COUNTY WINS ON APPEAL.

Court of Appeals Reverses Judgment in Suit Brought by Mr. Thomas E. Collison.

In an opinion handed down by Judge Conable, the Court of Appeals reversed the judgment of the Anne Arundel Circuit Court in the case wherein Mr. Thomas E. Collison obtained a verdict of damages against the county by reason of a collision on a county road several months ago.

Mr. Collison brought suit against the county as the result of a collision between a team which he was driving with another team, which he alleged was caused by negligence on the part of the county in permitting a quantity of brush, such as old trees, to be chopped down, to remain in the roadway. The Circuit Court gave a verdict of $100 in favor of Mr. Collison, but the Court of Appeals reversed this action, holding that the fact that the brush which was permitted to remain in the narrow driveway did not really contribute to the collision, and the county could not be held amenable for damages in the premises.

In reversing the judgment, the Court of Appeals places the costs of the case on the appellant, the county.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE CAUSE NOBLY ESPONSED

Women Speakers From North and West Talk at McDowell Hall

BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE.

God Created Male and Female and Gave "Them" Dominion Over His Creatures—Arguments Advanced at Last Night's Meeting.

McDowell Hall was filled last night with a large, representative and fashionable audience, the occasion being the presence of visiting women suffragists who were scheduled to make speeches.

Every seat was occupied and many were compelled to stand in the rear.
On the roster were Mrs. Robert Moss, president of the Anne Arundel Just Government League; Mrs. Gordon Claude, wife of former Mayor Claude, and Mrs. Theodore W. Johnson, wife of Professor Johnson, of the Naval Academy, besides the visiting speakers, Mrs. Spencer Murray, of Connecticut, and Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, of Illinois.

Mrs. Moss, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Mrs.
Spencer Murray, a niece of Mrs. John Schouler, wife of Admiral Schouler, was the first speaker. Mrs. Murray at once won her hearers by her charming personality and her earnestness in presenting the cause. She told of the conditions in New England where there was no equal guardianship law in the State of Massachusetts until a horrible awakening. No mother in that State, as in Maryland is recognized guardian of her children, only the father. Mrs. Murray illustrated by telling the story of a woman with a bad husband who was separated from her children and he, the father, was given their guardianship. The Massachusetts law, not being able to reach the case, the mother realizing the depraved influences under which her children were being raised, became desperate and killed her children and herself.

Massachusetts then awoke to the enormity of such a law and revoked it, giving a woman the right of equal guardianship. Mrs. Murray spoke of the difficulties in the way of granting women equal suffrage. Similar difficulties, she said, had existed in the way of woman's education. Years ago there was fearful opposition to women receiving a college education, but this was overcome, as the opposition to suffrage will be sure to be sooner or later. One of the most pertinent points of Mrs. Murray's address was "Why Mrs. Pankhurst got into this country?" It was not the men's influence, she said, but the political weight of 40,000 women's votes which made it possible for Mrs.
Pankhurst to enter the United States.

Mrs. Moss followed Mrs. Murray with a happy little speech. She said it was her privilege to distribute suffrage literature at the polls at the last election. While doing this a policeman asked her why women wanted the vote and what they would do if they had it? She said her reply was: You men would probably do better if you had to account to the women for your governmental acts.
Mrs. Moss introduced Mrs. Trout, the State President of the Illinois Woman's Suffrage League.

Mrs. Trout is one of the most persuasive speakers ever heard here.
Her argument is forceful and convincing, and she is never at loss for a word. She said Woman's Suffrage is neither a woman's problem nor a man's problem, but a HUMAN problem. What benefits the wife, sister or daughter, benefits the man. "Useless each without the other." This fight of women for the vote is not a new cry but the echo of an old cry.
Every great question passes through three stages; first probation, next "want to know," third, when cause has triumphed. Men are opposed to Woman's Suffrage because they don't know what it stands for. Men of logical minds like Gladstone, who said "I'm wiser today than I was yesterday," will reason for the justice and right of the cause.

