COUNTY NEWS.

SOUTHWEST HARBOR.

Thursday evening at Masonic hall the second part of the school entersainment was given with marked success. Leon Wilson and wife are at home for a few weeks, glad to find the father, John Wilson, much improved in health. Mrs. Dyer came with Mrs. Wilson for a short

The community was shocked to learn on Monday, Feb. 21, of the sudden death of Mrs. Hannah Harper at the home of her niece, Mrs. Joseph Norwood where she had arrived the day before apparently in good health, for her usual yearly visit. Mrs. Harper was loved by all who were privileged to know her. Tuesday, after prayers at the Norwood home, the remains were taken to Center for funeral services.

Monday morning of last week, when two citizens from Northeast Harbor were making their way in a boat into Norwood's Cove through the shell ice, one, Reuben Lurvey, lost his balance and plunged overboard, overturning the boat, giving the other, Mr. Young, an icy bath. Their shouts for help were heard by Robie Norwood and Everett Tinker, who went to the rescue and averted a drowning accident.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

On Lincoln's birthday the winter saie of the aid society of the People's Methodist church was held in Masonic hall. Cooked food, candy, ice-cream and fancy articles were sold, and a parcel-post table was an attraction. "A Box of Monkeys," an amusing farce, had been scheduled for the evening, but owing to unforeseen difficulties, it was necessary to postpone the play until a later date. The committee, with the assistance of kind friends, presented a creditable entertainment of readings, vocal and instrumental music. To Miss Hodgkins, teacher of the grammar school, and to the band boys, the society is especially indebted.

Mrs. Gerald K. Stanley has been appointed superintendent of the Junior Epworth league. The next regular monthly meeting of the official board will be at Mrs. Stanley's, Mar. 19.

Through the kindness of some of the former parishioners of the pastor, quite a little money has been added to the treas

HANCOCK. OBITUARY.

The funeral service of Walter F. Abbott. whose death was briefly noted in THE AMERICAN last week, was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Abbott, last Thursday, and was largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. P. A. A. Killam, who, with Mrs. Killam, sang two selections. Beautiful flowers expressed the deep sympathy of many friends with the family that has en so suddenly and so sadly bereaved.

Mr. Abbott was a native of Hancock and was in the twenty-ninth year of his age. During his boyhood, the family lived in Worcester, Mass., and also in Caribou, and it was in those communities that he received his education. His being a railroad man, it was natural for him to take up that kind of work, and a few years ago he was the night agent at Ellsworth for the M. C. R. Then he became agent at Hillman, in Aroostook county, serving also as postmaster for that village. A short time ago he located at Grimes Mills, just out of Caribou, holding that position until the day of his death.

He was a young man of cordial greeting Ambitious in his nature, energetic and painstaking in his work, he stood at the threshold of a career that promised to be one of usefulness and prosperity. His early death brings deep sorrow not only to those related, but upon this whole o

A little more than two years ago he married Bernice M., daughter of Mr. and They lived happily together, and only re-cently moved into their own home. Be-sides the wife and the parents, he is sur-vived by a sister—Miss Nellie S. Abbott, matron at the Plummer Farm school in Salem, Mass. They have the heartfelt sympathy of all.

FRANKLIN.

Edward Bragdon is ill. Miss Mary Mayo is home from Lake

Mrs. A. B. Fernald is home from Wal-

Mrs. Mary Woodworth is rapidly gain-

Mrs. F. L. Swan is out after a severe attack of grip.

Prof. F. M. Morris and wife left for Old

Mrs. Thomas Bragdon spent a few days

Gerald Bunker and family, of Bangor, are visiting their old home here.

Owing to a freshet Eugene Bunker is at me from Aroostook county, where he has been employed.

Mrs. J. H. West, with Mrs. D. O. Campbell and daughter Virginia, of Sangerville, is expected home this week.

Russell Swan and Miss Ethel Hooper were married at the Methodist parson Saturday afternoon. Friends extend con

The three-act farce, "Tommy's Wife," will be given by the young people March

For Feverishness, Bad Stomach, Teething Disorders, move and regulate the Bowels and are a pleasant remedy for Worms. Used by Mothers for 28 years. They never fail. At all druggists, 25c. Sample PRESS. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeBoy, N. Y.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children in Use For Over 30 Years

9, at the Town hall. A delay in presentation was necessitated by illness and absence of some of those in the cast.

