The Gazette & Comet

GENERAL NEWS.

The wife of the President, from all accounts, is a lady very much like the late Mrs. Henry Clay, caring nothing for city life or gay society, but finding peace and content in the calm, unobtrusive pleasures of the domestic life of her own family circle. Mrs. Patterson, the President's daughter, the wife of the new Senator from Tennessee, Judge Patterson, will it is said, do the honors of White House.

A man named Joseph Creel, who was a lad of two or three years when Washington was born, is now living in Wisconsin, and consequently 139 years old. He is a great smoker, and the doctors think that but for this he might live to be a pretty old man.

The Sciota (Ohio) Gazette has reached the sixty-seventh year of its age. It was started by NATHANIEL WILLIS, Esq., grandfather of "Fanny Fern," and of N. P. WILLIS, poet and present editor of the Home Journal.

Five hundred teamsters belonging to SHERMAN's wagon train, mostly negroes, were mustered out of service in New Albany on the 9th instant, and furnished transportation to Washington for discharge.

Brigadier General Fisk, says the Nashville Press, will shortly visit in detail the principal points of the South to counsel with the local authorities and planters in regard to the condition of the freedmen.

The census returns give the city of Buffalo a population of 93,685, with one district to be added. The city of Lockport has between eleven and twelve thousand.

It is estimated that there will be two hundred thousand Americans in Europe before the end of summer.

KID GLOVE MANUFACTURES.—In the south of England there is an extensive manufacture of kid gloves, Yeovil being its center. Three and sixpence is paid for sewing the back of a dozen kid gloves; the stitcher, who is obliged to stoop to the machine and place her eyes very near her work, can only live by working twelve hours a day. In one case the stitcher worked from six in the morning until eleven at night, to earn five and sixpence a week. "It was lamentable," says Dr. Edward Smith, "to see children from nine to fourteen years of age kept at this employment during the whole day, seeing nothing of the world around them, and cut off from the amusements and exertion so natural to children, and so necessary at the period of growth. The needle-women of London did not impress my mind so unfavorably as the stitchers of gloves at Yeovil, since the former were for the most part, in middle or advanced life, whilst here were children or young women, who were consuming their health and losing the pleasure of life for the barest pittance."

NO MORE WHISKEY.—Under date of July 29th, the Secretary of war orders that the whiskey ration will no longer be supplied to the army by the Subsistence Department; and the whiskey now on hand will be sold under the Commissary General's orders.

DISCOVERY OF A TEMPLE OF JUNO AT POMPEII.

Mention was lately made of the discovery at Pompeii of a temple of Juno, with more than three hundred skeletons. Those remains, which crumbled to dust by degrees as they were brought to light, were those of women and children who had been buried beneath the burning ashes thrown out by the volcano at the moment in which a sacrifice was being offered up in the temple to the Queen of the Gods, no doubt to implore her to avert the terrible calamity which menaced the city. To the arm of one of those skeletons, which, from the rich jewels with which it was covered, is supposed to have been that of the high priestess, was still attached, by a gold ring, a censer of the same metal filled with calcined perfumes. This vessel is of the form of those now used in the ceremonies of Catholic churches, and is of beautiful workmanship and inlaid with precious stones. The statue of the goddess is one of the most magnificent relics yet found in that city; its eyes are of enamel, and on the neck and arms, as well as at the ankles, are jewels and bracelets of precious stones of the most exquisite finish and elegance of form. The peacock placed at her side is almost entirely composed of precious stones. The tripod before the altar is, like the censer held by the high priestess, magnificently worked gold. The temple also contained lamps, artistically chased, of bronze, iron, silver and gold; branches of foliage, vine stems, interspersed with flowers and fruit of the most beautiful form. The space around the altar is paved with splendid mosaics in excellent preservation, and the rest of the temple is inlaid with small triangular blocks of white and purple agate. The spot on which the sacrifices were made is alone paved with marble. All the instruments used on the occasion were still lying on a bronze table, and the sacred vases were filled with a reddish matter, which is supposed to have been blood.

DR. BRECKINRIDGE IN A CHARACTERISTIC ROLE.—At the late commencement of exercises at Union College, Schenectady, says a correspondent of the New York Herald:

A gentleman saw fit to introduce a series of resolutions commemorative of the life and services of the late Right Rev. Dr. Alonzo Potter, the recently deceased Bishop of the Pennsylvania Episcopate. At the conclusion of the resolutions the Rev. Dr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, was called upon to speak in their indorsement and support. The Doctor rose and expressed his wonder that he should have been called upon to perform such a part. He knew but little of Dr. Potter, and that little was hardly of a character to be elaborately alluded to on such an occasion. He recognized in the deceased prelate and Bishop a Christian gentleman, an eloquent preacher and a robust American thinker; but it was simply impossible for him to endorse in the slightest degree, the controversial powers or writings of Dr. Potter. The entire address was a cold and cheerless recognition of the dead. This speech called up several eminent Episcopalians of the alumni, who warmly defended and eulogized the dead Bishop, but who were subjected to several calls to order, the whole constituting a scene that indicated that ecclesiastical angularities and inharmonies of no ordinary bitterness had been unfortunately awakened.

John W. Gale, the author of the advertisement offering one million of dollars reward for the assassination of President Lincoln, and who is now in arrest at Washington, is a resident of Cahawba, a few miles from Selma. I have taken some pains to ascertain the antecedents of Mr. Gale, who is extensively known in this section of the country. He is a lawyer of considerable ability, and has been all his life a violent Southern man and secessionist. He has been a fast liver and of dissipated habits, and although doing a lucrative business, has fully lived up to his income. He has never been the possessor of more than ten thousand dollars, and the offering of the reward is said to have been done in a joke while on a drunken frolic. He has not taken any active part in the war, but lived at home practicing his profession and drinking whiskey.

Selma Carr.
