He relates the experiment with thrilling circumstantiality. Like the French Doctor, who, being attacked by a fatal epidemic, noted and wrote down the progress of the disease, as he was dying, for the instruction of the profession, this philanthropic Evansvillian records the steps in his experiment, for the good of "high-

We procured a half can of the first arrival.---When opened, the suspicious "critters" had a cream white apperance, and seemed fat and hearty. We ordered one-third stewed beats to the minute, a gain of one, and a very slight sensation only, of fullness about the stomach; breathing easy as yet, and a sensation of exhilaration in the system, and a kind of craving for food. After this examination, cook brought in the next two dozen fried in corn real, with a slight touch or shadowing of eggs there-on. These filled quite a large platter, and we thought certainly we should be able to extract something poisonous from that quantity of experimental matter. Taste very pleasant again-in fact more palatable than in the stewed condition. Time of destruction, fifteen and a half minutes, pulse 87, a gain of six—sensation of fullness about the stomach decidedly more apperent—breath-ing somewhat impeded—but the craving so ing somewhat impeded—but the craving so remarked before very much diminished.— Noticed the themometer, thinking the heat of the room inercased but astonished to find of the room increased but astonished to find it two degrees cooler than at the start.

Thinking that probably the process of applying heat to the vegetables had killed the poison, we ordered the remainder of the can two dozen large, to be brought raw. They FROM STILLWATER TO BLACK RIVER two dozen large, to be brought raw. They also filled quite a large plate, and had a plump fair appearance. We smeared them slightly with mustard, freshly mixed, and then sprinkled them with black pepper, fol-lowed that with a touch of vinegar, and last-ly covered them with a small quantity of fresh sweet oil.

fresh sweet oil. We knew these concomitants would develop the poison, if any could do so. The first application illustrated the 'sliding scale' in a magnificent manner. Each oyster appeared to have well greased wheels, while our throat was a railroad track laid with T rails. As we approached the last oyster, philanthropic Evansymant records the steps in his experiment, for the good of "high-feeders" and restaurant keepers: As the people of the West are receiving oysters by the ton, and especially at Evans-ville appears to have an unusual share of the commodity, we have been carefully carrying on private examinations, to asertain if we coald discover any poisonous qualities in

TO THE PHYSICIANS OF THE WEST, And to all who use Liquor as a Medicine, or as a Beverage :

Physicians who prescribe Alcoholic Liquors for med teinal purposes should give the preference to WOLFE's SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS.

1. It is manufactured at Schiedam, in Hosland, and exclusively in the factory of the proprietor, by pro cesses and from material elsewhere unemployed an unknown.

2. It is proved, by the repeated analysis of severa eminent chemists, to be entirely free from the perni cious fusil oil which remains in every kind of liquor dis tilled from grain, and which is the cause of the nervous and visceral derangement, serious congestion. and mor-bid desire for habitual and intemperate indulgence, which such liquors invariably tend to superinduce.

3. It is proved by the same unerring tests that the Juniper Gin is not flavored with the cearse, acrid and indigestil le oil of juniper heretofore used, but with the specifically lighter, more volatile, aromatic and medicinal of the two essential oils of the Italian juniper berry, neglected by every other manufacturer.

4. It is chemically "roved to be absolutely pure in its rectification-a quality obtained by an entirely new process, and which no other Holland Gin in the world has

5. It is proved by extensive medical experience and estimony, to be an efficient as well as an agreeable remedy in many cases of incipient dropsy, gratel, chro nic gout, rheumatism, flatulence, cells, concretions in the kidney and bladder, dyspepsis, fever and agu, general debility, sluggish circulation of the blood, deficient imilation of the food, rnd exhausted vital energy.

6. It is a most grateful and renovating cordial, at d when used as directed, never inflames the system or induces inebriety, but tends rather to subdue the latter frailty, by creating a dislike to all inferior liquors .--And it invariably corrects the ill effects of bad water, whether in swampy or limestone districts. In all of hese enumerated qualities it has no rival in any marset in the world.

Since the introduction of this celebrated medicinal everage into the United States, a number of Liquor Houses in New York and our other large cities have ommenced counterfeiting it. The genuine is only sold in quart and pint bottles, handsomely wrapped in yel-low paper, with my name on the bottle, cork, and label. I would advise those who use it medicinally, to purchase by the bottle, as Bars and Hotels frequently fill my bottles with common gin and sell it for genuine For sale by all the respectable Druggists in the United States.