The F. H. S. basket-ball girls defeated the Orono high Wednesday night, score 11-2, and Thursday night were winners again in a game with Bangor Y. W. C. A., score 16-12. They were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Morris, and were pleasantly entertained in both places. The of a visit to the University of Maine was much appreciated. Returning Friday, they were the recipients of a surprise re ception at the home of L. C. Bragdon. Percy Hanscom afterward took the party to the moving pictures.

WEST FRANKLIN.

John O. Dyer is at work at the Nutting

Gladys Butler is visiting relatives in Miss Ella Jarvis is spending two weeks at her home in Surry.

Miss Helen Macomber was a re guest of Mrs. Wooster.

Norris Savage and wife are making week-end visit in Skowhegen.

Capt. O. W. Foss, of Hancock, was in town Sunday, the guest of S. S. Scammon. Lack of snow has caused an almost entire suspension of lumbering operations Marjorie Coombs has returned from La moine, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Maynard Hodgkins. Mrs. Edes, of Newport, N. H., returned home Tuesday. She was accompanied as far as Bangor by her mother, Mrs. H. G.

Twenty guests assembled at the home of Mrs. Eva Scammon Monday evening A pleasant evening was spent. Among those present was Mrs. Nellie J. Young. of Bangor, who is visiting Mrs. Scammon

The selectmen have been busy the past week on the town report, which is al ready to be issued. It is said that Collector Hastings will make a fine showing Much interest is manifested as to whether the town will take advantage of its opportunity to join with Ellsworth in a school superintending district. March 1. Есно.

NORTHEAST HARBOR.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to send the angel of death into our midst and bear the immortal spirit of our worthy brother, George Willis Jordan, into the celestial lodge above, eternal, in the

We realize that, in his death, Northeast Harbor lodge. F. and A. M., has lost a true and faithful member, the community an upright citizen and the family s

Resolved. That while we regret exceedingly his passing from among us and shall sadly miss his going in and out with us, we should bow in submission to the will of Him who does not willingly afflict, but doeth all things well.

sed, That we extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family in their sorrow Resolved, That to honor his memory our charter be draped with the insignia of mourning for the period of thirty days, that these resolutions be spread upon our records. that a copy be sent to the family of our derother, and that a copy be sent to THE ELLSWORTH AMERICAN for publication.

EVERETT W. OBER, JAMES H. FALT, L. E. Holmes, Committee.

CAPE ROSIER.

Mrs. Percy Clifford is ill of pneumonis Jarvis Green came home from Bangor Monday.

Henry Bakeman, of Belfast, visited bere last week. William Mayo and wife, of Castine, are visiting J. S. Blake. Arthur Lord, of South Brooksville, is visiting Albert Gray. Arthur Gray, of New York, is his father, A. V. Gray. Donald Prentiss, of New Haven, was here to inspect his cottage, being built at Weir Cove.

Flora, wife of Alvarado Gray, died Feb. 21, after a long illness. She was the daughter of Dorothy and Chelcias Gray, dgwick, and was greatly esteem by all. She leaves besides a husband two children-Irving, of Portland, and Mrs. Edith Harris, of Martha's Vineyard. Both children arrived Friday. Mr. Gray will move his family here from Portland in the spring. Feb. 27.

SALISBURY COVE.

Willard Fogg and wife have been visiting relatives in Otis Miss M. R. Rich pleasantly entertained the Ten-entertain-ten club Tuesday evening. Irving McFarland, who has been e ployed as bookkeeper in Portland, is Alston Leland and wife have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Lewis Elwell, in Essex, Mass.

Mrs. Lester McFarland entertained the ladies' aid society Friday afternoon, serv-ing dainty refreshments.

Miss Sue DeLaittre, who has been teach ing in Marlboro, is clerking in Leon 1.

Smith's during her spring vacation. Mrs. Stephen S. Bunker, who has be in Augusta where Mr. Bunker is employed in the State highway office, is home.

