

PHALLAS WAS BEATEN.

HARRY WILKES THE WINNER.

The Race at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, Yesterday—The Time Recorded Slow.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Seven thousand persons witnessed the race at Belmont Park this afternoon between the famous trotting horse Phallas and Harry Wilkes. The weather was warm, and the track in splendid condition, the advantage being in favor of Phallas as the favorite. When the horses appeared upon the track Phallas was heartily cheered by the crowd on the grand stand.

First heat—Some difficulty was experienced in getting the horses away. Harry Wilkes scoring easily. They finally got off in good order, Wilkes, who had the pole, slightly in the lead. Both horses flew around the track in fine style, Wilkes closing by following Phallas, and the three-quarter pole the contest became interesting, and the home stretch was entered with Phallas only half a length behind Wilkes. Up to this time neither horse had broken down.

Second heat—After scoring two of the horses got away in good shape, Wilkes slightly in the lead. He lost his feet, however, a short distance beyond the wire, and before striking the quarter pole the horse was thrown. Phallas was a beautiful and exciting one. It looked now as if Phallas would forge ahead, but when the distance post was reached, "The King" broke, and Wilkes came in winner by an open length. Time, 2:18.

Third heat—Both horses got off in fine style, Phallas taking the lead. Harry Wilkes broke before reaching the quarter pole, but soon recovered. Phallas, however, maintained the lead and won the heat easily, passing under the wire eight lengths ahead of Wilkes. Time 2:21.

Fourth heat—The horses got off with Phallas leading by a length or two, which he maintained until the half mile post was reached, when Wilkes began to creep up and at the three-quarter pole the horses were nearly even. Wilkes made a spurt and, shooting ahead, won the heat easily in fine style, passing the wire six lengths ahead of Phallas and winning the heat and the race easily. Time 2:18.

Summary—Special race purse $4,000, to be divided as follows: First, $1,000; second, $1,000; third, $1,000; fourth, $1,000. Time 2:16, 2:20, 2:21, 2:18.

It is thought that the action taken has broken the back-bone of the strike here, and many are the expressions of pleasure here.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

The Death of a Young Man on the Railroad Near Wayland.

WAYLAND, Aug. 13.—A young man, aged 20, by the name of Charles A. Thorne, formerly from Ashton, Osceola County, where his parents reside, was run over by the 9 o'clock passenger train, on Tuesday evening at Sprague crossing three-quarters of a mile south of this village. A few minutes before he was seen lying between the rails on the crossing by two small boys, who tried to arouse him but did not succeed. One of them then went and informed his father, who immediately arose and dressed to go to see to him, but being 30 rods away did not have time before the train came along. As the engine whistled twice and rang the bell, he supposed the man had got off and the train did not stop. The remains were so horribly mutilated as to be beyond recognition. By letters on his person his friends were found and notified. Through haying and harvest he had worked for Mr. Wiley in Martine, who paid him $25 on Monday. No money being found on his person leads some to suspect foul play, as his father and the people where he worked in Martine claim that he was a sober, industrious young man. It is announced that the Rev. Geo. Candee is to start a weekly prohibition newspaper at this place, the first issue to be on unlucky Friday, the 21st of August. Subscription price 25 cents a year; terms and size of the paper to be in keeping with the strength of the party it supports.

THE DETROIT CAPTURE.

BURNS NOT IDENTIFIED AS THE GENTLEMANNY BURGLAR. This morning the families of James D. Lee, Oren Scotten and W. E. Heames came to police headquarters and were given a chance to see "Billy" Burns, the supposed "gentlemanny burglar" arrested by a posse of policemen and detectives on Croghan street. The victims of the gentlemanly burglar were poised on one side of the assembly room in the central station, and Billy was shown to them in half a dozen different costumes.—First in the suit of clothes he wore on the day before being arrested; then wrapped in a red rubber coat that was found with his valise at Mrs. Cannon's house on Brewster street; then with a mask partially hiding his face, after the style of the Chesterfield robber; then with a rubber cap pulled over his eyes, and finally with two or three different coats belonging to him. "Billy" submitted to the gaze of the visitors without deigning to notice them, and never spoke a word. None of the 10 or 12 in the room who had seen the burglar were able to positively identify Billy, but they were almost unanimous that Billy and the burglar look very much alike.—Detroit News.

