posts on the land,
To show the course of the soul."

Scribner's Magazine.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine has several notable art features. The brilliant cover in silver, gold, and colors is from a prize design by Albert Herter. There are also sixteen pages of color-printing of an unusual kind—reproducing Maxfield Parrish's very original scheme of illustration and decoration, accompanying F. J. Stimson's poetical version of a scene from Wagner's "Rhine-Gold."

In the article on "John Ruskin as a Painter," Mr. Spielman has included reproductions of many unpublished paintings and sketches, secured only by reason of his long personal friendship with Ruskin. Another artistic feature is the frontispiece by the young artist, Walter Appleton Clark, whose reputation has been made in the pages of Scribner's.

Several freight cars jumped the track at Silver Creek Wednesday, delaying the day trains about five hours.

More Local.

Overcome evil with good. Overcome your coughs and colds with One Minute Cough Cure. It is so good children cry for it. It cures croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and all throat and lung diseases. At Stormes' Drug Store.

A Warm Number.

A great many white people witnessed the Cake Walk given by the colored U. B. S. H., at the Court house last week. The contest was a hot one, every participant in by turns of the best walkers in Central Kentucky. Billy Farris, Fred Young and Perry Embry, the latter from Crab Orchard, Farris was the favorite among the crowd, being a Lancaster man, but after the Crab Orchard entry had cut a few capers at least half the crowd began to cheer him. The judges gave first money to Farris, and second to Embry. The latter "waited table" at Crab Orchard springs, and can bring in a fifty-pound tray of dishes on three fingers, never changing the "graceful" gait he kept on the stage here.

Warning.

To all citizens or impostors traveling all over the country, representing themselves as my sons, or agents, and swindling the people.

I have a son, Dr. Ra-olph Goldstein, who visits one day in each month one town, stops at the prominent hotels in the State.

He represents the House, is skillful, and honorable in his dealings, the rest are either evil or impostors.

A. GOLDSTEIN, Optician,

544 4th Ave. Louisville, Ky.

Will Move In.

Mr. J. W. Sweeney has rented Mrs. Fisher's property on Lexington avenue and will move to town first of the year.

Please Remember.

A fellow representing some city printing office was here this week and was given work by many business men. Now, of course, they had a perfect right to do this, but we speak of it in order to call their attention to the fact that the fellows' house also grinds axes, and, as the tail should always go with the hide, they will please send their wood-choppers to him, and not bother us with their troubles.

Not Dead, Oh, No.

The gentlemen working up the hotel and opera house are so busy getting ready for their Christmas trade that they have done nothing for the past week toward the scheme. As no work could possibly be done before spring this delay amounts to nothing. We repeat our statement that the plan is a winner and the building will be put up.

Competitive Examination.

On Saturday, December 7, at the office of the County Superintendent, an examination will be held for teachers who desire an appointment to the Normal Department at State College. This is a competitive examination, and is, therefore, open to all teachers. Four appointments are to be made and those teachers obtaining the highest average in Arithmetic, U. S. History, English Grammar and Geography, will be entitled to the appointment.

ELISA J. LUSK, School Supt.

Too Much Liquor.

Two men named Todd got too much Battle Row whiskey Monday, and raised a racket. They resisted arrest and Marshal Walker summoned Messrs. J. M. Higginbotham and T. J. Hatcher to his assistance. The men were very unruly, and when in the court room one of them made a very insulting remark to Mr. Higginbotham and threatened him. Mr. H., in defense, let go his right fist, and sent the fellow to grass. The blow, together with Judge Brown's fine, will doubtless teach these fellows a good lesson.

Came Out the Little End.

A Stanford negro, named Will Gill, came over and proceeded to teach the Lancaster coons the latest and most improved way of running a bling ting. Policemen Walker and Petty soon smelled a mouse and catching Gill with wool in his teeth, took him before Judge Brown, who assessed a small fine of $125. Not having the requisite amount of cash, Gill will spend one hundred and twenty-five days astride a Lancaster rock pile ere he again listens to the rippling waters of St. Asaph creek.

The Harrodsburg saying says: There is a new enterprise being operated between Mercer and Jessamine, such as the wise man never dreamed of. Mr. Geo. Sample, formerly of Frankfort, has a steam saw mill in a boat which he moves up and down on the Kentucky river, stopping, long enough, where he can get four or five logs, to saw them into lumber. He then boats the lumber to a landing and divides, giving the owner of the logs half and keeping the other half for himself. He has been operating his floating mill for five or six months, clearing not less than $100 per month. He employs several hands.