The masses of the people never ask for anything. It is individuals.
It was Bell who made the telephone possible; people did not clamor for the telephone, nor for electric lights, and it is only a question of time when all of us will be flying. Necessity gives us what we need through the intellectuality of a faithful few.
When Woman's Suffrage is worldwide, people will rub their eyes and wonder how they ever did without it.
Nearly every argument advanced now against women voting was at one time advanced against men's suffrage.
The farmers had not time to take from their farm work to vote, or other men from their business. Just so now they say women will neglect their families. Neglected families, the speaker said, are entirely separated from equal suffrage. Macaulay said no man should be free until they have demonstrated their fitness.
Never go into the water until you have learned to swim, is a rather difficult thing. The old argument advanced is "a woman's place is in the home." There is nothing a woman loves so much as her home, unless it is the man in that home. Then why in the name of common justice is she not given the right to protect that home?

Indirect influence is as bad for the nation as it is for the home, which is the nation in miniature. Bad women don't want to vote. They would not register because they go under assumed names and they constitute only a fraction of 1 per cent of the women, anyway. There is nothing to prevent the women from staying at home. Only 7,000,000 men failed to vote at the last presidential election. Refuting the argument against of harmony among women, Mrs. Murray referred to the altogether "Inharmonious National Convention which elected the president in Baltimore.
Again, she said, it is claimed women will grow coarse if given the vote.
Do we grow coarse riding side by side with men in the street car, or automobiles? We constantly associate with men, and rather like it, but fail to see it makes us coarse.
Equal suffrage is no longer a trial, but a success in the states and countries where it has been established.
Where are our boasted Liberty and Democracy or a government by the people, for the people? Who are The People? Women have to ameli-orate human want and war. Back of all disease and suffering is a cause —back of all cause is sin—the double standard of morals. No legislation can save the world, said the speaker until men and women stand shoulder to shoulder with the same political privileges and with the same moral code. Christ established a single code of morals when he said to the Magdalene "Let him who is without sin among you cast at her the first stone." The child is equally related to the father as to the mother. We have queer laws and queer conditions. She spoke of the white slave traffic, and said in Illinois a girl of sixteen can be stolen and sold and the punishment is imprisonment for one year, but a horse worth only $15, if stolen and the punishment is twenty years' imprisonment.

A married man represents usually five votes; his wife, probably two daughters, his widowed mother and himself, but his vote is wiped out by that of one unmarried man. Quoting the Bible, Mrs. Trout said: "God created man, male and female, in His own image created He them, and He gave THEM dominion over all the earth. Not the man, nor the woman, but both. Some day men and women will have equal rights, equal privileges and march side by side to their destiny."

ANNAPOLIS TO HAVE ONE.

A Community Christmas Tree and Real Christmas Spirit.

Nothing can be accomplished without money, be it even so little. It is now realized that it is impossible to carry through successfully the Community Christmas Tree without some little expense—say $75, or more, although it was hoped to have it entirely FREE and everything given.

For instance, several trees have been offered free, but these are found to be too small for the purpose.
Annapolis wants a Community Chris-mas Tree that will tower above all other trees nearby, and when lighted at the Market Square near the City Dock, may be seen far out into the harbor.

A Christmas tree 40 feet tall can be secured and brought to town for the sum of $10. This little expense and other expenses must be entitled to carry the plan out successfully.
Some have contributed—will you?
Send your name and amount to the Mayor or to The Capital office. The following contributions are acknowledged:

THE POSTOFFICE IN OUR TOWN.

And Lots of Rumors Flyin' Around.

There's a lot of rumors flyin' round Regarding the postoffice in our town.
There's goin' to be a big surprise; There'll be some disappointed guys.
Whoever is given the job, I hope Will be some strong on the reform dope.

For instance, we're very much afraid There's a lot of changes that must be made.
The sendin' of letters is some expense By gravity, it costs us now two cents.
The postmaster charges too gosh blamed much.

One cent is enough for letters and such.
And we're gol dum sick of the color red—Blue postage stamps he should sell, instead.

And the stickum, it tastes like old bone glue;
He should have vanilla for me and you.

Another thing makes us tearin' mad—He makes us pay when the goods is had.
He won't give credit, gol ding his lamps.

On his postal cards and his postage stamps.
You'd think the country was goin' to smash.

The way he makes us ante the cash.
We hope these things will straighten aroun'.

When we have a new postmaster in our town.
