Anyway, the change in the location of the prize fight has let the world know the name of the governor of Nevada.

The fact that James J. Hill is on a fishing trip to Labrador would seem to indicate that he is not worrying over-time over the condition of the country or the outlook for the railroads.

Although the president signed the river and harbor bill, he did so with some regret. Moreover, he lets those who favor the pork barrel method know that he is not in sympathy with them.

There are morbidly constituted minds always ready to imagine the worst, when a question is presented involving the good name of a woman. The Methodist minister of a Chicago suburb whom a jury has found guilty of slander and cast in four thousand dollars damages because he circulated the story that there had been improper relations between a woman church member and another minister has been taught a lesson that he needed to learn.

The Zepplin without Count Zeppelin at the helm is like a ship without a rudder. This probably accounts for the disaster which attended yesterday's flight of the famous aerial express in Germany. The ship was in inexperienced hands and when an emergency arose they were at a loss to meet it. And yet the wreck of the craft is striking proof of the fact that aerial passenger transportation is far from perfect, being attended with danger that only the most reckless would care to face.

Pat Kelley has given it out that he has cut loose from Warner! After furnishing the campaign oratory for Warner for six years; after holding Fred's hat auto-campaigning with him for three terms; after repeatedly touring the state and telling the people that Warner was the quintessence of all that was pure and good; after defending the administration right up to last week, he comes out in a speech at Mt. Pleasant and says he is through with his chum! More power to ye, Pat. But you are late; two years too late. Had you made this declaration two years ago, and been sincere in it, the presumption is you would have had very little opposition now. Your declaration of last week but goes to prove that your six years eulogy of Warner was not what you tried to impress upon the people, and realizing this, the presumption is you will view your new smacks of political buncombe, for what can you do now without the aid of Warner's little job lot of office-holders?—Elkton Review.

According to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis more than $15,000,000 is paid annually to quacks who compound bogus consumption cures. Of course there is no method by which the actual figures can be obtained, and the association would have done better if it had not attempted to be statistical on that point.

The fact remains that quacks who pretend to cure consumption by means which are fraudulent on their face reap rich harvest out of sufferers who naturally grasp at straws. The association claims that more than $3,000,000 is expended in soliciting the patronage of victims, but perhaps that, too, is guesswork. It is true, however, and has been true for a long time, that about all of the quack cures for consumption contain morphine, opium and choloroform. They do not cure tuberculosis, but they lead to the formation of evil habits and hasten death.

There are three kinds of "cures" which are not cures. There are the nostrums which are sold over the counter, there are "institutes" which bleed their victims by aid of the mails and there are, finally, home-made remedies prepared in good faith but as "Music has charms"; harmony helps health.

Breathe freely and fully; the more you expand your chest the less you will contract colds.

The "milk of human kindness" is in no wise related to bad milk—the milk of human fiendishness.

When the sun shines take a run around the block; then another.

When you grow old live again with the young.

Most so-called chest protectors are targets for colds and coughs.

Long hours of labor mean short hours of life.

Fly season is here. The sooner you get rid of them the longer your baby will stay here.

Disease germs don't go visiting if you don't take them along.

Eat and drink moderately in order that you may do so again tomorrow.

Open windows close the door to consumption.

Any decent animal would rebel against the condition of our street cars. We not only "stand it" but we pay for it.

Air should be taken fresh from the winds of heaven; don't breathe canned or boxed air.

Run up your shades and let the sun's rays dance all over your house; they bring health without undue hilarity, nor will they wear out the carpets.

When you are asleep let fresh air as well as the angels guard over you.

Mothers' milk for mothers' children; cows' milk for calves.

Bottle fed children—an evidence of maternity run dry. Let the Fates weep.

"God lent his creatures life and air And waters open to the skies; Man locks him in a stifling lair. And wonders why his brother dies."

A green grass plot and leaf studded branches will do more for your health than man's concoctions.

"Earth to earth, ashes to ashes" is a motto which has no business over the cradle. Poverty and ignorance have put it there and keep it there; let us take it off.

The strenuous life is often the ruinous life.

When you don't know what to eat—eat nothing.

Work is wholesome; to idle is to add.

Strong drink makes weak men.

Teasing a baby to make it laugh is a crying shame.

If you "appreciate" the air when you come into the house you had better stay out.

Children of tender age working in factories means a crippled citizenship.

If you make a dust bag out of your lungs you may be throwing the first shovel full of earth on your own grave.

Barring accident, you should live as long as you want to if you live as you ought to.

An uncongenial occupation warps the body and withers the soul.

To be healthy, to be able to share in the world's work and get an adequate return, to repay posterity for the many gifts received—what greater good fortune can one desire?

Tight lacing is a narrow practice.

If we would appreciate the value of our health before it is broken it would depreciate less.

Foremost among the factors that make for good health are pure air, pure water, and pure food; the antagonistic factors are ignorance, carelessness, and cupidity.