Feb. 27.

AMHERST.

Rev. Wilfred Harrison is visiting here. Miss Mildred Bussell, of Somerville, Mass., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. J.

The community is saddened; at the death of Lucian Sumner, on Feb. 23, after a long illness of Bright's disease. He is survived by a widow, four sisters and one brother— Mrs. Adelbert Woods, of Waterville; Mrs. Arthur Silsbyjand Mrs. John Clark, of Bangor, Mrs. A. N. Jewett and 000000000000000000

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY GIFT

It Was a Cartload of Roses.

By F. A. MITCHEL 000000000000000000

The map of that part of Europe in which began the great European war has been changing ever since it was a part of ancient Gaul. Centuries ago there was a kingdom composed largely of what is now Flanders. The capital was probably Ghent, though the time of my story is so remote that one cannot be sure about this. The country was then governed by a queen who had the same name as the present ruler of Holland-Wilhelmina.

One day a farmer living on the outskirts of the capital said to his son, a strapping young man just come of "Hans, I wish you to take into town a cartload of flowers. I learn that tomorrow is the queen's birthday, and there will be a great demand for the flowers on the part of courtiers to be stow upon her majesty. I hear she is both young and beautiful and that she will take a husband from one of her own subjects. Therefore many gallants will wish to bestow gifts upon her, and there is no gift that will so touch a woman's heart as flowers.'

Hans obeyed his father. Going out to the barn, he harnessed a mule to a cart and then drove it into the garden It was the wonth of June, and there were many room in bud and in bloom Hans loved the roses better than any other flower and put so many in the cart that there was no room for any other flowers. However, he knew that roses brought the best price, so he concluded to leave the load as it was Then going to his room he put on the clothes he usually wore to the city, a doublet of dark blue and hose to match. Then girding on his sword every one wore a sword in those days -he mounted his cart and drove the mule toward the capital.

Hans had no sooner reached the outskirts of the city than he met a young man in a very brilliant costume and with feathers in his hat and other marks of being a noble. Seeing the roses in the cart, his eyes lighted with pleasure.

"How much for your roses?" he ask ed Hans.

"They are not for sale at present," replied the countryman. "If they are wanted here they will bring a better price when I approach the palace, for this is the queen's birthday, and there will be many gallants wanting flowers for gifts to her majesty."

The man abused Hans for a country bumpkin, but Hans drove on, paying no attention to him. Hans was stopped many times by courtiers, some times men, sometimes women, and re-ceived many offers for his load, but he drove on, always saying. "If you are willing to give so much here what will I be offered when I reach the market place in the center of the city?" Finally he stopped his mule at the palace gates and was about to drive into the courtyard when he was stop ped by a sentry.

"I have a gift for her majesty Queen Wilhelmina," said Hans. "Let me

The chamberlain happened to be and, seeing a cartload of roses below bethought himself that there was a fine opportunity to buy flowers with which to decorate the throne room, in which his royal mistress would that day receive her birthday congratulations. Running down and out, he said to Hans:

"How much for your roses, my man?"

"They are not for sale.

"But you must sell them. I wish to buy them for the queen. I will give you a thousand florins for them." "I intend them for a birthday gift to her majesty."

The chamberlain looked at Hans as if he thought him daft.

"Come, come," he said coaxingly.
"Don't be a fool. The queen will not accept a gift from such as you. But she must have your roses. So many are not to be had elsewhere. Drive them into the courtyard, and I will

'I will drive them into the courtyard, but only as a gift for her majesty.' replied Hans.

"We will see about that," cried the chamberiain angrily, and, taking the mule by the bridle, he led him through the gateway into the court and stopped before a door of the palace. Then he went inside to summon servants to carry in the roses while he obtained the money to pay for them. He return ed, leading half a dozen lackeys with baskets, and he held in his hands a bag containing a thousand florins. He found Hans standing before his cart with folded arms.

"Get out of my way." said the cham berlain. "If you touch one of the flowers," said Hans, drawing his sword. "I will make a hole in you."

"Treason!" cried the chamberlain.

