Shakespeare Club.

Last evening, at the Varieties Theatre, the popular Shakespeare Club gave their second performance of the season.

The piece chosen for the occasion was Dion Boucicault's five act drama entitled "The Long Strike."

The piece, like nearly all the productions of this author, is what might be termed an excellent acting play.

It is necessary, however, in producing his pieces, to fully understand the stage business incidental to the scene.

Mr. Mullen as Jen Starke seemed somewhat out of place. The character was unsuited to him, and lacked vigor of expression.

Mr. Coven as Readley was very fair indeed, and spoke his lines clearly and forcibly.

Messrs. Given, Julio and Whitaker as manufacturers, were good. Mr. Wilson as Crankshaw, barring his dressing as an American, instead of an English police man, was well up in his part.

Mr. D. C. Johnston, as Montgomery, the erratic and eccentric lawyer, was very good in the third act.

Miss Isabel Freeman played Jan Leavoy in a most artistic and excellent manner, looking very pretty and dressing correctly.

Charming little Miss "D. V." Murdoch had but very little to do as Devey, but her popularity with our theatre-goers was fully shown by the very flattering reception she received on her appearance.

Mr. Hutchison, a member of Eagle Steam Engine Company No. 7, fell while sliding down a ladder, and it is feared, broke his leg.

Those who do not know the attractions that can form no idea of the multitudes who throng the spacious halls evening after evening, in addition to the great numbers who just drop in during the day.

In a few days the exterior finish of the building will be entirely completed; the rubbish will be removed, the banquettes fully laid, and then ladies will not, as they need not now, hesitate about going in.

However, in the meantime the attractions from day to day become greater and more tempting, and the goods on exhibition make a more magnificent show.

Collector Casey was to leave Washington last Friday or Saturday for New Orleans. He probably arrived by the midnight train last night.

The Richland Beacon asks "Who is E. H. Riddell?" and says: How generous and obliging some people are, especially the Packard Republicans.

RECKONING UP THE MISSISSIPPI.

About one month ago, the REPUBLICAN, drawing facts from the Bureau of State Engineers, foretold there would be "no high water this year."

The swamps are reservoirs into which the surplus water of the Mississippi runs and holds. At present these basins are all dry.

The levee building has been going on with great vigor. The work is never done, for the banks as well as the volume of water, the bed, the current, the force, the height of the great river are in a constant change.

Mr. Butler reported a bill removing 25,000 political disabilities, which was also passed.

Mr. Clark, of Texas, was unseated and Mr. Bird, of Massachusetts, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill removing the political disabilities from all persons who sided the late rebellion.
