The Elections.

The municipal election in Ellsworth Monday resulted in the return of the republicans to full control of city affairs. A much more satisfactory administration than that of the municipal year just ended should result. This will be a republican year. There will be no division of responsibility. The republicans must accept the full responsibility of giving to the city a good administration. We believe they will do it.

The municipal elections throughout the State offer inspiration for republicans, warning for democrats, and food for thought for the handful of progressives still remaining.

Elections were held in ten Maine cities. Seven of them elected republican mayors and three democratic mayors. Waterville, the stronghold of Maine democracy, has elected a republican mayor and city government, for the first time in years. In Auburn, controlled by the progressives for three years, a republican mayor and city government were elected, the democrats running second and the progressives third.

Lewiston democrats won out by a greatly reduced majority. A grain of comfort comes to the democrats in the recapture of Rockland from the republicans by a small majority.

The resolve for a special State appropriation for the Bangor-Ellsworth road has been killed in the legislature. It now seems to be up to the people of eastern Hancock and Washington county to prevail upon the State highway commissioners to return to the original plan of making this the State highway.

COUNTY GOSSIP.

An unusually early harbinger of spring was sent our West Franklin correspondent this week by Mrs. Maud Goodwin, in the shape of a full-blown apple blossom.

The town of Eden has adopted the plan of having a board of seven selectmen, and at its annual meeting Monday elected such a board, two members of which are summer residents of Bar Harbor.

Augusta Letter.

AUGUSTA, ME., Feb. 26, 1915.

To the Editor of The American: This has been the most strenuous week for the committees for the session so far. The hearing on the repeal of the general lobster law occupied the attention of the committee for two afternoons and evenings. This bill provided that it should become lawful to take and sell lobsters down to nine inches instead of ten and one-half inches, as at present. It also provided for a smaller entrance ring, so that lobsters over thirteen inches in length could not be taken.

This bill represents the attitude of the dealers, as but a handful of fishermen appeared for it. In opposition to the bill appeared over 100 practical lobster fishermen, who made a favorable impression with their arguments against the measure.

While the fishermen were thronging the state house, a deputaton not as large but perhaps more distinguished was endeavoring to appeal to the members as to the pros and cons of the Mt. Desert automobile bills. One of these asks for the opening of the road from Southwest Harbor through Somerville; the other looks to the opening of the entire town. Both sides were well represented, and there is heard a division of opinion which looks like anybody's chance to win.

Double-headed tactics were adopted by the democrats relative to the governor's veto. The first lot of vetoes he instructed the party to pass over his veto, but the next lot he instructed them to sustain.

A rather embarrassing situation occurred Friday, when Senator Cole was violently criticizing the governor's attitude. In the midst of it the governor appeared among the spectators and was obliged to listen to remarks by no means laudatory to his excellency. With his usual good judgment, President Hersey invited the governor to a seat with him, whereupon the senator ceased speaking. Seeing that the work of the Senate was being held up, the governor withdrew, and the senator proceeded with his remarks.

Most of the democratic members are hearing from home in regard to their attitude in supporting the governor's veto on the roads and bridges. Nearly, if not all, have resolved for their own district, and it is safe to say that when some of these return from their homes on Monday there will be something doing.

Dr. E. J. Morrison, of Bar Harbor, was host at a banquet given to the visitors from Hancock county at the Augusta house Tuesday evening.

March 26 is fixed on by most of the legislators as the probable date of adjournment.

STATE SOLONS

Legislative News of Interest to Hancock County Readers.

Majority and minority reports were presented in the Senate last Thursday on Senator Chatto's bill to provide for a new State prison, eight members of the committee reporting in favor of the bill and two against.

The hearing on the resolve appropriating $5,000 to purchase and maintain the Trenton toll bridge as a free bridge was held Thursday. The opinion prevails that the resolve has little chance of passage.

A bill to clothe medical examiners with much of the duties now devolving upon coroners has been introduced in the legislature. The bill provides for two medical examiners in Hancock county.

The resolve carrying an appropriation for the repair of the highway from Bangor to Ellsworth has been reported adversely by committee, while the resolve in favor of the Franklin-Cherryfield road has been favorably reported.

COUNTY SALARIES.

Salary reductions recommended by the special legislative committee of two years ago, and reported favorably by this year's committee on salaries and fees, occupied a large part of the time of the Senate last Friday. The salaries of several Hancock county officers were under fire.

