LAWS

OF THE

UNITED STATES,

Passed at the First Session of the Thirty-Ninth Congress.

AN ACT to increase and fix the military peace establishment of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the military peace establishment of the United States shall hereafter consist of five regiments of artillery, ten regiments of cavalry, forty-five regiments of infantry, the professors and corps of cadets of the United States Military Academy, and such other forces as shall be provided for by this act, to be known as the Army of the United States.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the five regiments of artillery provided for by this act shall consist of the five regiments now organized; and the first, second, third, and fourth regiments of artillery shall have the same organization as is now prescribed by law for the fifth regiment of artillery; and the regimental adjutants, quartermasters, and commissaries shall hereafter be extra lieutenants selected from the first or second lieutenants of the regiment.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That to the six regiments of cavalry now in service there shall be added four regiments of cavalry, two of which shall be composed of colored men, having the same organization as is now provided by law for cavalry regiments, with the addition of one veterinary surgeon to each regiment, whose compensation shall be one hundred dollars per month; but the army of company commissary sergeant of cavalry is hereby abolished. The original vacancies in the grade of first and second lieutenant shall be filled by selection from among the officers and soldiers of the cavalry, and two-thirds of the original vacancies in each of the grades above that of first lieutenant shall be filled by selection from among the officers of volunteer cavalry, and one-third from officers of the regular army, all of whom shall have served two years in the field during the war, and shall have been distinguished for capacity and good conduct. Any portion of the cavalry force may be armed and drilled as lancers or dismounted cavalry, at the discretion of the President, and each cavalry regiment shall hereafter have but one hospital steward, and the regimental adjutants, quartermasters, and commissaries shall hereafter be extra lieutenants selected from the first or second lieutenants of the regiment.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the forty-five regiments of infantry provided for by this act shall consist of the four regiments of infantry now in service, each to consist of ten companies, and forty regiments of ten companies each, to be formed by adding one company to each battalion of the regiments now in service; and of one regiment of ten companies, each, four regiments of which shall be composed of colored men and four regiments of ten companies each, to be formed by adding to each battalion of the colored regiments now in service one company, the organization of the companies of infantry provided for in this act shall consist of the first ten regiments, of ten companies each, to be formed by adding two companies to each battalion of the regiments now in service; and of one regiment of ten companies, each, four regiments of which shall be composed of colored men and four regiments of ten companies each, to be formed by adding to each battalion of the colored regiments now in service two companies, the organization of the companies of infantry provided for in this act shall consist of one captain, one first lieutenant, one second lieutenant, and four sergeants; the regimental adjutants, quartermasters, and commissaries shall hereafter be extra lieutenants selected from the first or second lieutenants of the regiment.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the forty-five regiments of infantry provided for by this act shall consist of the four regiments of infantry now in service, each to consist of ten companies, and forty regiments of ten companies each, to be formed by adding one company to each battalion of the regiments now in service; and of one regiment of ten companies, each, four regiments of which shall be composed of colored men and four regiments of ten companies each, to be called the veteran reserve corps, and all the original vacancies in the grades of first and second lieutenant shall be filled by selection from among the officers and soldiers of volunteers and one-half of the original vacancies in each of the grades above that of first lieutenant shall be filled by selection from among the officers of volunteers, and the remainder from officers of the regular army, all of whom shall have served two years during the war, and have been distinguished for capacity and good conduct in the field. The veteran reserve corps shall be composed of officers and soldiers of volunteers or of the regular army who have been wounded in the line of their duty while serving in the army of the United States in the late war, and who may yet be competent for garrison or other duty to which that corps has heretofore been assigned.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the appointments to be made from among volunteer officers and soldiers under the provisions of this act shall be distributed among the Territories, States, and District of Columbia, in proportion to the number of troops furnished by them respectively to the service of the United States during the late war, reduced to an average of three years term of service: Provided, That the regulation provided in this section governing the proportion of officers to be selected from each State shall not be applied to the States of California, Oregon and Nevada.