A JUNETIME PARABLE. With twining roses, red and white, I made, Where June was hot, a pleasant bower for shade.

A gracious place it seemed, by night or day, Where one might wake or sleep, give thanks or pray.

Open to fall the dew and rose the moon; These nightingales made glad the nights of June.

But as one eve I listened to their song I listened to my very heart being stung With sharp, swift pain: whereon I searched, And lo!

Little snakes with murderous eyes wound to and fro. Thereon I left my bower, nor may it be That it again in June shall shelter me.

But when its leaves have withered one by one, When nightingales have fled, and pales the sun: When in deep snows snakes may not breed or bower, I will go back, and 'neath the bare rose boughs Dream of the summer and the leaves that made, When June was hot, my pleasant place of shade. -Philip Marston in New York Independent.

A Dakota Artist. Among the struggling geniuses of the sunlit plains of far North Dakota is a little dark eyed Boston girl, whose landscape and scenic painting have won her rich encomia.

Emma R. Gary was born in Boston, Feb. 28, 1870, and received her education at Leavenworth, Kan., whither her people went with the westward tide.

An early inclination for painting led her to take special lessons in the art. A year ago she located at Grand Forks, N. D., where she has executed many oil paintings of real merit.

How to Arrange Photographs on a Wall. Don't nail them or paste them up. You will injure the wall and the photographs and will not be able to change the arrangement easily.

Get strips of what the painters call molding with a deep slot in it. An end view of it will look like this:

Nail these strips, as many as you need, on your wall and stand the photographs in the slot. Or, if you don't want the pictures in rows, cover that part of the wall which you want to use with a crisscross or lattice work of strong tape, thus:

Be careful to put a tack in firmly at each crossing of the tape. Different colored tapes may be used. Cover space enough to accommodate all your pictures and slip the corners under the tapes.

From the French. Poultry Dealer—How did you like the goose's liver had yesterday? Young Housekeeper—It was very nice indeed. I want another one, but from the same goose, remember.—Truth.

LUCKY VACATIONERS

Many Go Away for a Rest; More Stay at Home.

What is Often Even Better Than a Change of Air and Scene.

Something Needed to Invigorate the Tired Body and Mind.

Two friends, who had not seen each other for more than a month, met upon the street.

"How badly you look," exclaimed one as he gazed into the haggard face of his friend. "My dear fellow, you need a vacation."

"Vacation," cried the other, "why, I have just come back from a month's vacation."

Too many people who go upon a vacation with the expectation of securing health, come back fagged out, weary, and in a worse condition than when they left.

Change is not everything. Vacation may be pleasing, but it is often better, whether one goes away or stays at home, to take the nerves and brain, the sources from which life itself comes, with something that can restore the wasted energy, build up the vitality, and add greatly to the strength.

In the whole range of modern discoveries, which in the chemistry of medicine, the one made by Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college, known as Paine's celery compound, stands pre-eminent.

He has so compounded the powerful qualities of German celery seed with other valuable brain and nerve nourishers, as to make a remedy that has done and is doing what was never accomplished before, a remedy that makes people well.

There are men who, long ago, faced the possibility of having to dispose of their business and take a long rest in order to save their lives, who are now working contentedly and are kept in strength, vitality, and good spirits by this wonderful discovery.

There are women who are weak, dragged out, miserable, who are now fresh, rosy and happy, entirely as a result of using this great compound.

No one can afford to neglect an opportunity for increasing one's vitality, preserving one's health, and lengthening one's life.

This preparation has been found that will do this, as acknowledged by the most eminent physicians, and by those who have used it, always with highly satisfactory results.

PHILOSOPHY IN GRAND RAPIDS

A Sensible Suggestion for the Worn-Out, Run-Down and Dispirited.

"If you find yourself irritated and unhappy—and with fairly good reasons for being so," said a prominent local physician yesterday, "take hold of yourself by the collar, and set yourself down hard, and say to yourself:

"Well, what is it? Supposing this is so, how long will it last? Why should I allow life to be made wretched? No, I will not permit my life to be embittered, and chafed, and fretted."

"Or, if you are really worn out, run down, tired, dispirited, a prey to nervous exhaustion, do not rush straightaway and take some more pills, net, vine, wood tonic, or similar concoction to make matters worse.

Ask yourself candidly and sensibly whether it is not probable that a remedy exists which medical practitioners recognize as standard, and whose beneficial effect is evidenced by thousands of happy men and women whom it has permanently restored.

"It is certainly better to be led by the experience of the wise than by the experience of the ignorant. Physicians everywhere recognize the great discovery, Paine's celery compound, as the one sure means of remedying the waste of brain force and muscular power that results from the rush of modern business and social life.

It is a food for both. Those who have faithfully tried it will be as positive in their assertions of this fact.

"In August weather, sleeplessness, indigestion, or weakness, the result of the debilitating heat, is very common. The use of Paine's celery compound gives strength to the nervous system, and brings restful sleep, good digestion and buoyant spirits to the user."

MRS HARRISON'S FRIEND.

Mrs. Anna E. Lower's Good Advice to the President's Wife.

Men and women of high reputation frankly tell their friends in these hot, muggy, debilitating dog-days, to use that strength giving remedy, Paine's celery compound, the discovery of the eminent Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth.

The compound did so much for Mrs. Anna E. Lower of Minneapolis that she recommended it to her friend, Mrs. Harrison, the wife of the president.

Mrs. Lower says: "I take Paine's celery compound every summer, for otherwise I am generally weak and debilitated during the warm weather, and this medicine makes me stronger. In fact I do not feel like the same person while taking it."

Many well known people in Grand Rapids are always ready to speak in praise of this scientific preparation. They were worn, weak and weary, but are now strong and well, solely by the use of Paine's celery compound.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam of McKeesport, Penn., in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I used several bottles in Johnston, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it."

Physicians

frequently state: "We know that Fort Wine is the best tonic for the weak, nervous and debilitated, and for such troubles as exhaustion, weakness, sleeplessness, etc., there is no medicine to compare with it; yet we fear to prescribe it, for there are so many adulterations on the market."

There is a brand called "Royal Ruby" Port Wine, so called for its royal taste and ruby color, it is pure and old and has that fruity taste that no other wine has. Druggists sometimes urge that wine, but they have in bulk; why? More profit of course. It Ought to Be Popular.

Bakers as a class are not particularly progressive in a business way. There are exceptions, however, and one of the most notable of these is the United States Baking company. They never let slip an opportunity to please the public. Even the issues of the presidential campaign have received their attention, and the result is a "Grandfather's Hat" cake that has made its appearance within the last few days, and which no doubt will be found at all the leading grocery stores. It is said to be a delightful cake, and if the name goes for anything it ought to be immensely popular.