Senators Scammon and Chatto, who opposed the reductions recommended, stated clearly the peculiar conditions existing in Hancock county, and why the present salaries were not considered excessive. As the result of the debate, amendments fixing the salaries of county commissioners and judge of probate of Hancock county at the present figures were adopted, and the matter of salary of clerk of courts, to which a similar amendment was offered and later withdrawn, was tabled.

In the Senate yesterday an amendment was adopted fixing this salary at $1,900 instead of $1,600, as recommended by the special committee, and providing for the payment of clerk entirely by the county.

The Senate also adopted amendments fixing the salary of register of deeds of Hancock county at the old figures, allowing the register's fees for abstracts and copies, as at present.

Wumgush.

In the American Magazine Gelett Burgess, the well-known humorist, contributes additions to his new-fangled dictionary called "Burgess Unabridged". Following is his definition of what he calls "Wumgush":

"WUMGUSH, n. 1. An insincere affectation of cordiality; hypocritical compliments. 2. Women's flattery of women; pretended friendship. 3. A feminine fib.

"Do women criticize each other to their faces? Do they find fault with their chocolates, their looks, their clothes, their jests? No, not until the front door is closed; till then, they slobber wumgush. 'And yet, if one man offers another a cigarette, the tobacco may be called 'rotten' without peril or anger.

"Men have small use for wumgush; their compliments are profane ridicule and simulated enmity.

"A man calls his best friend a 'damned fool'; a woman calls her worst enemy, 'My dear'.

"How women must fear each other! They smooth their rival's hair lovingly, they readjust her jabot and pat her hands lingeringly.

"'How well you're looking, my dear!'

"And yards and yards of wumgush.

"Oh, I've had such a wonderful time! How charming of you to have asked me. Now, you must come to see us.'—Wumgush.

"Wumgush is the frothy foam of society chatter.

"Wumgush is the sunshine through which fly the wasps of sarcasm.

"The wumgush Clara spills on Lou, When'er they meet, and kiss, Would seem to prove a friendship kiss, But it amounts to this—

"Your waist is soiled; and, oh, that hat! Trimmed it yourself, I know! You never ought to grin like that, It makes your crown's feet show!"

Flag's Advice to Automobileists. In the American Magazine, James Montgomery Flagg, the famous wit and artist, does a piece in words and pictures entitled "The New Automobile Guide". Following is an extract from his advice to automobileists:

"If you drive the car yourself, don't examine the driver's seat before you seat yourself. Then you won't be annoyed by the fact that it is covered with grease. If you find the seat lumpy in spots and something very hard presses into you, don't say anything to the chauffeur about it. He knows all about it. It's a roll of overalls, a stack of newspapers, four pounds of cotton waste, a pair of shoes, an old hand pump you don't use any more, and a box of inner tubes.

"Don't imagine that when you ask your chauffeur why he didn't fill the tank he won't have an answer. His answer will be in this case: 'I didn't want to weigh down my car with too much gas!' You see, after all, he was thinking of your interests. But did you get the 'My car?' Otherwise the answer is a dandy. Very high average.

"In running through small towns pay no attention to traffic rules. It is quite absurd for a small town to put on such airs, anyway. Run over the cop's toes if he gives you any sass. Always give her the gas when passing a trolley car that is discharging passengers. If you tumble a few of these rubes over and maim a child or so, turn around, look back at them and laugh. This will show them that you come from a large city.

"And the main idea in motoring is to show somebody."

Pronunciation.

Dr. Johnson would not have consented to pronounce "wind" differently in prose and in verse. He insisted upon making the "i" long always. The story goes that in order to crush somebody who preferred the short "i" in ordinary conversation Johnson, riming all three words with "tinned," remarked, "I cannot find it in my mind to call it wind, but—riming all three words with 'blind'—I can find it in my mind to call it wind." But his adversary got the better of him. Johnson himself always pronounced "gold" as "goold." "If I may be so bold," said the other, "I should like to be told why you call it goold."

The Rose Breasted Grosbeak.

When the intense heat has silenced almost every other songster the rose breasted grosbeak sings even at mid-day during the summer. It is so fond of the Colorado potato beetle that it has earned the name of potato bug bird. No less than a tenth of its total food consists of the beetle. It vigorously attacks cucumber beetles and many of the scale insects. It is also an active enemy of the Rocky mountain locust during that insect's ruinous invasions, and among the other pests it consumes are the spring and fall cankerworms, caterpillars, tussock, gypsy and brown tail moths, plum curculio, army worm and chinch bug.

Tibet's Gold Superstition.

Native gold miners in Tibet leave nuggets intact or replace them if disturbed. In the belief that they are the parents of spangles and dust, which would disappear were the nuggets removed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