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That each regiment of infantry provided for by this act shall have one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, one major, one adjutant, one regimental quartermaster, one commissary sergeant, one hospital steward, two principal musicians, and ten companies; the adjutant and quartermaster shall hereafter be extra lieutenants selected from the first or second lieutenants of the regiment. Each company shall consist of one captain, one first lieutenant, and second lieutenant, one first sergeant, one quartermaster sergeant, four sergeants, eight corporals, two artificers, two musicians, and one wagoner, and the private or enlisted number of privates may be increased at the discretion of the President, not to exceed one hundred, whenever the exigencies of the service require it; but the number and the President is hereby authorized to enlist and employ in the Territories and Indian country a force of Indians, not to exceed one thousand, to act as scouts, who shall receive the pay and allowances of cavalry soldiers, and be discharged whenever the necessity for their further employment is abated, or at the discretion of the department commander.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That fifteen bands, including the band at the Military Academy, may be retained or enlisted in the army, with such organization as now provided by law, to be assigned to brigades in time of war, and in time of peace to assembled brigades or to forts or posts at which the largest number of troops shall be ordinarily stationed, and the band at the Military Academy shall be placed on the same footing as other bands; one ordnance sergeant and one non-commissioned officer military post, and the same number of post chaplains as at present authorized, who shall be appointed as now provided by law: Provided, That none of the United States is hereby authorized to appoint for each national cemetery now established, or that may be established, a superintendent, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of an ordnance sergeant, to be selected from among the non-commissioned officers of the regular army and volunteer forces who have received certificates of merit for services during the war.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That all enlistments into the army shall hereafter be for the term of five years for calvary, and three years for artillery and infantry and recruits may at all times be contracted at the general rendezvous in addition to the number required to fill to the minimum all the regiments of the army, provided that such recruits shall not exceed in the aggregate ten per centum, and shall be competent to enlist men for the service who have been wounded in the line of their duty while serving in the army of the United States, and who shall be found on medical inspection that by such wounds they are not unfitted for efficiency in garrison or other light duty, and such wounded soldiers shall be assigned to service exclusively in the regiments of the Veteran Reserve Corps.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That there shall be one general, one lieutenant general, five major generals, and ten brigadier generals, who shall have the same pay and emoluments, and be entitled to the same staff officers in number and grade, as now provided by law.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That the adjutant general's department of the army shall hereafter consist of the officers now authorized by law, viz: One adjutant general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a brigadier general; two assistant adjutants general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; four assistant adjutants general, with rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; and thirteen assistant adjutants general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That there shall be four inspectors general of the army, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; and two assistant inspectors general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of lieutenant colonels of cavalry; and two assistant inspectors general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the Bureau of Military Justice shall hereafter consist of one judge advocate general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a brigadier general, and one assistant judge advocate general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a colonel of cavalry; and the judge advocate general shall receive, revise, and have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions, and shall perform such other duties as have heretofore been performed by the judge advocate general of the army. Each of the judge advocates now in service there may be retained a number not exceeding ten, to be selected by the Secretary of War, who shall perform such duties under the direction of the judge advocate general, until otherwise provided by law, or until the Secretary of War shall decide that their services can be dispensed with.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That the quartermaster's department of the army shall hereafter consist of one quartermaster general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a brigadier general; six assistant quartermasters general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; ten deputy quartermasters general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of lieutenant colonels of cavalry; fifteen quartermasters, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry; and the vacancies hereby created in the grades of assistant quartermaster shall be filled by selection from among the persons who have rendered meritorious service as assistant quartermasters or volunteer officers for two years of the war. But after the first appointment made under the provisions of this section, as vacancies may occur in the grades of major and above in this department, no appointments to fill the same shall be made until the number of majors shall be reduced to the number of two hundred, and the number of officers in each of said grades shall continue to conform to said reduced numbers.