A dozen soldiers came running to the scene. The queen, hearing the words "Treason!" and "Guards!" and fearing a plot or a revolution, put her head out through an upper window and asked to know what was the matter.

"This countryman," said the chamberlain, "refuses to sell his roses, which your majesty's reception today."

"Perhaps you have not offered him enough for them," said the queen. "I have offered him a thousand floring." "That surely should be sufficient. Why will you not sell me your roses.

my good man?" cause I have brought them for a birthday gift for your majesty."
"A birthday gift!" exclaimed the queen, surprise

"I have told him," put in the cham berlain, "that your majesty would not accept a gift from such as he." The queen looked down on the scene for a few moments without speaking. "The fellow." she said to herself, "has some boon which he wishes in return for his gift." Aloud

"I will accept your roses. Is there anything I can do for you to show my appreciation for your offering?"

None, your majesty." The queen was taken aback at this, but since she had given her royal acceptance of the gift she could not take the lackeys carried in the roses, and Hans drove away, the courtiers and others who had collected laughing in their sleeves at him.

Hans drove back to the farm, where his father, seeing the cart empty, ask-ed him how much he had received for the roses.

"Nothing," Hans replied. "I present ed them to the queen for a birthday

Hans told his father what had oc curred. The old man was much plea until his son told him that when the queen asked him what she could do for im he had said "nothing." Then the father abused him for a fool. Hans replied that if showing one's loyalty to one's sovereign were being s fool then he was glad to be one.

Queen Wilhelmina waited a month before taking any further action in the matter of her gift of roses, then made in any request for a favor of any kind. When she was told that he had not she thought a great deal about Hans and what she should do in the matter. She considered it beneath the dignity of a queen to accept a gift from a subject, certainly not one of lowly origin. She sent for him, and when he appear ed she said to him:

"I have need for your services. am going to try you in the diplomatic There is a boundary dispute between me and King Carl, whose minions adjoin mine on the east. My prime minister will instruct you as to the matter, after which I wish you to proceed to King Carl and make as good a settlement as you can.

"But, your majesty," Hans stammer ed, "I am but a countryman, unskilled in"- 'Something tells me," the queen interrupted, "that what others have learned by study and experience you know intuitively. This is not a quest, but a command. Go and on your return report to me what you have done. My chamberlain will provide you with the necessary funds.

Hans after acquainting himself with the case he was to handle, dressed in proper apparel, went at the head of an embassy to King Carl, and, being closeted with him, the king steeled himself against the ambassador as he had against others. But Hans began at once to gain his confidence. He learned from the king on what he had set his heart and relinquished all claim to it. This enabled him to get what the een wanted. The result was that he made a very satisfactory agree ment. When he returned and reporte what he had done the queen was very much pleased. She created him a noble and placed him at the head of all ber diplomats. Hans, after acquainting himself with sent his father a thousand florins, the amount he had been offered for the es, and the old man, who had heard of his son's preferment, about which every one was talking, wondered how such a fool had been able to achieve such honors so far beyind his station. Hans grew continually in influence. Those were warlike times, and ambas-sadors had tried to gain their ends by threatening war, and if they did not try threats they resorted to chicanery. Hans' plan was always the one he had tried with King Carl. He sought to discover what was for the best interests of both parties and when he had done so to convince the sovereign with whom he dealt of the fact. In this way he achieved a reputation for statecraft which was really nothing but common sense and a liberality which in the end resulted in his sovereign's profit.

One day Queen Wilhelmina asked Hans what she could do for him beyond what she had done to repay him for the valuable services he had rendered her in preventing war.

