LITTLE THINGS.

The flower in small tufts decks the field,
The bee is small that bears the flower;
But flower and bee alike may yield
Food for a thoughtful hour.

Essence and attributes of each
For his profound combs;
And all they are, and all they teach,
Springs from the mind divine.

Is there who scorneth little things?
As wisely might he scorn to eat
The food that bounteous Autumn brings,
In little grains of wheat.

Methinks, indeed, that such a one
Few pleasures upon earth will find,
Where not his heavenly gifts are won
From little things combined.

The lark that in the morning air,
Amid the sunbeams mounts and sings
What lifted her so lightly there?
Small feathers in her wings.

What form the beautiful, gorgeous dyes
With which she adorns off is bright,
Hues of azure, blue, and blue, and blue,
Minutest waves of light.

And when the earth is zero and mad
By summer's over-mild reign,
How is she in her beauty clad?
By little drops of rain.

Yes, and the robe that nature weaves,
Whence does it levery robe arise,
From little flowers, and little leaves,
And little blades of grass.

Oh, sure who scorneth little things,
If he were not a thoughtless elf,
Far above all that round him springs,
Would scorn his little self.

O DOUBLE T.—The Woods, of Lancashire, England, are a distinguished family for character, wealth and talent. The eldest son, John Wood, was for many years a member of Parliament for Preston. A laughable circumstance once took place upon a trial in Lancashire, where the head of the family, Mr. Wood, senior, was examined as a witness. Upon giving his name (Ottwell Wood), the Judge, addressing him, said, "Pray, Mr. Wood, how do you spell your name?" The old gentleman replied:

"O double T
I double U
E double L
Double U
Double O D."

upon which the astonished lawyer laid down his pen, saying it was the most extraordinary name he had ever met with in his life; and, after two or three attempts, declared that he was unable to record it. The Court was convulsed with laughter.

There are some smart rascals in Memphis, Tennessee, who, when they find a horse unmarked, represent themselves as government agents, and boldly claim the animal as a horse that has been stolen from the Government. If the owner of the horse claims that there are no "U. S." marks on the animal, the rogues produce a glass, which they declare is a magnifying one, and, as the lens of the glass has faint "U. S." lined upon it, the looking through it makes the letters visible, apparently on the horse. This astounds the owner of the beast, and with cool audacity the thieves ride off with the horse they have appropriated.

THE WAR DEBT.—The Chairman of the House Committee of Ways and Means, Thaddeus Stephens, the Black Republican leader in the last Congress, said in his speech at Lancaster:

"Our war debt is estimated at from three to four billions of dollars. In my judgment, when all is funded and the pensions capitalized, it will reach more than four billions."

If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the most invisible particles by the mere power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessing; only the iron in God's sand is gold.

O. W. Holmes.

Reputation is so tender a flower that if once cropped or blasted, it is out of the power of the most benign sun or genial showers to restore it to its original beauty. How tender then should every one be, not only of speaking, but even of encouraging the busy tongues and malicious speeches of defamers! for if defamation be a murder of the reputation as it is in other murders, every bystander ought to be looked upon as of principal, since the law allows of no accomplices in crimes of that black nature.

COLORADO.—The late vote by the people of this Territory on the question of negro suffrage was—for, 201, against, 994. It will apply at the next session of Congress for admission into the Union as a State; but the Radicals of that body, if consistent, will have to oppose it.