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That the number of military storekeepers in the quartermaster's department shall not exceed one hundred, and the number of clerks, not exceeding sixteen, who shall have the rank, pay, and emoluments of captains of infantry.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That the provisions of the act for the better organization of the quartermaster's department, approved July fourth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, shall continue in force until the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, and no longer.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That the subsistence department of the army shall hereafter consist of the number of officers now authorized by law, namely: one subsistence general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a brigadier general; two assistant commissaries general of subsistence, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; two assistant commissaries general of subsistence, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of lieutenant colonels of cavalry; and sixteen commissaries of subsistence, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry; and sixteen commissaries of subsistence, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of captains of cavalry.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the medical department of the army shall consist of one surgeon general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of a brigadier general; one assistant surgeon general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of colonels of cavalry; one chief medical purveyor, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of assistant commissary general of subsistence; one medical purveyor, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of lieutenant colonels of cavalry; and one assistant medical purveyor, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry; and the number of assistant surgeons shall be regulated by the requirements of the service, and the same shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, from such persons as shall be found, upon medical examination, to be qualified for the service, and shall be entitled to the pay and emoluments of assistant surgeons, as now provided by law.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That the ordnance department of the army shall consist of the same number of officers and enlisted men as now authorized by law, and the officers shall be of the following grades, viz: One brigadier general, three colonels, four lieutenant colonels, ten majors, twenty captains, sixteen first lieutenants, and ten second lieutenants, with the same pay and emoluments as now provided by law; and thirteen ordnance storekeepers, from a number exceeding six who may be appointed and authorized to act as paymasters at armories and arsenals. The ordnance store keeper and storekeeper at the United States armory at Springfield shall have the rank, pay, and emoluments of a major of cavalry, and all other ordnance storekeepers shall have the rank, pay, and emoluments of captains of cavalry, and two-thirds of the ordnance storekeepers and ordnance storekeepers to be appointed under this and the fourteenth section of this act, shall be selected from volunteer officers or soldiers who have performed meritorious service in the army of the United States during the late rebellion.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That there be one chief signal officer of the army, who shall have the rank, pay, and emoluments of a colonel of cavalry; and the Secretary of War shall have power to detail six officers and not to exceed one hundred enlisted men, to constitute the signal service, from the battalion of engineers, for the performance of signal duty; not to officer or enlisted man shall be so detailed who is not able to read, write, and telegraph. Such details shall be made by the Secretary of War for that purpose; and enlisted men shall be detailed only from such as may volunteer for the service. In case of failure to obtain volunteers, the necessary number may be detailed from the line of the army. The duties of the signal service shall be to take charge of all military signal stations established for the benefit of the army, and of all signal duties connected therewith, and to report weather probabilities, and to perform such other duties as may be assigned to it by the Secretary of War or by the chief signal officer. The chief signal officer shall annually report to the Secretary of War the operations of the signal service, and the Secretary of War may cause such portions of the report as he may deem proper to be published for the information of the army.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That the Provost Marshal General's office and bureau shall be continued only so long as the President of the United States shall deem necessary, not exceeding thirty days after the passage of this act.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, That all officers who have served during the rebellion as volunteers in the armies of the United States, and who have been or may hereafter be honorably discharged from the volunteer service, shall be entitled to bear the official title, and upon occasions of ceremony to wear the uniform of the highest grade that may be held by brevet or other commissions in the volunteer service. In case of failure of officers of the regular army, the volunteer rank shall be entered upon the Official Army Register: Provided, That these privileges shall not entitle any officer to command, pay, or emoluments.

