BELDING MERCHANTS

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1915

The average man earns an average wage—has an average family, who, including himself, are average people—has an average balance in the bank. These average people make up by far the larger per cent of the residents in this community. All of them are seeking to steadily accumulate against the "rainy day." You belong to that class and because you belong to it you are vitally interested in the following specials which are being offered to you by the Belding merchants.

The merchants, whose advertisements appear on this page, are average people in our community life. They are interested in seeing you, as well as themselves, prosper. The only way that either the merchants or you individually will be permanently bettered is by co-operation. In the list below you will find twenty-seven distinct articles of merchandise of absolute quality which you can buy next Saturday at a figure that cannot be duplicated in any other city. This is an invitation to everyone to come to Belding on Saturday and supply all the wants of the household at a reasonably low price and at the same time join forces with the local merchants who use their money and energy in turn to help yourself and family and the whole community.

Watch this page of specials each week. The articles selling for special prices will be changed each week.
