Examination For Rhodes Scholarship.

President Thos. D. Boyd, of the Louisiana State University, who is Chairman of the Committee of Selection of Rhodes Scholars for the State of Louisiana, announces that the examination of candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship at the University of Oxford from Louisiana, will be held on Tuesday, October 5, and Wednesday, October 6 1915, in the Gibson Hall of the Tulane University in New Orleans. The dates, but not the place, of this examination were announced some time ago.

As this Scholarship offers an excellent opportunity for some Louisiana student to continue his education at one of the oldest and best institutions of learning in the world, it is hoped that a number of candidates will take this examination.

A memorandum giving full particulars concerning the Rhodes Scholarships may be obtained from the Chairman of the Committee of Selection.

Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bad bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

Consolidation Of Rural Schools.

The rapid progress being made in the consolidation of rural schools in Louisiana is shown in a very graphic manner by the following figures furnished by State Superintendent of Public Education, T. H. Harris: Since July 1, 1914, when the first funds for the consolidation of schools became available, 240 rural schools have been abandoned and the pupils are now attending 81 consolidated schools, in modern and up-to-date buildings. These 81 school buildings contain 288 class rooms and the attendance is 12,000.

When Baby Has the Croup.

When a mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

Grand Jury Report.

To the Honorable, William Pierpont Edwards, Judge presiding, for the 17th Judicial District Court in and for the Parish of Vermilion State of Louisiana.

We, the Grand Jury, duly empaneled, sworn and charged, to inquire within and for the body of the Parish of Vermilion, beg leave respectfully to report, as follows:

Our session has been unusually long, being the result of a heavy docket of Criminal Matters coming before us in a regular manner, others of which have been inquired into of our own initiative. We have diligently inquired into and gave our painstaking consideration to some One Hundred Fifty cases or more, and feel in our labors performed a conscientious execution of our duties, to the best of our knowledge and ability.

We have examined into the condition of the Parish Jail and find that the same is in a sanitary condition and that the Prisoners are well fed, but desire to impress upon the proper governing authority the absolute importance of making the Jail safe from escape by prisoners; we also recommend that in view of the approaching winter months, that the broken window panes in the Jail be replaced.

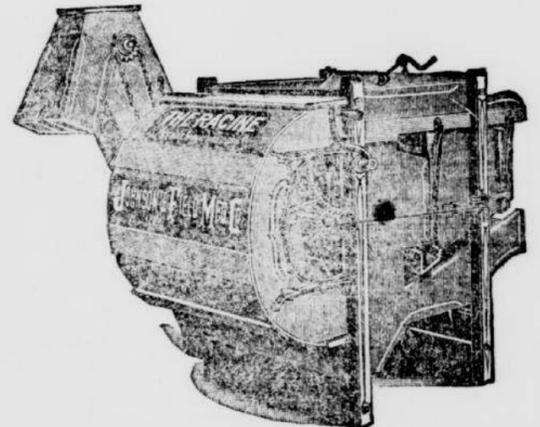

In keeping with the previous recommendations of past Grand Juries, we also urge that proper regulations be enacted, looking toward the peaceable maintenance of the Public Dance Hall, as the Public Ball room imposes upon Grand Juries, a major part of their investigations.

We find that in great many instances minors become embroiled in difficulties at Dance Halls and elsewhere, have done so as a result of being intoxicated, but we have been unable by rigid investigation to ascertain from whom these minors obtained intoxicants, and we urge upon the law authorities a continuation of these inquiries, in order that this class of offenders who deliberately sell or give intoxicants to minors may be apprehended and dealt with according to law.

We have also examined into the condition of the Public Highways and find that same are in fairly good condition, and we wish to applaud those in authority for the excellent good work done in the immediate past, and earnestly urge upon the citizen of the Parish a good road sentiment, that will give us better roads than we now have.

We wish to extend our thanks

Explanation Of Corn Score-Card

(Continue from last week.)

8. Kernel shape. All kernels of corn should be wedge shape, with square edges, so as to have no lost space on the cob. Those from flint varieties will be more or less rounded on the top.

9. Color on grain and cob. An ear having a cob whose color does not conform to the variety color is not desirable and a half point is deducted for each one off color. An ear having three grains off color is scored one-fourth of a point short, and when six or more colored grains are present to the ear a full cut of one-half point is made. White corn should have a white cob, and yellow corn a red one.

10. Space between rows. The rows should have very little space between them. For dented varieties all ears having spaces or furrows of more than one-sixteenth of an inch between rows should be graded off their full value of five points. Greater width is allowed for flint type because of the rounded top of kernel.

11. Space between kernels at cob. All kernels should be close together in the rows, as any vacancy here means lost space, thereby lowering the percentage of corn to the ear. Scoring on this point should be severe.

12. Vitality or seed condition. Any evidence of moldiness, or condition that would reduce the market price, or would impair the germinative qualities, is scored severely.

13. Trueness to type. The corn must conform to the variety type.

14. Proportion of shelled corn to ear. The percentage of grain is determined by dividing the weight of the shelled corn by the weight of the ear.