SEC. 25. And be it further enacted, That the third section of the act entitled "An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending the thirtieth of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-six," shall continue in force for one year from the passage of this act: Provided, That no officer who is now or may hereafter be employed in the military service shall be entitled to receive the increased commutation of rations hereby authorized.

SEC. 26. And be it further enacted, That section three of the act approved February twenty, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, authorizing the appointment of a solicitor of the War Department, be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

SEC. 27. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized to have prepared, and to report to Congress at its next session, a code of regulations for the government of the army and of the militia in actual service, which shall embrace all necessary orders and forms of a general character for the performance of all duties incumbent on officers and men in the service, and for the government of courts-martial; and that the existing regulations to remain in force until Congress shall have acted on said report.

SEC. 28. And be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Approved July 28, 1866.

AN ACT to revive and extend the provisions of "An act granting the right of way and making a grant of land to the States of Arkansas and Missouri, to aid to the construction of a railroad from a point upon the Mississippi opposite the mouth of the Ohio river, via Little Rock, to the Texas boundary, via Little Rock, to the Texas boundary, near Fulton, in Arkansas, with branches to Fort Smith and the Mississippi river," approved February nine, eighteen hundred and fifty-three, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the "act granting the right of way and making a grant of land to the States of Arkansas and Missouri, to aid in the construction of a railroad from a point upon the Mississippi opposite the mouth of the Ohio river, via Little Rock, to the Texas boundary, via Little Rock, to the Texas boundary, near Fulton, in Arkansas, with branches to Fort Smith and the Mississippi river," approved February nine, eighteen hundred and fifty-three, be, and the same is hereby, revived and extended for the term of ten years from the passage of this act; and the Territories of Nebraska and Kansas, and the State of Kansas, are hereby entitled to the benefits of the same as fully as if they were named in the original act; and the persons and corporations authorized by the said act to construct the railroads therein named, and their successors and assigns, are hereby authorized, in the construction of said railroads, to use any of the public lands of the United States not reserved, sold, occupied, or otherwise appropriated at the time the line of said railroads is definitely fixed, and the grants hereby made become operative as to said lands, to the extent of the right of way and the amount of land granted by said act, and to the same extent as if said lands had been specifically named therein; and the said railroads, when completed, shall form parts of the railroads contemplated by said act.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the provisions of the act entitled "An act granting the right of way to railroads," approved March third, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, be, and the same are hereby, extended to the railroads authorized by this act.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the railroads authorized by this act shall be commenced within two years from the passage of this act, and completed within ten years from the passage of this act; and if the railroads authorized by this act are not completed within the time limited, the lands unsold and undisposed of which may have been granted to said railroads, and to which the right of way may have attached, shall revert to the United States.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all lands hereby reserved from entry, pre-emption, or appropriation to any other purpose than herein contemplated, shall for the period of three years after the passage of this act: Provided, That all lands heretofore given to the State of Missouri for the construction of a railroad from Cape Girardeau to the line of said road, lying in the State of Missouri, and all lands proposed to be granted by the act for the use of said road, lying in the State of Missouri, and lying in said State of Missouri, shall be granted and patented to the said State whenever the road shall be completed through said State, which lands may be held by said State and used toward paying the State the amount of bonds heretofore issued by it to aid said company, and all interest accrued or to accrue thereon: Provided further, That the provisions of this act, so far as the same relate to the Memphis and Little Rock and the Little Rock and Fort Smith branches of said road, shall not take effect until the Secretary of the Interior shall make and file a certificate in his office and the office of the Secretary of State of Arkansas, stating that the companies or corporations claiming the benefit of this act in behalf of said branches have reorganized in accordance with the laws of the State and after such reorganization, that they have respectively rescinded all acts, resolutions, or other proceedings, transferring said roads, branches, or privileges, to such corporations or companies, to any convention, State, or authority, recognizing or acting in concert with, or under the authority of, the late so-called Confederate States of America.

Approved July 28, 1866.

AN ACT to authorize the use of the metric system of weights and measures.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act it shall be lawful throughout the United States of America to employ the weights and measures of the metric system; and no contract or dealing, or pleading in any court, shall be deemed illegal or void by reason of the weights or measures expressed or referred to therein are weights or measures of the metric system.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the tables in the schedule hereto annexed shall be recognized in the construction of contracts, and in all legal proceedings, as establishing the forms of the weights and measures now in use in the United States, the equivalents of the weights and measures expressed therein in terms of the decimal system; and said tables may be lawfully used for computing, determining, and expressing in customary weights and measures the weights and measures of the metric system.
