HOG CHOLERA PREVALENT

Appears Northwest of Carthage—Due to Deteriorated Vaccine?

Hog cholera has broken out in the droves northeast of Carthage.
 It is spreading rapidly, and already several hundred head of hogs have died. The origin of the cholera, according to reports brought to town by farmers, is due to deteriorated serum that one farmer is said to have injected into his hogs. It is the report that the farmer bought the serum in July, expecting to use it on his hogs at once. Being unfamiliar with its use and not noting the directions that it must be kept on ice during the hot weather, it is said he left it on a shelf for a month or more, being busy at something else.
 When he did inject it into his hogs, it had changed its anti-cholera action into an active cholera infection.

When the farmer's hogs died, instead of burning them at once, so the report goes, they were hauled off to a field. Buzzards found them and scattered the cholera germs broadcast.

So widespread has become the epidemic that County Agent Mote advises that every head of hogs in the county be given the vaccine treatment at once. This offers the only possible chance of saving the hogs in the county, he urges.

"Vaccine does not always cure a sick hog," Dr. W. J. Houser, veterinary, says, "but it will materially assist in the treatment.
 It will prevent spread of cholera among uninfected hogs. I have given it to hogs so sick they were down and helpless, offering no resistance to the injection, and brought them through alive, but it does not always act that way!"

Unless uninfected hogs are treated with the serum, farmers forecast that more than one-half of the hogs in Jasper county will die of cholera this fall. The condition is very serious.—Carthage

Shower for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown
 The members of the M. E.
 Church, South, tendered Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown a miscellaneous shower Tuesday of last week.

It was a very delightful occasion. The stringed orchestra of which Mr. Brown is a member furnished music during the evening and other interesting numbers on the program were rendered by Mrs. Fred Gresham, Miss Rina Jo Bedell and Miss Vesta Bennett.
 On opening the packages Mrs.
 Brown found many beautiful and useful gifts.

Cream and cake were served toward the close of the evening.

Baptist Church Notes.

Rev. H. H. Martin, one time of Moberly, Mo., but lately a resident of Elkhart, Kans., will preach at the Jasper Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening, October 10.

A fine Sunday School last Sunday. Three organized classes taking up graded work.

Saturday, October 9, at 2:30, a church business meeting will be held. All members urged to be present. The question of securing a regular pastor will come up for discussion.

A delegation from our Sunday School will attend the Sunday School athletic meet Saturday, October 9.

MAKE YOUR FAIR ENTRIES EARLY

Catalogs Are Out Showing a Cash Premium List of More Than $1200.

The new catalogs are being distributed and the work of getting exhibits ready for the big show October 19, 20 and 21 can be begun at once. Secretary Crawford asks us to urge the people to make their entries as early as possible as it is almost out of the question to get everything straight on the books when the people all wait until the last day to enter. Look the catalog over and decide what you think you'd like to show, whether it is a plate of doughnuts or a team of draft mares, then go to Mr. Crawford and get your entry tickets. If anything happens to prevent your showing after you have entered your stock or article, you have not lost anything by entering and you have helped to relieve the strain at the secretary's office.

Every exhibit is expected to be entered not later than 5 p. m., Monday October 18. If the people will observe this rule everything will be ready to show Tuesday morning instead of spoiling most of the first day of the fair getting ready.

Now let's all help.
 President Wine announces that Crawford's Comedians have agreed to come, and the music committee has engaged Mr. Walters of Lamar and his good band for the fair.

The farmers are getting their wheat in rapidly, and when October 19 rolls around we'll all be ready for a three days' rest and good time at the fair.

Mrs. Moulton Marries.

News came from Springfield last week of the marriage there of Mrs.
 Annie Moulton of Jasper and Mr.
 J. W. Owensby of Buffalo.

Mr. Owensby is a farmer of considerable means and land interests about Buffalo. Mrs. Owensby writes that she is very pleasantly situated in her new home at Buffalo and her many friends here are glad to hear of her happiness.

Town Property Changes Hands.

Wm. Casebolt and wife have sold their home on North Main street to C. A. Arnold and wife of the Blue Star neighborhood. It is understood that Mr. Arnold's son-in-law from Sedalia will move to the Arnold farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Casebolt bought the Dr. Embree property on South Main Street. H. G. Griffin conducted the latter trade.

Lumber Prices Are Cheaper...

We are giving our customers the benefit of the recent drop in the wholesale prices of lumber.

Do your repair work before stormy weather sets in. You can no longer afford to store your expensive farm machinery in the fence corner or under the trees.
 Build a machine shed for their protection and they will last much longer and soon save the price of the shed.

Cordz Family Move to Springfield.

Mr. L. A. Cordz wound up his business affairs here last week and with his family left for Springfield Tuesday. Mr. Cordz came here six or seven years ago and bought the Chandler & Son stock and with his sons conducted the business until two weeks ago when he sold out to the Rockport Department Store Co.

The Cordz family have a host of friends here who regret their departure, and while misfortune was their lot while here, in the loss of their sons and daughters, their friends wish for them a brighter future in their new home in Springfield.

Charles A. St John of Lauder, Wyo., was here last week visiting his cousin, Mrs. C. L. Embree.