THE TELEGRAPH WAK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—In an interview to-day Dr. Norvin Green, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, says from his personal knowledge the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Company was organized with the object of selling out at a profit to the Western Union Company, but later the railway assumed the stock and the affair took the shape of honest competition. He says the first appearance toward a compromise was made by the Baltimore & Ohio through a lawyer who had done work for both companies. He would not deal with this party, considering the attempted negotiation as ineffectual and the terms too high. Later, Dr. Green alleges, there came a proposition for an interview through Mr. Peender, which also originated with the Baltimore & Ohio people.

SUPERVISORS DIFFER.

THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE SITE.

Two Out of Three City Supervisors Interviewed Think the County Should Have the Park.

A representative of THE TELEGRAM called upon Supervisor Schermerhorn, of the Seventh Ward, yesterday, and asked his opinion of the action of the Council in carrying the Fulton street Park case to the Supreme Court. He said: "I have read the decision of the Council and the opinion of City Attorney Hanson on the case, but I have not given it any special thought. I was at one time in favor of locating the Court House here, but I am not so much in favor of it now, although it may be located there, as a matter of economy, or we may choose a site elsewhere and let that one go. My present choice would be in the vicinity of the Government building and City Hall. I would not object to locating it where the old building now stands, as the lot now owned by the county is one hundred feet square and additional property to the north can be bought very reasonably. The county supervisors are in favor of the park, but very few of the city members are. We cannot do anything in the matter until we get the decision of the Supreme Court."

Supervisor Loomis, of the Second Ward, was next seen and expressed his opinion as follows: "If the decision of Judge Parrish, affirming the title of the county to the park, be sustained by the Supreme Court, then the citizens will be confronted with the question in about this shape—the title to the property is in the county, for the purposes of a Court House and for no other; the county is debared from selling it by virtue of a quit claim from Louis Campion to the city. To erect a Court House will require an appropriation, to be voted on by the citizens of the entire county. A proposition to build elsewhere would probably be voted down by voters outside of the city and would also be opposed by many in the city, for the reason that to locate or build elsewhere would be to relinquish all title to the Park site. So that practically the question will be to erect, in the near future, a Court House on the Park, or no Court House at all."

Supervisor Benjamin, of the Third Ward, said: "I have read the decision of the Superior Court and judge and think it is right. When I was in the City Council I advocated having the City Hall and County Court buildings under one roof, in the Park, but as another site has been chosen for the City Hall, I think the county building should be erected on the Park. It will cost probably $25,000 to buy another site and then we will have to give up the claim to the Park altogether. The residents of the city have to pay four per cent. of the entire county taxes, and I think they will not wish to buy another site, when they can have this one gratis. If it is decided that the county title to the Park shall be in favor of submitting the proposition to the people at the coming spring election of taxing the county for the building of a Court House."

RELIEVED OF HIS CASH.

A Traveling Man Falls in With a Number of Momentary "Friends."

Yesterday morning F. H. Wherry, a traveling man who resides at Marshall, notified the detectives he had been fleeced by a local gang of fakirs and gamblers. He says that about 11 o'clock (note the hour), the evening before, he went into Hughes's saloon on South street, where he met several men. Five of the number followed him out of the saloon and when just outside they relieved him of his pocket book containing $50 in money and some bank notes. He is certain Tom Connor and Dan Beecher, two local characters of fame, performed the deed. He followed these parties to the Arden Hall, where he met Connor and dealt him a few dollars over the head with a loaded cane, inflicting a painful wound. He afterwards entered a complaint against the pair, but not being willing to lose time in remaining here to testify against the men, he will be heard further. The officers have no case without a witness, and the gamblers can smile at this piece of luck and try it again on the next victim. The dear, innocent little fakirs do not quake much over the man's proposition that they will give, at least a large number yet remain in the city.