"Permit me," replied Hans, "on your next birthday to send you a cartload of

When Queen Wilhelmina was sured that Hans would name no other favor she granted it. and on the anniversary of the day that he had made the first gift he made another, only this time the cart was driven by one of his servants. When Hans went to the palace to offer his congratulations. instead, as before, of being informed by the chamberlain that the queen would not accept a gift from such as he, that functionary announced to him that her majesty had decided that a proposition of marriage from him would be agree-queen's subjects who knew the story of Hans' birthday gift whether be made it simply as an act of homage to a sovereign or whether he aspired to her heart and hand. But no one except Hans knew that, and he never

START OF A FORTUNE

The Boy Who Began His Career by

Buying Soap at Auction. A boy eleven years old stood at an auction room door and gazed with interest at the crowd of men gathered round the auctioneer. His curiosity led him to enter the room. His attention was attracted to several boxes of toilet soap, the kind, he noticed, that his mother used at home. He had often been sent to the drug store to buy it for her. "Ah," he said to himself. "perhaps I can buy this soap cheap. I will sell it and make some money.

As fast as his feet would carry him he ran to the drug store where his mother traded and sought out the proprietor. "How much would you give me for a box of that soap such as my mother buys?" he asked. The druggist, ready to please the boy, named a certain price. When the youngster asked if he could use several boxes the druggist thought it was a good joke and replied that he could use all that the lad would sell him.

The boy hastened home. He emptied his little savings bank and ran back to the auction rooms with the money carefully wrapped in a handkerchief. The soap was still unsold, and the boy edged his way through the crowd to the platform. When the soap came under the auctioneer's hammer the boy's little piping voice made the first bid. The other buyers were so amused at his youth and his serious manner that they let him carry off his transac tion without a contest, and the boy got twenty-two boxes of tollet soap at a small fraction of their value. the auctioneer asked his name he answered, "Charles Yerkes."

The lad took the boxes of soap to his purchaser, the druggist, who, open eyed with surprise, inquired where he had got them. "I bought them at the auction," he said proudly.
"I could have done that myself," complained the druggist, but as he had nised to buy the soap he had to keep his word. That was the beginning of an unusual business career. In later years

England and America as a financier and a conductor of great business enterprises.-Youth's Companion. TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYERS.

Charles Yerkes became famous in both

Work They Are Supposed to Perform In Time of War. As the name implies, torpedo boat destroyers were originally built to combat the smaller torpedo boat, which had become such a serious menace to the battleships and the large cruisers that searchlights and rapid fire guns could not be depended upon for protection, says a writer in Scribner's Magazine. Gradually, however, the duties of the destroyer were extended until they included all that was formerly done by the torpedo boat and much besides The mere fact that a modern destroyer is three or four times as large as one of the earlier boats renders it so much more seaworthy and capable of carrying so much more fuel that the radius of action of torpedo boat craft has been enormously increased. and they have become more and more dangerous to an enemy's fleet The duties of a modern flotilla may e tabulated in this way: First.-Scouting. This comprises locating and reporting the position of the enemy and keeping in touch with him as long as may be necessary. Second.-Protection of one's own fleet from night attacks of the enemy's destroyers. This includes not only locating and reporting the position of the hostile torpedo craft, but, if necessary, attacking them with your guns and sinking or driving them away before they can force home an attack against hattleships Third.-Attacking the battleships of the enemy with your torpedoes. This is, of course, the paramount duty of every vessel in the flotilla. Fourth.-In addition to the above 'regular" duties, destroyers are frequently used in what might be called gunboat work"-patrolling the enemy's coast, running up his rivers where the big ships cannot go, overtaking and rapturing his merchant vessels and firing on troops and field batteries

Oratory.

Speaking of Wendell Phillips' re markable gifts as an orator, Horace Greeley paid him the highest compliment when he said that there wasn't a boy who heard Phillips speak but thought he could speak as well-he spoke so naturally. Of the great actor Garrick it is related that he did not please country people or others unused to the stage because he was so natural that he did not seem to be acting at all.

A fox cas scent a man half a mile way if the wind be blowing in the animal's direction. A mouse can smell cheese fifty feet away. A deer may be sound asleep, and yet he will catch the scent of a person passing 200 feet off. The rabbit depends more upon his ears than his nose

Mrs. Grogan (chatting with neighbor) I had this waist dry cleaned last week an' now it's as good as new. Little Johnny Grogan—Ma, kin they clean faces that way?-Puck.

Doesn't Like Water

dear: don't hurry me.-Judge.

All In Good Time. Mrs. Gnaggs-And just to think! You nsed to say you would die for mel Mr. Gnaggs—Well, don't hurry me. my KITTERY TO CARIBOU.

