The Election—its Results.

Taking into consideration all the circumstances, the late election in this State has resulted far more favorable to democracy than we had reason to expect.

But no part of the State has been carried on with such determined effort and desperation on the part of our enemies as in the Fourth Congressional District.

short sighted! Was ever partisanship more dangerous? But in vain did the patriot stammer of the sowing a patriot press, and a patriot people cry out against it.

While such heavy judgment is for the captives who have only worked delay, it is but bare justice to give credit where it is due.

From Washington.

The Herald writer of Sept. 8 says—"The jubilee and celebration, last night, of the passage of the adjustment measures by congress, were glorious. A salute of a hundred guns was fired, rockets blazed aloft, the bells rang joyously; the people with a band of music repaired to the quarters of Messrs Cas Dickson, Douglas, Foote, Houston, and Webster, and shouted and cheered and called forth speeches from each of those statesmen.

FRANCE. Upon the return of the president to Paris, on the evening of Aug. 28, as he passed along the Boulevard de la Madeleine, where a crowd had assembled, there was a loud cheer of "Vive Napoleon! Vive la Republique!"

ITALY.—The Osservatore Romano of the 14th inst., records the arrest of the archbishop of Turin. The intelligence caused the greatest excitement at Rome.

Jenny Lind's First Concert. The first concert of Jenny Lind, which has been for some time a matter of enthusiastic anticipation, took place last night, and it is quite safe to say, that all that has been hoped or expected from it, is fully realized.

Sam Patch beat by a Cow. A cow belonging to Mr. Davis, who lives near Portage Middle Falls, made her first long run for days since.

On the 15th August, Joseph H. Wood's residence in Washington, Texas, was struck by lightning, which melted the beams on some government mules in his yard, and spore of 60 kegs of powder standing close by.

Accident on the Western Railroad. Another of those fatal railway calamities by which the public are from time to time stricken from their apathy, occurred on the Western road about two miles west of the Washington summit.

Jenny Lind. By the morning papers, it appears that 1400 tickets were sold, for her first concert, at an average price of $6.38—the proceeds of the whole sale amounting to $9,119.50.