Hygiene is humanity's hope.

A good laugh may help digestion.

Every room in the house should be the cleanest, the sleeping room the cleanest of them all.

Take an air bath whenever you can; the blood will murmur "Thank you" in tones of delicious surging and your skin will echo it.

Laughing is the sunshine of existence; flood yourself with it and let it overflow others.

Dark living rooms speedily plant candles at your head.

Evolution has released your teeth from the task of food getting—devote them to food chewing.

Good health is the best form of life insurance.

STATE POLITICS

Have you noticed that every Warner appointee is laboring incessantly for Kelley—and since Pat says he has "cut loose from Warnerism"? Isn't it significant? and doesn't it appear just a little ludicrous?—Shepherd Republican.

Pat Kelley's petition was circulated in this city for two weeks, and sent back with one solitary name. Pat is personally all right, but any man that is suspected of having been exposed to Warnerism, must be thoroughly fumigated before the fellows will tie up to him in this community.—St. Louis Leader.

This from the Isabella County Republican would not indicate that Mr. Kelley is so solid in Isabella, his old home, as his managers have tried to make it appear: "To anyone not familiar with the facts in the case, and judging from the write-up in a few papers, Patrick H. Kelley's 'opening speech' at Mt. Pleasant was a whirlwind of enthusiasm. As a matter of fact, the affair was a decided 'frost.' Not more than 40 voters were present, and of that number, a majority favor Chase S. Osborn for governor. There is no disguising the fact that Isabella county is overwhelmingly in favor of the Soo man for governor, and a talk with the leading republicans of the county will convince the skeptic upon this point."

Pat Kelley has given it out that he has cut loose from Warner! After furnishing the campaign oratory for Warner for six years; after holding Fred's hat auto-campaigning with him for three terms; after repeatedly touring the state and telling the people that Warner was the quintessence of all that was pure and good; after defending the administration right up to last week, he comes out in a speech at Mt. THE DAY'S GOOD STORIES

SHOULD HAVE BEEN THERE.

Father S.—was remarkable for his ready wit. On one occasion, while traveling on a steamboat, a well-known sharper, who wished to get in to the priest's good graces, said: "Father, I should like very much to hear one of your sermons."

"Well, said the clergyman, "you could have heard me last Sunday if you had been where you should have been."

THE WRONG PARTY.

There are two young men of St. Louis, partners in a business concern, the younger of whom for a long time was addicted to the habit of reading to the other extracts from letters of a tender nature penned by a young woman of Chicago signing herself "Claire."

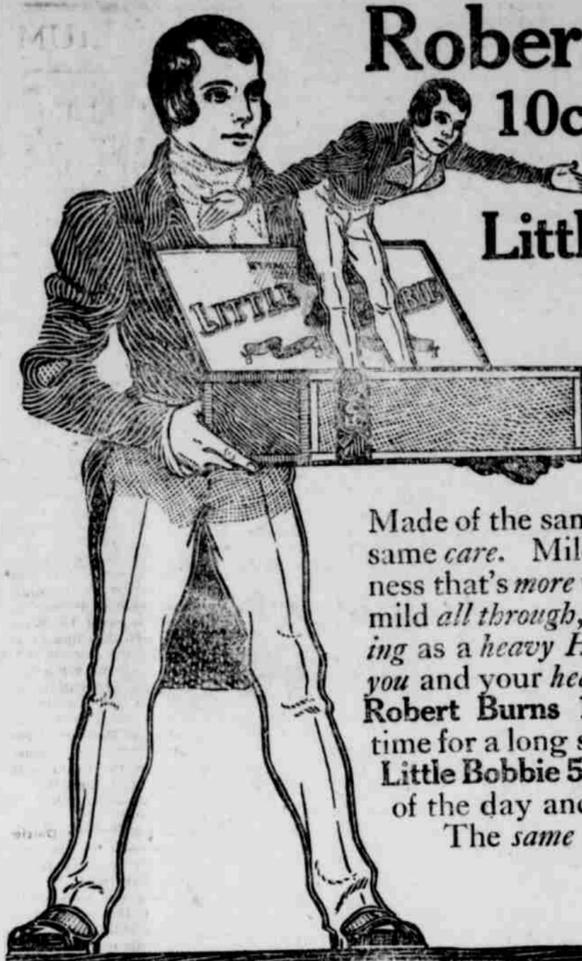

Not so very long after the elder partner returned from an eastern trip in time to attend the wedding reception of his friend and business associate.

In his best manner the senior of the firm offered his congratulations to the bride. "I do not feel that I am addressing a stranger," said he, "seeing that I have frequently had the honor and pleasure of hearing extracts from his darling Claire's letters."

"I beg your pardon," responded the bride, into whose eyes there crept a curious expression, "but my name is Violet."—The Independent.