The nomination of William F. Curran as postmaster of Bangor was sent to the Senate by President Wilson Saturday.

Claude Bouchard, aged twenty-onears, was shot and killed Tuesday of last week by Perley Hawes, aged thirty-five, at the sporting camp of Mrs. Arthur Durgin, in Chase Stream township, Somerset county. Hawes then com-mitted suicide. Bouchard and Mrs. Dur-gin were soon to have been married. lealousy was the cause of the tragedy.

Jawrence C. Houghton was accidentally Malone, while they were engaged in rife practice in Deering high school. Both were members of the Deering high school for the public high school rifle champion-ship of the United States. Houghton, with another member of the team, was watching the target while Malone was practicing. In bringing his rifle into position, Malone accidentally discharged

WASHINGTON JUNCTION.

Miss Dorcas L. Wood, of West Goulds-boro, who has spent the past three months at Strawberry Inn, has returned to her home.

Ah! The Invigorating Whiff of the Pine Forest! How it clears the throat and head of its mucous aliments. It is this spirit of New-ness and Vigor from the health-giving Pincy Forests brought back by Dr. Bell's Pinc-Tar-Honey. Antiaeptic and healing. Buy a bot-tle to-day. All Druggists, 25c.

Amertisemente

Sick Children Made Well.

Every mother likes to see her children he picture of health and vitality. I find that the stomach is source of constant trouble to 4 some children and there is a constant need of some sale remedy. A disordered stomach, too, frequently breeds or pinworms.

You can absolutely depend upon Dr.
True's Elizir to expel worms and tone up the stomach, bowels and general health.
Dr. True's Elizir, the discovery of my father, has been on the market for over 60 years. That's proof of its efficiency. Get the time-tried Dr. True's Elizir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. Good for adults also. At your dealer's, 35c, 50c and $1.00. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book. or pinworms.

Dr. True A Wonderful Healing Influence in

Kid ev Trouble. A year and a half ago I was taken with a severe attack of Kidney trouble that pained me to such an extent that morphine had to be given me. Was attended by a doctor who pronounced it as Stone in the Bladder and prescribed Lithia Water. I took Lithia Water and Tablets for some time and received no relief from them. I stopped taking medicine for some time; later having some Swamp-Root in the later having some Swamp-Root in the stopped taking medicine for some time; later having some Swamp-Root in the house I decided to try it and felt much relieved. While taking the second bottle commenced to pass Gravel in urine until I had passed in all at least a half dozen or more and have not suffered the slightest since—and in all have taken one bottle and a half, and feel very grateful for Swamp-Root.

Yours very truly.

Yours very truly, H. W. SPINKS, Camp Hill, Ala. Personally appeared before me this 10th day of August, 1909, H. W. Spinks, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Ex. of Justice of Peace.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample size bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the ELLSWORTH WERLY AMERICAN. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Use MI-O-NA When

Stomach is Upset No matter how long you have suffered from a miserable, upset stemach, indigestion or dyspepsia, Mi-o na—a simple, inexpensive prescription easily had at any drug store—will quickly, safely and effectively end the distress, or it will not cost you a penny.

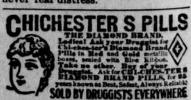

When your stomach is out of order some foods taste good but work badly, fermenting into a stubborn lump and surely causing sour or acid taste in the mouth, sewere pain in the pit of the stomach, gas, coated tongue, offensive breath, restless nights and nervousness.

It's needless for you to suffer, for just a few Mi-o-na tablets bring joyful relief — they do more, for these little "helps to health" soothe and strengthen the inflamed and weakened stomach walls and increase the flow of the digestive juices so that the of the digestive juices so that the stomach can care for the food as nature intended.

No matter what ails your stomach put your faith in Mi-o-na. Get some of these harmless but helpful tablets from G. A. Parcher to-day and eat whatever your appetite craves, and never fear distress.

Delicate Children
nally only need a food tonic to make m strong and healthy

exall Olive Oil Emulsion

E. G. Moore.

is not only the best food tonic but is pleasant to take. Sold only by us.